FUTURE SITE OF SMALL CRAFT HARBOR

San Rafael High Girl, Niece Drown On Picnic

Twin Sees Sister Swept To Death

By FRED WYATT

A San Rafael high school coed, who was planning a double wedding in June with her twin sister, and her 7-year-old niece were swept to death in the swift waters of Russian River yesterday.

Victims were Betty Jean Beckius, 18, and her niece, Mary Lorinda (Missy) Sprasky, both of 1210 Second Street, San Rafael. Witnesses to the double tragedy were Miss Beckius' twin sister, Jane, and Jane's fiance, Robert H. Neville, 23, of of Traveler's Inn, San Rafael.

The tragedy occurred between Drake's Beach and Rio Nido in the Sonoma County resort area yesterday afternoon.

Miss Beckius and Missy had gone wading at Drake's Beach about 2:15 p.m., Neville said, when they lost their footing, either as result of the river's fierce flow or from stepping into a hole in the river bed.

As Neville raced down the river bank, the tumbling waters carried the victims downstream for about one-quarter of a mile. Both vanished at Rio Nido.

HOUR'S WAIT

The tragedy climaxed a picnic the four had begun after Neville had completed his midnight-to-8-a.m. shift as a communications employee for Quantas Airways in San Francisco.

"We arrived at Drake's Beach about noon," Neville said. "We immediately had lunch. Betty Jean and Missy waited about an hour before going wading. It happened about 2:15."

The twin girls were to have graduated June 15, said their mother, Mrs. Beckius, with whom they lived.

"They were to have been married June 16 in a double ceremony at St. Raphael's Church," she sobbed.

FATHER LEARNS

Their father, Elmer Beckius, formerly a Marin carpenter, from whom Mrs. Beckius is separated, flew down from his position as an employee of the City of Roseburg, Ore., when he learned of the tragedy.

The twin who drowned was to have married Gary Youtz, 25, airman first class, transferred two months ago from Hamilton Air Force Base to Colorado Springs, Colo.

Youtz and Neville were good friends who had served in the Air Force at Hamilton Field together. Neville recently was discharged and joined the airways. He had moved to the hotel in San Rafael to seek an apartment.

The 7-year-old niece was the daughter of Mrs. Lucy Sprasky

Rebels Called Pro-Castro In Ecuador

QUITO, Ecuador (AP)—The Army today clamped a state of emergency in north-central Ecuador and hinted Castro-armed, pro-Communist guerrillas are rebelling against the government of President Julio Carlos Arosemena.

Army reinforcements were rushed into the jungle-covered Andean foothills less than 50 miles from this South American mountain capital.

Press reports said at least one soldier was killed and several persons were wounded. The army said it captured 30 insurgents.

Government officials refused to disclose details of the operation or comment on unconfirmed reports of similar uprisings in the Quevedo area of west-central Ecuador.

The rebels were described as members of the pro-Castro Revolutionary Union of whom received guerrilla warfare training in Cuba.

The uprising followed within 48 hours Cuban Prime Minister Fidel Castro's public denunciation of Arosemena as a drunken coward for breaking diplomatic relations with Havana, and the Cuban leader's prediction Arosemena would be overthrown.

Arosemena reluctantly severed Ecuador's ties with Cuba, Communist Poland and Czechoslovaka last week, under pressure of the military.

RICHARDS TELLS DEMOS HOW TO WIN

Says Party's State Work 'Tremendous'

By CHAPIN A. DAY

Democratic workers must "correctly interpret to the voters the tremendous record of the administration in this state" to elect Democrats to office, State Sen. Richard Richards of Los Angeles said last night.

Richards was speaking before a crowd of 125 at a dinner honoring Robert D. Carrow of Novato, Democratic candidate for Assembly in this Seventh Assembly district. The senator said that the record includes "the best highways, the finest schools, the most advanced social welfare, and the finest civil rights program in any state of the Union."

He lashed out at Republican gubernatorial candidate Richard M. Nixon and lieutenant governor candidate Mayor George Christopher. Christopher had "angered" him, he said, by unwarranted attacks in Lt. Gov. Glenn Anderson. And Nixon he characterized as the "only man in public life you can smear just by quoting him."

Richards, himself a candidate for U. S. Senate against Republican incumbent Thomas Kuchel, hardly mentioned his own candidacy and did not mention Kuchel at all. He declared, however, that education is the vital issue both at home and overseas.

25-Cent North Bay Span Toll Is Suggested

The Association of Bay Area Governments wondered out loud last night why the 75-cent toll on the Richmond-San Rafael Bridge cannot be cut to say 25 cents.

The executive committee of the association, which includes Mayor John F. McInnis of San Rafael, met in San Francisco last night to discuss uniform tolls for Bay Area bridges.

On a motion by Supervisor James Kenny of Contra Costa and a second by McInnis, the committee directed executive director Wilber E. Smith to write to Robert B. Bradford, director of the State Department of Public Works.

"I think if fares were reduced to 25 cents, patronage on the bridge would increase and the bonds would be paid sooner," said Kenny.

Marin City Project Is Hotly Defended

The designing architect of Marin City yesterday hotly defended the public housing project in the face of charges by government auditors that construction costs were "unnecessarily wasteful."

The charges were "ridiculous," said San Francisco architect Aaron Green, designer of the housing project in association with John Warnecke, also of San Francisco.

"This is an example of mediocrity in government—the kind of thinking responsible for the low standard of the public housing image on a national plane," Green said.

The auditors' charges were contained in a report to Congress from the general accounting office which said high construction costs might have been the result of "uneconomical design features and use of expensive materials."

The examiners admitted the over-all cost of the project—4.5 million dollars—was within the legal limit, but said the average cost per room for 755 rooms in the high rise buildings on the 365-acre site had exceeded the legal $2,500-per-room limit by about $225.

The total cost was kept below the legal maximum because the cost or rooms in one and two story buildings was below the maximum limitation.

"We don't feel we have a thing to apologize for," Green said.

"The architects dedicated themselves to do a better job than the usual horrible examples of public housing prevalent throughout the country."

Bert Klahn, director of the Marin County Housing Authority, said the project was not extravagant in any way. "We are proud of it. We feel it is a step in the right direction for future housing projects," Klahn said.

Green, who said the charges were "obviously made by people who are uninformed," maintained they met the budget despite difficulties of construction on marshland and unusual terrain.

"The government should be proud of our use of materials calculated to be of long lasting value," the architect said. "We

I-J MAGAZINE MARKS LIBRARY WEEK OPENING

To mark the opening of National Library Week, today's issue of your Independent-Journal Marin Magazines features stories on two kinds of library systems in Marin.

There's a story on the development of the Mill Valley School District's library system, and another feature on the Dorothy Canfield Fisher Award-winning public library in that same city.

Still another magazine feature tells you about a fast-growing sport in the North Bay Area—skydiving.

Health Law Told For Community Potlucks

Community potluck dinners, lunches or other meals open to the public "must be prepared in an approved kitchen, not in private homes," Marin health officer Dr. Carolyn B. Albrecht, pointed out today.

Her statement was based on an attorney general's opinion issued last Jan. 29 on the revised State Restaurant Act passed last September.

Such meals require inspection and approval, at no cost, by the health department, she said. She asked that organizations planning such events inform the health department at least one week in advance so that inspections may be made.

The act does not apply to sale by a non-profit organization to the public of food for consumption off the premises, she said.

The act does not apply to the serving of meals by a non-profit organization to its members and their guests—provided no employee or member is assigned full-time to care for and operate equipment: But the law does apply where such

Brown Signs Transit Bill —No Change

Gov. Edmund G. Brown has signed a bill designed to give a better chance of success to the 900 Million dollar bond issue proposed by the San Francisco Bay Area Rapid Transit District, the Associated Press reported today.

The measure does not appear to have changed Marin County's position, County Counsel E. Warren McGuire said. Marin supervisors have voted against withdrawal, despite suggestions by district officials.

The measure signed by the governor was introduced by Sen. George Miller (D-Martinez), the AP reported from Sacramento. It would permit dissenting counties to drop out of the district before voters act on the bond plan, proposed for the November general election.

Previously the counties could not withdraw until six months after final plans for the transit system had been submitted to county supervisors.

The new bill merely would permit them to drop out sooner, if they should choose, McGuire said.

The transit plans were hard hit first by refusal of Santa Clara County to join and more recently by San Mateo County's decision to withdraw.

Cuba Is Freeing Seven Americans

FORT LAUDERDALE, Fla. (AP) — Seven American treasure hunters under arrest in Cuba expect to leave there tomorrow, the captain of the expedition telephoned his wife today.

"The Cuban government has cleared us," Gordon S. Patton reported. (See also page 2.)

Mrs. Patton said her husband also told her: "We expect to leave by plane, possibly tomorrow."

Fair, Balmy Today —Cooler Tomorrow

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—Most of Northern California basked under continued fair skies and balmy temperatures today, but forecasters predicted cooler weather in the Bay Area tomorrow.

Today's high was expected to be 74, ranging upward to 78 in Oakland, 79 in San Mateo and 82 in San Rafael. Lows tonight should be 48-54. Westerly winds of 12-25 miles per hour in the afternoons and evening are forecast.

WORLD NEWS IN BRIEF

French Going To Polls Tomorrow

PARIS (AP) — French voters are expected to give the massive approval President Charles de Gaulle seeks when they ballot in tomorrow's referendum ratifying peace accords paving the way for Algerian independence.

Some observers predicted up to 90 per cent of the voters would favor the cease-fire.

But several big political parties have refused to accept de Gaulle's contention that approval of the accord would mean endorsement of his past actions and a mandate to go ahead as he sees fit.

The Communists and Socialists have strongly favored peace in Algeria, but they insist their votes cannot be considered approval of de Gaulle's policies in other fields.

De Gaulle closed his campaign for the referendum with a radio-television broadcast last night. He repeated his plea for a big turnout and said he would find "the testimony of your confidence" in a yes vote.

'Glue-Sniffing'

BRODERICK (UPI) — An 18-year-old laborer, first Californian arrested for "glue-sniffing," will be sentenced here Monday on a misdemeanor charge.

Edward Viramontez was arrested Thursday night by Yolo County sheriff's officers who said the youth had "demolished" his family's home while under the intoxicating effects of fumes inhaled from tubes of model airplane glue.

The arrest was made possible by an ordinance passed in February by the Yolo County Board of Supervisors. The penalty can be a maximum $500 fine and six months in jail.

U.S. Nuclear Blast

WASHINGTON (AP) — The 26th announced nuclear test in this country's current series was set off underground yesterday at the Atomic Energy Commission's Nevada test site.

Like the 25th shot announced Thursday, today's blast was described as of low yield—meaning it had a blast equivalent of not more than 20,000 tons of TNT.

Talks On Berlin

WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States and Russia reportedly will reopen their talks next week on the Berlin situation.

And Undersecretary of State George W. Ball said the Allies were "making some major decisions about how to go forward" with the talks.

Dies Of Smallpox

CARDIFF, Wales (AP) — A woman died from smallpox in a Welsh mental hospital today and eight other patients in the same ward were reported afflicted with the disease.

Thirty-six other women are under observation. Their ages range from 55 to 75.

Dick Flies To Wife

PARIS (UPI) — British actor Richard Burton flew into Paris for a reunion with his wife today and shrugged off the question when asked if he would marry actress Elizabeth Taylor.

"I'm already married," the husky Briton said.

Burton's wife, former actress Sybil Williams, flew into Paris' Le Bourget Airport from London a half hour before Burton's plane arrived at Orly Airport from Rome —where earlier today he had gone night clubbing into the wee hours with Miss Taylor.

"Sounds like a summit meeting," muttered a British newsman who was part of the small army of reporters and photographers who greeted Burton at Orly.

"Why not?" Burton shot back when a newsman asked him if he planned to see his wife.

"After all, she's my wife. And, in fact, she's waiting for me now at the hotel."

Award For Japanese

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The United States presented its highest award for foreigners yesterday to a man who helped plan the attack on Pearl Harbor.

The Legion of Merit was given to Japanese Gen. Minoru Genda for his "exceptionally meritorious conduct" while serving as chief of staff of the Japanese Air Self Defense Force between July 18, 1959 and March 31, 1962.

The award was made in Tokyo by Gen. Lyman L. Lemnitzer, chairman of the U.S. Joint Chiefs of Staff, who is touring the Far East.

Officials here said the award was made with the full knowledge that it might raise objections. But they said Genda's work during the 21 years of peace since Pearl Harbor merited recognition.

The general caused an international flurry last year in London by saying the Japanese should have followed up their attack on Pearl Harbor with other attacks. Officials said Genda's statement was made as a professional military man and was also the opinion of most U.S. military men, who felt Japan should have taken more advantage of their temporary victory.

USSR Pickle Week?

CHICAGO (UPI) — The National Pickle Packers Assn. mailed a proclamation to Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev yesterday asking him to declare May 24-June 2 pickle week in the USSR.

Former Banker Dies

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Alfred J. Gock, 72, financier and former board chairman of the Bank of America, died yesterday.

Gock, who retired in 1954 as a bank officer, was chairman of the board of Consolidated Freightways, Inc., at the time of his death.

Desegregation Supported-- Threat To Life

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — A Roman Catholic layman says his life was threatened after he appeared on television to announce formation of a committee supporting desegregation of parochial schools.

The layman, Harold F. Dittmann, said he had received telephone threats "to blow my brains out" after he was interviewed on a news program. He asked for police protection.

Five other men who joined Dittman in forming "Catholic laymen supporting school integration" had a midnight conference with Co-adjutor-Archbishop John Patrick Cody. There were no announcements following the meeting.

BISHOP'S LETTER

In another development in the 11-day-old dispute over a decision to desegregate parochial schools in the archdiocese, Mrs. B. J. Gaillot Jr., disclosed contents of a letter from Archbishop Joseph Francis Rummel threatening her with excommunication.

Dittmann was interviewed on a television news program concerning the new organization, the first in New Orleans to endorse Archbishop Rummel's desegregation decision.

The group issued a statement criticizing other Catholic organizations—Knights of Columbus, Holy Name Society and Catholic Daughters of America —for not having the "courage to step forward to denounce publicly the erroneous opinions" of those attacking the archbishop's decision and favoring segregation.

TWO CHILDREN

Mrs. Gaillot, who has two children in Catholic schools, led her small Save Our Nation, Inc., group in picketing the homes of Rummel and his coadjutor after the desegregation decision.

The archbishop's letter to Mrs. Gaillot said: "We deem it our duty to admonish you that any further attempt by you through word or deed to hinder our orders or provoke our devoted people to disobedience or rebellion against the church will subject you to excommunication."

Mrs. Gaillot, who contends God demands segregation, has vowed to accept excommunication unless she is shown the error in her interpretation of the Bible.

TWO REACTIONS — Cherry Blossom Princesses Kathleen Knous (left) of Colorado and Frances Pastore of Rhode Island register opposite expressions as first Miss Knous and then Miss Pastore was named Queen of the National Cherry Blossom Festival in Washington. (AP Wirephoto)

Wheel Of Fortune Is Strange

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The wheel of fortune did a double take and resulted last night in designation of co-queens for the annual Washington Cherry Blossom Festival.

But a ticklish dilemma concerning who would wear the specially made gown of the queen was solved by the girls —Frances Elizabeth Pastore of Providence, R. I., and Kathleen Knous of Denver, Colo.

They agreed that Miss Pastore would wear the cherry blossom queen original — a pink soft chiffon sheath with a backswept skirt and a hand-beaded empire top, valued at about $300. Miss Knous was equally radiant for the unprecedented double coronation in a pink satin bouffont gown; price about $200.

Miss Knous, who had been the apparent winner of a spin of a wheel before it did a flip backward, chose the second gown.

Vice President Lyndon B. Johnson was in the crowd for the traditional wheel-spinning.

There were a few moments of confusion when the unpredictable wheel — containing the names of the states of all the 52 festival princesses — first stopped on Colorado, and then backed up to Rhode Island.

The crowd already was applauding Miss Knous, daughter of Colorado Lt. Gov. Robert Lee Knous, when the wheel did its second take. There was a murmuring of grumbling, and Johnson's voice could be heard above the din, booming "Co-princesses (queens)! Co-princesses!"

Miss Pastore said she didn't realize what had happened. "I was clapping my hands for Kathy, then somebody next to me started pushing me forward and saying I had won," she said. "I thought they were joking."

The judges decided in the interests of fairness and the sensitivities of young girls to make the girls co-queens. They weepingly congratulated each other and everybody was happy today.

U.S. Working To Free 7 'Frogmen' From Cuba

WASHINGTON (AP) — The State Department says it is working through the Swiss government to obtain release of seven U.S. skindivers arrested in Cuba.

Secretary of State Dean Rusk said last night he anticipated no difficulty in gaining freedom for the men, believed to be the same ones for whom the U.S. Coast Guard has been searching. Rusk said the men were innocent adventurers en route to Jamaica to explore for sunken treasure.

Havana radio, describing the seven as "so-called frogmen," said they were arrested Thursday off the north coast of Oriente Province. Later, a semiofficial Havana television commentator, Marion Kuchilan, called the seven invaders, hinting that they might face serious charges in Cuba.

The Coast Guard had been searching since Wednesday for a boat carrying seven skindivers. Coast Guard officials called off the search pending further developments, although the Cuban broadcasts had not identified the men by name.

Relatives of the missing men speculated they might have drifted into Cuban waters while searching for sunken ships and undersea treasure. Their boat left Pompano Beach, Fla., Saturday and was due in Jamaica Tuesday.

The seven men sought by the Coast Guard and believed to be the ones held in Cuba, were identified in Miami as:

Gordon S. Patton, 62, Ocean City, Md., charter boat and maritime museum operator; Fred Dickson Jr., 32, formerly of Ocean City, Md., assistant cruise director; Mike Freeman, 37, Washington, D.C., underwater photographer; John Sterry, 28, Brewster, N.Y.; John E. Johnson, 21, and Joe Campbell, 20, Washington, D.C., and Bernie Nistad, Brooklyn, N.Y.

Ship Strike Mediation Abandoned

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Efforts to settle the West Coast maritime strike by mediation have been abandoned.

President John F. Kennedy's three-man special mediation panel last night gave up efforts to settle the three-week-old strike after two days of separate talks with both sides. The panel flew to Washington to report no progress to Secretary of Labor Arthur J. Goldberg.

Goldberg and other Cabinet members will confer with the president who will then decide whether to interrupt the strike by using his power under the Taft-Hartley Act.

Hawaii Gov. William F. Quinn disclosed in Honolulu that an affidavit outlining effects of the strike has been mailed to the Justice Department in Washington. Quinn said the department wanted the affidavit by Monday for the president's consideration.

Willard Wirtz, chairman of the mediation panel and also under-secretary of labor, said after the meeting here: "We find the parties too far apart to offer any settlement through mediation."

Library Week Starting Tomorrow

Mill Valley Gets Award —$1,000

"Read and Watch Your World Grow," this year's library week slogan, will be demonstrated in numerous and dramatic ways by public libraries throughout Marin beginning tomorrow.

Librarians and others from throughout the county will gather at the Outdoor Art Club tomorrow for the open house from 3 to 6 p.m. by the Mill Valley Library. At 4 p.m. Mrs. Carma Leigh, California state librarian, will present Mill Valley librarian Mrs. Dorothy Thomas with the $1,000 Dorothy Canfield Fisher Award won by her library for excellence in a city of less than 25,000.

The Tamal branch of the county library will hold open house from 2 to 5 p.m. Thursday to celebrate its new location at Shoreline Highway and Poplar Street, Tamalpais Valley. Librarian Mrs. Virginia Keating announced. The Board of Supervisors, county administrator and others have been invited.

The county library's Corte Madera branch will have a display featuring the new charging desk presented to it by the Corte Madera Women's Club, Mrs. Keating said. The Novato branch will feature a special display of books devoted to the theme, "The Library and the Community."

Mill Valley's library will advertise the week with slogans on both its floors and give out special bookmarks to children and adults.

San Rafael's library will have a display of three globes of varying sizes in its main window along with various types of books to illustrate how the world grows in the minds of those who read, Librarian Mrs. Vivian Smith said.

The San Anselmo library will display latest books and the nation's best sellers in the main reading room under a large poster created by assistant librarian Mrs. Robert Scott, said librarian Virginia Stewart. Children will be given bookmarks and the library will feature children's books by these Marin authors:

Glen Dines, Edith and Thatcher Hurd, Lillian Pohlman, Adrian Stoutenburg, Sandol Warburg, Bart Benedict and Martha Goldberg.

Larkspur's library just about spent its budget for the year by laying in 200 new books to celebrate the week, said librarian Helen S. Wilson.

"A good many of the books are of world-wide interest," she said. They will be on display in both junior and adult sections.

New books and best sellers will be displayed in Sausalito's library, said librarian Mrs. Austin F. Ripley. Posters will be made of book jackets. Such a display of jackets on the front door will feature international and world problems. Her library also will give out special bookmarks.

Friends of the Library Assn. will help decorate the Sausalito library with flowers through the week, she said. In addition there will be material explaining the library's membership in the North Bay Cooperative Library System.

Along with the county and Mill Valley libraries and those in a number of other cities in Solano, Napa and Mendocino Counties, the Sausalito library uses a teletype circuit for arranging of books. A truck regularly circulates the books from library to library—so that a book not owned by one library may be borrowed for one of its readers from one of the other libraries.

Films are exchanged in the same way, Mrs. Ripley said.

The Marin libraries will be joining those in more than 5,000 other communities in the 50 states observing national library week. Sixty national organizations are supporting the week, which will be in its fifth year.

Cited by the organizations as proof of the continuing life of American libraries is a comment by author John Steinbeck, who based numerous of his books in the state:

"It is wonderful that even today, with all the competition of records, of radio, of television of motion pictures, the book has kept its precious character. . .when books are burned the ultimate in tyranny has happened. This we cannot forgive. . ."

PUPPETS INTERESTED, TOO —Lee Matson, 9-year-old Mill Valley pupil, takes along Puss in Boots and Court Jester puppets on visit to Mill Valley Public Library to look up theater material in reference section. This section was largely responsible for Mill Valley Library's winning Dorothy Canfield Fisher award, presentation of which will make beginning of Library Week tomorrow. (Independent-Journal photo)

Redwood High Sister School Exchange Due

Redwood High School will exchange students next fall with its sister school in Germany under Redwood's newest exchange program, the Student Affiliation Service.

Johannes Matthias Schmidt, 15, a student at the Volksoberschule in Preetz, Germany, will come in September to spend his junior year at Redwood High.

Patricia Lesko, 15, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Clarence A. Lesko, 50 Corte De Sablo, Greenbrae, and a sophomore at Redwood, will go to Germany in July and will spend her junior year at Schmidt's school. She will live with Schmidt's family.

DEAN OF GIRLS

Schmidt will live with Mr. and Mrs. Frank E. Wulzen, 230 Bretano Way, Greenbrae. Mrs. Wulzen is dean of girls at Redwood High.

Robert Mautner, exchange student program advisor at Redwood, says the school has been affiliated with the German school in Preetz for two years, but this is the first student exchange. The program is sponsored by the American Friends Service Committee.

"We've exchanged samples of school work and have cooperated on classroom projects," Mautner said. "We plan to complete in an international track meet next September. Each school will plan the same events on the same day, and we'll compare scores. We also will eventually exchange teachers.

LIKE REDWOOD

"The school in Preetz is more like Redwood than most European schools. It's an experimental co-educational school in a town of about 13,000 people. The school even looks much like our our."

Redwood also participates in the American Field Service exchange program for senior students and the Experiment in International Living, a program in which Redwood students are sent overseas during summer vacations.

The school has been active in both programs for four years.

Youth Orchestra Concert Tomorrow

The Marin Youth Orchestra, directed by Hugo Rinaldi, will present a concert tomorrow at 7:30 p.m. in Angelico Hall, Dominican College, San Rafael.

Mary Adele Larson of Mill Valley, a senior in Dominican Upper School, will be soloist in the first movement of Schumann's Piano Concerto in A Minor. The program will include the Tancredi Overture by Rossini, Concertino for Strings by Ricciotti and Symphony No. 2 by Giannini.

City Clerk Is Sole Issue In Sausalito

Shall the office of city clerk be appointive in Sausalito?

This is the sole measure to be voted upon in Tuesday's election, when Sausalito voters go to the polls to select two candidates to fill the expiring seats of Councilmen George Keeney and Marjorie Brady.

The city clerk's post is now held by City Manager Charles A. Brown. The position is now elective and has been held by Brown since the retirement of City Clerk Amelia L. Smith last year.

Most of the city clerk's duties have been transferred from the post in the past five years, including elections (other than municipal), fiscal functions, assessing and tax collection.

In July of last year Brown began receiving $200 as city clerk, this sum being deducted from his city manager's salary. The result was that he receives the same total salary for both jobs as before the change. Up to March 21 Brown received $750 a month. A raise has been approved of $75 per month and he now receives $825.

The entire city council has recommended a "yes" vote on the measure to make the post appointive. Warren V. Glass Jr. has recommended against the measure.

The council favors the measure saying the duties of city clerk now include only keeping of records of the legislative body, official ordinance books, legal records and acting as secretary to the city council. The argument in favor of the measure reads as follows:

"Over the past few years the city council has proceeded to improve its government and organization for greater efficiency and effectiveness. Along with the addition of a city manager, the fiscal responsibilities are being placed in a department of finance. Record keeping, minutes and planning municipal elections are carried out by deputy clerks . . . since the fiscal and assessment duties are no longer vested in the position of city clerk and other duties are clerical, it is not necessary or desirable to maintain the position as an elective one."

They also add that in past years the trend in California is to make the position appointive.

Glass maintains the post should remain elective so citizens may choose the person for this "important position." He says "the theory of 'checks and balances' was established by the Constitution of the U.S. to prevent centralizing the power of government in one person or branch. Those tax collecting functions which have been given to the county were never a part of the job of city clerk. If the voters submit to the abolition of this elective position, they will lose the right to have their elective representatives review the acts of the administration."

Breeders Co-Op Elect Directors From Marin

Three directors, all from Marin, were elected for three-year terms at the annual meeting of Pacific Breeders Co-op., Inc., at Cotati this week.

They are Clarence Rogers of Olema, Joe Nunes of Novato, and W. L. Hepworth of Tomales. Hepworth succeeded Armin Truttman of Olema, who retired after 12 years.

President William Bianchini reported the dairymen's organization expanded to Lodi, Turlock and Hawaii in 1961. He said the co-op appointed an exporting firm to handle sales in foreign countries.

General manager Abe Solomon said several new sires had been acquired. He requested dairymen to take a more active part in promoting milk sales and establishing the economic policies of the dairy industry on a national level.

HAFB Job Opening

Applications for the position of woodworker at Hamilton Air Force Base may be obtained at any post office, the Army and Air Force Board of U. S. Civil Service Examiners announced today at 180 New Montgomery Street, San Francisco. Pay is $2.96 an hour. Applications should be mailed to the board, examiners said.

Terra Linda Service Station Burglarized

About $30 in cash and a set of German metric tools valued at $300 were stolen sometime Thursday night from the Terra Linda Union Oil Service at 929 Del Presidio, San Rafael police reported.

An employee of the station, Robert Charles James of 39 Meerna Avenue, Fairfax, discovered the burglary at 6:30 a.m. yesterday when he opened the station for business. Police said a rear window had been broken.

Tam Valley Club Urges Flood Control Solution

The Tamalpais Valley Improvement Club has urged Rep. Clem Miller (D-Corte Madera) to press for a solution to gain flood control in Richardson Bay drainage basin.

It is especially concerned with control along Coyote Creek in Tamalpais Valley, president Harold Stockstad said.

The club has also asked Marvin W. Brigham, county director of public works, to improve the bridge at Poplar Street and Shoreline Highway.

The bridge is considered hazardous for efficient operations of fire equipment as well as safety of residents.

Jack Melin, son of Mr. and Mrs. Carlton G. Melin, presented $9.50 to the club directors Thursday night. He had collected the money in sales of rhubarb.

The rhubarb is grown by his mother and is sold each year to help publicize the rhubarb revue held annually. This year's revue is to be April 27, 28, May 4, 5, 11, 12 and 18, 19.

Stockstad announced that a new editor is needed for the Tamalpais Valley Progress, the club's monthly paper.

County's TB Health Office To Be Moved

The Marin Tuberculosis and Health Assn. will move its office to 1010 Grand Avenue, San Rafael, on May 1, Mrs. William Hoxie, president announced today.

The Christmas Seal association's ofices have been at 801 B Street for 11 years, said Mrs. Hoxie.

"With the increase in population in the county, the association's campaign files and minifilm X-ray files have grown, and the association's program has increased, thus making larger office quarters essential," she said. "Although the paid office staff has remained at the same number during the past 10 years, the volunteer staff has increased, creating a further need for more space and a better parking area,"

The telephone number will not be changed.

Strange Tree Grows—Down

KENT, Ohio (UPI)—That tree on the home grounds which grows into the ground like a telegraph pole may be attempting suicide.

This type of growth often is the clue to girdling roots, a development often found with trees growing in restricted areas. Result is a cutting off of the sap supply to the top, reports Davey tree researchers. The normal tree has buttress at ground level, while the "suicide" tree may grow straight into the ground.

The Norway mapel in particular has great suicidal tendencies.

Mill Valley Fire Victims Need Home

A home is urgently needed by the James H. Jensen family, whose Mill Valley home burned Thursday.

An appeal for help was issued today by the American Red Cross, 712 Fifth Avenue, San Rafael. Mrs. John Shortridge, home service worker, says the family needs a two-bedroom home, partially furnished, less than $125 a month.

Jensen, who is a Coast Guard officer, his wife Billie, and their three children, Dana, 8, Ginger, 6, and Deborah, 4, lost their home at 414 Throckmorton Avenue as well as many possessions. Some furniture was salvaged, however.

Mrs. Jensen may be contacted through the American Red Cross or at the home of Mr. and Mrs. William R. Ditt, 412 Throckmorton Avenue, Mill Valley.

4th Postponement For Recreation Unit

The Larkspur - Corte Madera Joint Recreation Commission Thursday night—for the fourth consecutive time — postponed its make-up scheduled meeting.

The reason for the postponement was a lack of quorum, the same reason as the three previous postponements. The commission again set a make-up meeting, this time for April 19.

New Marin Custom Carpet Firm Opens

Custom Carpets of Marin, 353 Third Street, San Rafael, has been opened by H. James Thompson of Corte Madera and Harold Kiefer of San Rafael.

Until last year Thompson had been 26 years with Sterling Furniture Co. in San Francisco. He returned last December from a five-month trip in South America during the Brazilian revolt. He is a former mayor of Corte Madera and lives at 141 Crescent Road.

Kiefer, who has lived in Marin County for 14 years, said he is a retired heating and air conditioning salesman. His home is at 10 Harbor Street, San Rafael.

Custom Carpets is engaged in retailing floor coverings, Thompson announced. He noted that the store is too small to carry large stocks but said the firm has extensive samples of Philadelphia carpets and "other top grade lines."

The store is located in the mall of the Montecito Shopping Center.

Policeman's Busy Last Half Hour

RENSSELAER, N.Y. (AP) — Ben Handford will always remember his last half-hour as a member of the police force here.

He was set to turn in his badge at 8 p.m. He planned to take a less-dangerous job as a store manager.

Sitting in a police car with his partner, Patrolman Thomas Poole, Handford said, "Only a little while to go—we'll probably get some nut with a gun."

Twenty minutes later, they arrested a man at gunpoint after a high-speed chase. The man had a shotgun and several shells beside him on the front seat of his automobile.

Hub City Chamber Sets Grand Opening

San Anselmo Chamber of Commerce directors decided Thursday to hold the grand opening for new chamber offices April 26.

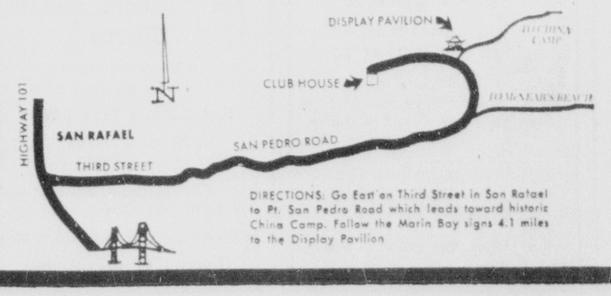

The chamber will hold open house for all merchants and city officials from 3 to 7 p.m. at its new headquarters at 731 Sir Francis Drake Boulevard, said vice president Mrs. Patricia Mann.

'If God Is Not Mentioned'

By LOUIS CASSELS
U.P. INTERNATIONAL

Is there a place in public schools for prayers, Bible reading and other religious observances?

That question is being argued throughout America, in sermons and editorials, at school board hearings and P-TA meetings, in kaffee klatches and court rooms.

At whatever level the debate is joined, it usually involves three distinct issues:

1. Are religious exercises in public schools constitutional?

2. Are they fair to children of minority faiths?

3. Do they help or hinder a child's religious training?

The issue of constitutionality will soon come before the U.S. Supreme Court. It has accepted for review a case in which Jewish, Unitarian and agnostic parents challenge the use in New York State schools of the following prayer:

"Almighty God, we acknowledge our dependence upon Thee, and we beg Thy blessings upon us, our parents, our teachers and our country."

The prayer was carefully designed to be "non-sectarian." But the protesting parents assert that its use puts public schools in the position of "favoring religious belief over non-belief." And that, they contend, a tax-supported institution is forbidden by the Constitution to do.

Related to the constitutional issue is the question of fairness to children of minority faiths. The prevailing practice in many communities is to recite the Lord's prayer at school opening exercises. Thus, a Jewish child must be compelled to recite a Christian prayer.

Some schools have tried to resolve the problem by building their religious exercises around Old Testament readings which are common to Jewish and Christian traditions.

This effort to please everyone also has encountered sharp criticism from some Jewish and Christian leaders.

Without suggesting that prayer and Bible reading at school opening exercises constitute an adequate religious education for any child, many other protestants and catholics nonetheless feel that such observances are better than nothing.

The alternate, they point out, is to banish the name of God entirely from the public school classrooms of America. If that is done, they warn, future generations will grow up regarding God as improbable or unimportant, since he is never mentioned at school.

The Rev. Richard U. Smith, a religious education specialist of the Episcopal Church, sees another danger. "If public schools become less religious than they are now," he says, "there will be a growing clamor for parochial schools and a weakening of our public schools."

It is worth noting, in this connection, that many Protestant bodies which have never had a parochial school tradition are seriously considering whether it may be necessary for churches to provide an alternative to "Godless" public schools.

Belvedere Church Plans 'Quiet Day'

A Quiet Day—five hours of silent meditation—will be held at St. Stephen's Church in Belvedere next Thursday under the guidance of the Rev. Robert E. Hoggard, associate pastor of Grace Cathedral in San Francisco.

Friends and Marin County Episcopalians are invited to take part, beginning with Holy Communion at 10 a.m. Participants should bring their own sandwich lunches. The Quiet Day ends at 3 p.m.

Rev. Haggard served as a minister in the Salvation Army during the 1940-41 Blitz in his native London and was recognized by King George VI for his services. Prior to the war he held a pastorate in Blackpool, and in the years 1941-44, directed USO work in Trinidad in the British West Indies.

He came to the United States and the Diocese of California in 1956. He was ordained deacon in December, 1960 and has since served on the staff of Grace Cathedral.

He is known for his sermons on the practical application of the Christian faith to problems besetting the individual in today's society.

INSTITUTION — Rev. James H. Blundell will be instituted as the new vicar of the Episcopal Church of the Nativity in Marinwood at 4 p.m. services tomorrow at the church. Rev. Blundell is a graduate of the Church Divinity School of the Pacific, Berkeley and the University of Texas.

All May Enjoy Love Of God, Says Lecturer

Scientific reliance upon God abundantly meets every human need.

This is what Paul K. Wavro of Jacksonville, Fla. told an assembly at the Sausalito Yacht Club in Sausalito Thursday.

"The Love that is God," he said, "includes everyone. No one is ever shut out from God's love. Just as we can all experience the warmth of sunshine if we go into it, so we may enjoy the love of God and His blessings if we open our thought to this ever-present love."

Wavro, a teacher, practitioner and member of the Christian Science Board of Lectureship, was introduced by George Jackson, first reader for the First Church of Christ Scientist, Sausalito, which sponsored the service.

Christian Science Starts Program

A new radio series by the Christian Science church starts tomorrow.

More than 700 stations will broadcast the weekly 15-minute series called "The Bible Speaks to You." Marin listeners may hear it on KGO, San Francisco, every Sunday at 10 a.m.

5-DAY REVIVAL WILL BE HELD IN MARIN CITY

A five-day series of revival meetings will be held at the First Missionary Baptist Church of Marin City beginning Monday, announced Rev. J. P. Henry, pastor.

Conducting the 1:30 p.m. services will be Rev. F. D. Haynes, pastor of the Third Baptist Church of San Francisco and president of the California State Baptist Convention, Inc. The evening meetings will be Monday through Friday.

Included in the sermons will be considerations of such questions as "Who am I? For what purpose am I here? Where shall I spend eternity?" said Rev. Henry.

'Recollection Day' Tomorrow At St. Anselm's

A "Day of Recollection" for young adults will be sponsored tomorrow at St. Anselm's Church in San Anselmo, by the Regis Club, a county-wide organization of Catholic young people.

The day will open with the 8 a.m. Mass at St. Anselm's.

Retreatmaster will be Rev. John Heaney who has worked with youth at St. Agnes in San Francisco and is now chaplain of Sacred Heart High School in San Francisco. He formerly was a member of the Archdiocesan Mission Band.

The day will include conferences and a question period.

Breakfast and lunch will be served and reservations ($1.50) can be made with Dorothy Briare, 26 Park Drive, San Anselmo.

Rev. John Mullen of St. Raphael's Parish, and a chaplain at San Quentin Prison, is moderator of the Regis Club.

Marinites On TV Tomorrow

The final telecast in the Religion and the Arts series, KPIX, Channel 5, 10 a.m. tomorrow, will include Marin County highlights from the 11 preceding programs in the series.

Television tape recordings of previous telecasts will be combined in a survey of religious art in the Bay Area.

The Rev. Jack Matlaga of the Bread and Wine Mission, San Francisco, will be host on the program presented by the Northern California-Nevada Council of Churches and the Northern California Congregational Conference.

Works of art to be seen or heard on the program include: Greek Orthodox Church of the Ascension in Oakland, by Sausalito architect R. F. Olwell, and the Christian Science Church in Belvedere; and the "Agnus Dei" from the Missa Brevis by Neil Pace, swung by the Chancel Choir of the Mill Valley Community Church.

Religion and the Arts is presented as a public service in cooperation with the Council of Churches and Congregational Conference. Rod Perkins of the KPIX staff directs the series, and the Rev. George Conklin of the Council of Churches' Department of Radio-Television is producer.

Social Service Plans Preview Luncheon

A fashion showing of original dresses for little girls will be given by the Social Service Auxiliary's sewing committee which has finished stitching the 700 dresses for needy children, as well as boys' shirts and pajamas and other such items.

The showing will be held Thursday at 12:30 p.m. in conjunction with the Auxiliary committee's "Preview Luncheon" at the Convent of the Sisters of Social Service, 1327 Lincoln Avenue, San Rafael.

The clothing will be given to families aided by Catholic Social Service in Marin, the 10th year of this program by the volunteer sewing committee.

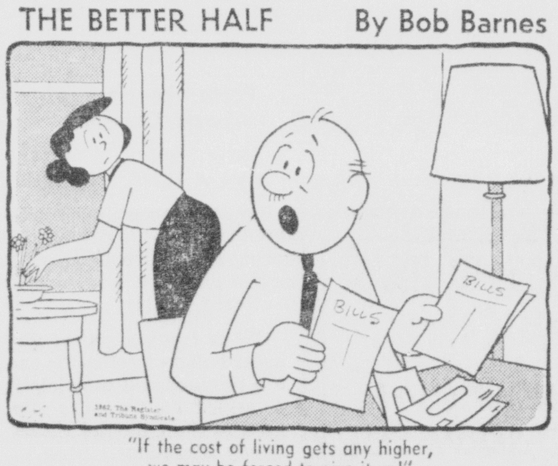

Some of these children will have this Easter their first new dress and Sister Martina, executive secretary of the Catholic Social Service Agency, supplied the committee not only with the measurements of each individual child but with descriptions of coloring and personality.

Second stage of the sewing program is sponsorship which permits members and friends to "sponsor" by providing yardage or such clothing needs as shoes or trousers to supplement the handiwork. Mrs. Eugene Lombardi of San Rafael is chairman of sponsors.

Assisting Mrs. Lombardi this year with the sewing are Madame Nicole and Mesdames Philip Seymour, Cecil Sides, C. R. Ring, Charles Howell, Harold Sonnenberg, Robert Dreher, John Wadlewski, John Looney, H. E. Morgan, J. P. DeVoy, Conrad Sovig, Frank Schulz, Roger Garety, John Komo, Cleo C. Sausalito School Costume Dance 'Ferry Frolic' To Revive Tradition

The Sausalito Nursery School, veteran sponsor of 15 benefit dances, is planning its 16th, the "Ferry Frolic," to be held on April 14.

The locale is the Charles Van Damme ferry boat, donated to the school for the evening by its proprietor, Juanita Musson. Guests costumed as favorite fairy-tale heroes and heroines will enjoy dinner, entertainment and dancing to music by a popular San Francisco jazz group.

Mrs. Edward Davis and Mrs. Ray Zimmer are co-chairmen of a committee which includes Mesdames Asa Butterfield, Fred Tetzlaff and John Camp. Mrs. A. R. Sargent Jr., is in charge of reservations.

This will be the first supper dance given by the school since its initial venture in 1948. But it will carry on themes and traditions from intervening years.

These traditions are "The pre-party party," "The pun," "The costume," and "The boat."

"The pre-party party," ordinarily a dinner, has preceded all the dances since 1949. In the dim past some intrepid hostesses were known to assemble guests at the dinner table and then announce a dance would follow. Ticket sales under these circumstances were brisk, but guests soon became suspicious of any invitation from a nursery school member and the practice was abandoned.

"The pun" first appeared in May, 1953, with the discovery that "Daze" and "Days" share a single pronounciation. The first of the "Daze" and "Days" dances was "Mothers' Daze."

Following were "Dixieland Daze," 1954; "Summer Daze," 1954; "Vacation Daze," 1955; and "Harvest Daze," 1956.

At this point "The costume" was invented and began quietly enough.

Mrs. Stephen Ramsey had a trunkful of old clothes and took from it four dresses in what was then the half-forgotten style of the 1920's. She wore one herself and passed the others to three of the more extroverted school mothers. This inspiration was destined to go far beyond Mrs. Ramsey's trunk. It even outlived the "Daze-Days" pun.

The fourth trend wax was "The Boat." The first of the boats came into port in February, 1958, when a "Madri Gras Ball," with everyone in costume was held. The boat in this case was the "Harbor Tourist," pressed into service to ferry party-goers to the Corinthian Yacht Club and home. The pattern continued for two more years, through "Ports of Call" in 1959 and a "Beaux Arts Ball" in 1960.

In 1961 the cult of "The Boat" reached its ultimate. The "Riverboat Shuffle" was held on the "Harbor Queen," which cruised around the bay throughout the evening with its cargo of elaborately costumed dancers. "It's like steerage on the 'Titanic'," one guest remarked.

The 1962 supper-dance brings the traditions full circle. Invitations are going out for "pre-party parties,"—of the cocktail variety. "The Boat," stationary this times, is in the harbor—"The Costume" is under construction.

And for those dressed as fairy tale characters at least, in the "Ferry Frolic" title there will be a revival of the age of "The Pun."

Terra Linda School Plans Open House

The Terra Linda Cooperative Nursery School will hold an open house on Tuesday from 9:30 to 11:30 a.m., at the Nursery School, 635 Adrian Way, Santa Venetia.

The purpose of the open house is to give parents of preschool age children an opportunity to acquaint themselves with a nursery school in operation.

They may look over the supplies and equipment used and ask questions of the mothers who are at present taking part in the nursery school program. Parents of pre-school age children are invited to attend, and may bring his or her child with him. Refreshments will be served.

Mrs. W. Remington Hodgson of Terra Linda is chairman.

INJURED BOXER — Heavyweight boxer Tunny Hunsacker is wheeled into Bluefield, W. Va. hospital after suffering brain injury in bout last night. See story. (AP Wirephoto)

Kayoed Boxer Given Only 50-50 Chance

BLUEFIELD, W.Va. (AP)—Veteran heavyweight Tunney Hunsaker, 32, was in critical condition today from the effects of a knockout punch delivered in the 10th and final round of a fight last night.

He was afflicted with the same type of brain injury that caused the death of former welterweight champion Benny "Kid" Paret in New York this week. Doctors said he had a 50-50 chance for recovery.

Paret, who was to be buried in Miami today, never regained consciousness from the beating he suffered at the hands of Emile Griffith March 24. In contrast, Hunsaker walked to his corner after taking the 10-count and collapsed while being examined by the ring physician at nearby Beckley, where the fight was held. His opponent was Joe Sheldon of Cleveland, Ohio.

Hunsaker, a former police chief of Fayetteville, W. Va., was rushed to the Bluefield Sanitarium, a distance of nearly 45 miles, and underwent an emergency two-hour operation by Dr. E. L. Gage, a brain specialist.

Dr. Gage said Hunsaker underwent surgery for a subdural hematoma hemorrhage on the right side of the brain, which had caused paralysis to the boxer's right side.

Paret suffered a similar injury after his 12th round beating from Griffith.

Mrs. Hunsaker, who collapsed when she first entered the ambulance at Beckley to be at her husband's side, said Dr. Gage told her after the operation there were signs of movement on Tunny's right side.

"But we are not encouraged too quickly," the doctor told her.

"As soon as I realized he was unconscious, I thought of Paret and how similar it seemed," she replied. Mrs. Hunsaker said that only a few days ago a sportscaster had asked her husband for his views on the Paret case, and he replied: "You can get killed in a traffic accident just as easily."

Spectators said Hunsaker and Sheldon had mixed it freely. Hunsaker was stunned in the third and took an eight-count in the next round. He made a strong comeback.

Then, late in the 10th round, Hunsaker caught a vicious right cross that floored him. He got up after the 10-count and wobbled to his corner.

A professional since 1956, Hunsaker had won six, lost 11 and fought one no contest in 18 fights before last night.

A native of Princeton, Ky., he was the heavyweight Golden Gloves champion in Texas in 1952 while serving in the Air Force.

Palmer's Amazing 66 Stuns Masters

AUGUSTA, Ga. (UPI)—Arnold Palmer, who can win 'em by coming from behind or running in front, led the Masters field by two strokes going into the third round today and went out to prove that playing golf still is his primary business.

They've been saying that his game has been suffering because he has too many outside interests, but Palmer denied that when he came here, declaring that the only thing on his mind was the Masters and "I'm here solely to play golf, nothing else."

And play it he did yesterday when he shot a six under par 66 to overtake defending champion Gary Player and forge into the lead with a 36-hole total of 136, eight strokes under par for 36 holes over the testing 6,980-yard par 36-36—72 Masters course.

Noted for his come-from-behind finishes, Palmer appeared to start his drive earlier than usual and only smiled when told that Player said he would rather be two strokes behind at this point than two strokes ahead.

SUITS ME FINE

"That suits me fine," said Palmer. "I like it just where I am now."

He played so brilliantly in yesterday's second round that Player could only shake his head.

"Palmer is the most amazing golfer I have ever seen," said the little South African. "There is simply no heading him off although the Lord knows I'm trying the best I can. But what is there to do? I'm hitting a three iron for my second shot when he's using a six."

Although admitting he shot "as good golf yesterday as I possibly could," Palmer still complained that "I made a few mistakes."

"I missed a shot at six and hit a bad seven iron at seven and I misjudged a nine iron shot to the ninth green," he pointed out.

EIGHT BIRDIES

But he more than made up for those lapses as he carded eight birdies and two bogies on the fantastic round.

Player, who led Palmer by three strokes going into the second round, tried his best to stay in front, but his one under par 71, which included an eagle, just wasn't good enough. That gave him a total of 138, a stroke ahead of U.S. Open champion Gene Littler.

Five strokes behind Palmer came slim Gardner Dickinson with a second round 71 and a total of 141. At 142 were Dow Finsterwald, the 1958 PGA champion with a second round 68; Julius Boros, the 1952 U.S. Open champion with a 73, and burly Mike Souchak, with a 72.

Al Balding of Canada and Dave Ragan were in the 143 bracket while at even par 144 were PGA champion Jerry Barber, Billy Maxwell, Don January, Bob Rosburg and Juan (Chi Chi) Rodriguez of Puerto Rico.

It took 149 or better to qualify for the two final rounds today and among those eliminated were former U.S. Open champions Tommy Bolt, Dick Mayer and Ed Furgol; British Open champion Kel Nagle; Stan Leonard, Canada's leading pro golfer, and Art Wall, the 1959 Masters king.

Young Jack Nicklaus, who with Doug Sanders were second choices to Palmer in the pre-tournament betting, just made it at 149. Sanders had 148.

Five old timers were among the qualifiers. Three-time winners Sammy Snead and Jimmy Demaret made it with totals of 147 and 146, respectively. Two-time winners Ben Hogan and Byron Nelson had 149 and 148, respectively, and Gene Sarazen, the oldest of them all at 60, got in under the wire with 148.

Palmer served warning of what was to come when he birdied two of the first three holes and rounded the turn in 35, one under par. Then on the second nine he started out with a birdie on the 10th and fired four more birds in a row starting with the 13th. That did it and more than offset the two bogeys he had on the front nine.

In shooting the best score he ever has made in the Masters, Palmer, who won here in 1958 and again in 1960, hit 15 greens in regulation figures, took 30 putts, including six one putters, and did not have a single three-putt green.

Ailing Juan Should Have Stood In Bed

SALT LAKE CITY (UPI)—The San Francisco Giants closed out their Arizona spring training season on a spectacular but indecisive note as they fought the Los Angeles Dodgers to an 8-8 tie yesterday.

The game was halted after eight innings by plane commitments.

The Giants meet Cleveland here today and tomorrow and then it's on to San Francisco for Tuesday's opening day against the Milwaukee Braves.

Juan Marichal is supposed to pitch that one, but the Giants hope he will do better than he did yesterday. Billed as a final practice test for the hard-throwing right hander, Marichal came to work after a bout with intestinal flu.

He should have stayed in bed. The Dodgers ripped him for six runs in three innings although San Francisco climbed back into the ball game by scoring five unearned tallies in the fourth.

The Dodgers still led 8-6 after seven innings, but Matty Alou ripped a two-run homer in the eighth to knot the count and send both teams on their way.

SWAT PARADE

Willie Mays led the Giant swat parade with three hits good for two runs batted in, while Manny Mota and Felipe Alou contributed two hits apiece.

One of Alou's clouts was a homer and he emerged from the afternoon hitting .472 for the spring.

Umpire Stan Landes called a balk on Marichal, but Juan held his position, feet off the rubber, and convinced Landes he had boo-booed. The arbiter inspected Marichal's feet and stunned everybody by reversing his decision and sending the Dodgers runner back.

The Dodgers outhit San Francisco, 14-12. Following Marichal to the hill were Jim Duffalo and Bob Bolin.

Drake Blanks Tamites, 5-0

Right hander Larry Goodall of Sir Francis Drake hurled a shutout against Tamalpais High yesterday to push his Pirates into the Marin County Athletic League's top spot in the baseball standings.

The 5-0 victory by coach Verle Sorgen's crew give the Pirates a 3-0 record and coach Ray Bell's defending champs a 3-1 count and runner up position in the MCAL standings.

Goodall, the son of a retired Marine Corps officer, was in command throughout. In seven innings Larry struck out eight and walked three. And his one time at bat he picked up a hit.

Hamish Tyler and Ron Sater of the Pirates smashed in two runs each. Hamish got his RBIs on singles and Sater got his on a lightning double, two inches inside the third base line. The tiger hitter of the Sorgen's outfit yesterday, however, was Ron Sater who batted 1.000. He got four singles for four times at the plate. Tinker Ward of Drake got 2 for 3. His second belt was described by Drake reporter Lindy Press as "beautifully hit to center field."

Tam's worker yesterday was shortstop Rick Miller, who got 2 for 2.

Smith Hurls Redwood To Shutout Victory

Coach Al Endriss of Redwood High put a player he has been saving on the mound yesterday against Terra Linda and shutout the Trojans in the Marin County Athletic League night cap, 3-0.

A transfer student from Washington by the name of Park Smith went seven innings for the Giants yesterday, giving up four hits, walking two, striking out 12 batters. The only real solid hit off the previously unknown senior was a clean double by Trojan star Jerry Daniele. Scrapper Jerry tried to stretch it out to a triple and was thrown out at third by outfielder Mike Cooney.

Redwood picked up its tallies in the third and fifth innings at the night game attended by "good crowd." So good, in fact, that Endriss plans to ask to have Redwood's home games at Albert Field changed from 4 to 7 p.m. contests.

Other hitters for Redwood were Roy Guisti. The catcher smashed a sizzling double and leads the league in extra base hits. In three games he has three triples and two doubles. A timely base hit was whacked by Giant Joe Weis. Some excellent fielding was performed by both teams, including a double play from Terry Jarcik to Bob Scoville to Mark Pearce.

Daniele got his second hit for Terra Linda on a single up the middle. Trojan Doug Matlock was the losing pitcher.

Nomellini Signs, Nears NFL Record

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Leo Nomellini, just 11 games away from the National Football League consecutive games played record, signed with the San Francisco 49ers today.

Nomellini, 37 and ready to begin his 13th pro campaign, has played in 146 straight regular season games.

TV FIGHT TONIGHT

Pender Favored To Regain Title

BOSTON (AP) — Britain's Terry Downes, co-holder of the world middleweight championship, feels he has Paul Pender's number and will knock out the American in their third title fight tonight.

"I'll get him after the eighth round," predicted the cocky cockney, who is recognized as king of the 160-pound set by Massachusetts, New York and Europe. Gene Fullmer of West Jordan, Utah, is considered the champion by the National Boxing Association.

Despite the 25-year-old Londoner's supreme confidence, the oddsmakers here had the 31-year-old ex-fireman from Brookline, Mass., an 8-5 favorite in the 15-round television —ABC 7 p.m. PST—bout at the Boston Garden. A crowd of 10,000 and a gross gate of about $70,000 is likely.

Winner of his last three — all on knockouts—Downes has a 23-7 record, including 24 knockouts. Pender's record is 39-6-2, including 20 knockouts.

Injured Gymnast Gains, But Remains Critical

ALBUQUERQUE, N.M. (AP)—A University of Michigan gymnast hurt in a fall during NCAA competition last week showed some improvement today but was still considered in critical condition.

Lewis Hyman, 18, was operated on for a brain injury suffered in a trampoline accident. He had been unconscious since the fall.

Indian Valley Spring Handicap Won At 19th

Mrs. Lynn Sumpter won the spring handicap by defeating Mrs. Roy Sayles on the 19th hole at the Indian Valley Women's golf club yesterday.

In medal play Class A winners were Mrs. Sumpter 85-19—66; Mrs. Henry Hartman 94-23—71; and Mrs. Norton Dawson 99-26—73.

Class B—Mrs. Thomas Hardcastle 102-27—75 and Mrs. Rowe Waller 106-31—75, tied for first place; Mrs. George Kerrigan 112-36—76 and Mrs. Andrew Mahony 104-28—76 tied for second; Mrs. Andrew Sommerville 110-33—77.

Tam And Redwood Win Swim Meets

Tamalpais and Redwood high school swim teams, warming up for their head-to-head duel next Wednesday that may decide the Marin Athletic League championship, each posted victories yesterday.

Tam outswam Drake 56-39, while Redwood edged San Rafael 51-44.

On the track and field scene yesterday, Ellis Williams won three events to pace the Tamalpais Indians varsity over the Redwood Giants, 64-49.

Stories and summaries of Marin track and swimming meets, box scores of yesterday's baseball games and a complete schedule of next week's sports scene will appear in Monday's Independent-Journal.

FIGHTS LAST NIGHT

ST. PAUL, Minn. — Laszlo Bagi, 144, Minneapolis, outpointed Don Weller, 145, St. Paul, 12.

DALLAS — Curtis Cokes, Dallas, stopped Hilario Morales, Mexico City, 5, welterweights.

BECKLEY, W. Va. — Joe Sheldon, Cleveland, knocked out Tunney Hunsaker, Fayetteville, W. Va., 10, heavyweights.

Novato Snaps Losing String, 5-1 Over S.R.

Coach Bill Kline's Novato Hornets cracked a three-game losing streak in Marin County Athletic League play yesterday by knocking off defending champion San Rafael High 5-1.

Hornet pitcher Larry Hale threw a beautiful one-hitter against coach Jack Sims' Bulldogs. Hale struck out seven men and walked four.

Novato edged ahead of the Bulldogs in the top half of the first inning when Rusty Druba scored from second base by a single off Joe Colfer's bat.

Novato's injurious offensive strike came in the sixth inning as the Hornets grabbed four runs.

It started when Don Scribner, second baseman, doubled and shortstop Nick Willard drove in Scribner with a single. Willard went on to second on the futile throw into the plate. Then with Mike Milano of Novato on first, centerfielder Joe Jones hit into a fielder's choice and Willard went home safely on an error. Hale was walked to load the bases and George Scherba singled to drive in Milano. Druba walked to force in Jones for Novato's final run.

San Rafael's mark came in the bottom of the sixth frame when hustling Alan Finley stole home.

The victory gave Novato a 1-3 league record and San Rafael an 0-4 mark.

Marinite Medalist In College Golf

College of Marin's Earl Brown won medalist honors with a sparkling 75 yesterday, but Marin as a team placed second to American River in a six-team Golden Valley Conference golf tournament at Sacramento.

All five A.R. golfers fired in the 70s as the team piled up 160 points to Marin's 113. Matt Simone was Marin's next best with an 83.

Monday at 1 p.m. Marin hosts the five other conference teams in another tourney at Peacock Gap, San Rafael.

A SHORT PENCIL IS BETTER THAN A LONG MEMORY

Have you sometimes wondered why so much is said during the course of an automobile purchase, and so little is actually written?

When I buy a suit at the haberdashery I notice the entire transaction is completely described on the sales slip even to the type and extent of any alterations.

It certainly would appear not only logical, but mandatory that all agreements surrounding an automobile transaction be enumerated in writing on the purchase order.

Our men at Ames Ford Sales have standing orders to avoid oral promises and reduce all information and agreements to writing. You can help me enforce the orders if any of them should slip by.

Staying legitimate is a 24-hour job.

HOW TO PLAY

WINNING BRIDGE

By ALFRED SHEINWOLD

Do Bridge Writers Lay It On Just A Little Bit Too Thick?

"You bridge writers are all the same," a reader complains. "You're always advising us not to take finesses but when you play bridge yourself your probably finesse just as much as we do. Tell the truth, now, aren't you laying it on a bit too thick?"

Opening lead — ♠ 3

Let's look at the record. This hand was played in the 1961 World Championship in Buenos Aires in a match between Argentina and the United States. Somebody took one finesse too many.

At the first table of the match, West led a spade, and East won with the queen. East returned a club, and South finessed with the queen, losing to the king. This was a fatal finesse.

Back came another spade, and declarer couldn't afford to go up with the ace. He played low from dummy and East won with the king.

Back came a club, and South was helpless. He needed a good diamond break to make sure of eight tricks, but this was still not enough for his contract.

REFUSES FINESSE: At the other table of the match, Peter Leventritt played the South hand for the United States. He lost the first spade to the queen, but he put up the ace of clubs at the second trick instead of finessing.

Leventritt went over to dummy with the queen of diamonds to lead a low heart. East played low, and Leventritt finessed with the eight to give up a heart trick to the safe opponent.

The rest of the hearts were good, and West couldn't do any real damage. Leventritt scored 630 points for making the contract with an overtrick. The fatal finesse at the other table caused the Argentinian declarer to lose 100 points.

We don't have to dream up hands in which a foolish finesse is very costly. They happen regularly, even in world championships.

DAILY CRYPTOQUOTE — Here's how to work it:

A X Y D I L B A A X R
is L O N G F E L L O W

One letter simply stands for another. In this sample A is used for the three L's, X for the two O's, etc. Single letters, apostrophies, the length and formation of the words are all hints. Each day the code letters are different.

Bridge Experts Take Top Tourney Honors

Bridge experts from out-of-county took top honors in the opening day of the Marin County Sectional Championship tournament at Bermuda Palms yesterday.

However, several Marin players placed high in the standings, especially in the women's pairs championship. The tournament continues tonight and tomorrow.

Cleone Myers of Kentfield paired with Ida M. Cross of San Francisco won one section and took third over-all in the women's pairs. Other section winners in the women's pairs were these Marin residents:

Janus R. Steele of Hamilton Air Force Base and Mrs. Tyrus Holmes of Novato, second; Mary Ida Larson of Hamilton and Mrs. J. E. Kelton of Novato, third; Ludovica Bigelow of Belvedere and Nell Wells of San Francisco, fourth; Eva Reed of San Rafael and Bertha Koch of Woodland, fourth.

Other section winners from Marin were:

Crossley Pairs — Betty Sullens and Jen Mariska of Hamilton, first; Resi Baerwald of Greenbrae and Mrs. P. A. Bates of Kentfield, second; Florence Perrine and John Meyer of Mill Valley, third; Mrs. E. C. Paine Jr. and Mrs. W. Jones McQuinn of San Anselmo, fourth.

San Rafael Pairs — David Cutmore of San Anselmo and Hap Kaufman of Sleepy Hollow, third.

Mixed Pairs—Cleone Myers of Kentfield and Harry Feinberg of San Francisco, second; Lura Crossley of Greenbrae and C. F. Crossley Sr. of Palo Alto, fifth; Edith Van Gutman of Kentfield and Claire Cooke of San Anselmo, first; Sven Olund of San Rafael and Burton Marliave of Walnut Creek, first; Mrs. J. E. Kelton and Mrs. J. V. Cahill of Novato second; and Ole Lundgren of San Rafael and John Bledsoe of Oakland, tied for fourth.

used many materials of more permanent nature in order to assure a life of at least 40 years. The cost will be more than offset by savings in maintenance."

Government auditors singled out for criticism outside corridor accesses, private galleries for each unit and glass doors between living rooms and bedrooms.

"We considered the needs of the people who will occupy the homes and the relationship of the buildings to the community," Green said. "The people of Marin are extremely aware of the beauties that surround them."

The report also criticized a $21,000 expenditure on "unnecessary" earthquake insurance. Klahn said the insurance had been cancelled.

"Obviously these people know nothing about California and its earthquakes," Green said.

organization serves meals to the public, she said.

To comply with the new law she suggested that a simple alternative to home preparation of food by the organizations is "to prepare it at a centrally located kitchen, such as in a school or church which can be inspected and approved by the health department."

She added that the sanitation division of her department is "interested in every food preparation and handling activity that takes place in the county."

Whether the organization comes under the act "really matters little to the person who is the victim of food poisoning," she said. "For this reason, the sanitation division will be happy to assist in the planning of any food activity."

Printed instructions and suggestions for food handling are available on request, she said.

Inmate Hurt At Prison Camp

A San Quentin Prison inmate was critically injured yesterday when a log rolled over him at a prison operated Mendocino County conservation camp.

Yolo County robber, Robert J. Lamb, 28, was hospitalized with a broken pelvis and internal injuries at Community Hospital, Fort Bragg, according to Officer of the Day Dr. Homer Hastings.

Hastings said that Lamb underwent immediate surgery and was in critical condition. He said that no other details of the accident were immediately available.

gentine election, he said the success of dictator Juan Peron candidates was a demonstration of a lack of education.

"Free determination is not worth a damn unless you have education too," he declared.

On the home front, "if we don't have federal aid to education, we'll have the fastest driving generation of illiterates we've ever seen."

Senator Richards praised Carrow and his abilities. "You have a tough district here," he declared, "but you have elected a terrific congressman, Clem Miller."

Carrow was introduced by Robert L. Harmon of Belvedere, chairman of the County Council of Democratic Clubs. The Assembly candidate said he has "every confidence" he can "unseat the do-nothing, stand-for-nothing" incumbent William T. Bagley of San Rafael.

The Novato lawyer said Bagley had voted wrong on civil rights, redevelopment, relatives responsibility and six of seven major labor bills. His "only positive action," Carrow declared, "is the assumption of the county campaign chairmanship of the great white savior of Republicanism, Mr. Nixon."

For his part, Carrow said he would "further comprehensive state planning," including a changeover from a defense to a peace economy and statewide job retraining and replacement program. He favors an increased minimum wage and effective housing bill, a statewide transportation agency, a reforestation program, broadened farm labor aid, a prohibition against professional strike breakers and leveling of inequities caused by "vertical integration" of farm programs, particulary in egg production.

Richard M. Adams of Tiburon, chairman of Carrow's campaign, opened the meeting in Dominic's Harbor Restaurant, introduced guests and Harold Morgan, chairman of the Marin Democratic County Central Committee.

E. Patrick Healey of Belvedere, chairman of the Richards campaign in Marin, introduced Senator Richards. The senator was accompanied by Mr. and Mrs. Gerald Hill of Oakland, formerly of Marin. Hill is Richards' area chairman.

$1,500 Fire Destroys Living Room

A $1,500 blaze destroyed the living room of a vacant house in Corte Madera today, within hours after workmen had completed re-decorating the house.

Twenty-three firemen with four trucks managed to confine the fire to the living room of the six-room split-level frame house at 228 Sausalito Avenue, according to Chief Nelson.

Nelson said that firemen had the blaze under control within 45 minutes after their arrival at 3:56 a.m.

The fire was caused by a dropcloth left draped over a floor furnace, said Nelson.

The blaze was spotted by Marin Municipal Water District workmen, who were working on an all-night project of flushing water mains in the area, said Nelson.

of the Second Street address and Robert Sprasky, now of Milwaukee.

The Beckius family had moved to Marin about 20 years ago from Octavia, Neb.

The Sprasky girl had been in the second grade at Short School.

Mrs. Beckius learned of the tragedy in a phone call from Rev. Richard Knapp of St. Raphael's Church, who was notified by another priest, Father Fleming, of Guerneyville.

"Betty Jean was a good swimmer," said Mrs. Beckius, "but I've always been afraid of the Russian River."

Funeral arrangements for both girls are pending at Keaton's in San Rafael.

Marin Residents On High Scholarship List

Two Marin County residents were on the high scholarship list published last week by Sonoma State College.

The list is comprised of 20 full-time students who earned a B average or higher during the fall semester. Marin residents on the list are Edgar A. DeCamp, 1836 Virginia Avenue, Novato, and Harry Holland, 390 Hibiscus Way, San Rafael.

Small Car Slams Rear Of Big Truck

A small, foreign car climbing Waldo Grade at 60 miles an hour slammed into the rear of a huge slow-moving truck and trailer yesterday, sending the driver of the car to the hospital with a ticket for speeding.

John Francis Warner, 61, a Sebastopol longshoreman, was in fair condition today at Marin General Hospital with serious cuts and bruises on his face, head and arms.

According to the California Highway Patrol, Warner pulled his southbound car to the inside lane to allow traffic to pass on his left. He misjudged the speed of the truck, moving at about five miles an hour, and crashed into it before he could apply his brakes.

The driver of the truck, Henry Edward Wohler, 37, of San Francisco, said he only saw a blur in his rear view mirror a moment before he felt the impact.

Warner was cited for driving at a speed unsafe for the existing conditions.

ADA SIBSON

Funeral services for Ada Sibson, 85, of Santa Rosa, mother of Allan D. Jones of San Rafael, will be held Monday at 2 p.m. in the Harry M. Williams Mortuary, San Rafael.

Mrs. Jones died Thursday in a Santa Rosa rest home after a long illness. She was a native of Ohio and had lived in Santa Rosa four years.

She leaves another son, Howard Jones of Akron, Ohio; a sister, Mrs. Clara Miles of New Philadelphia, Ohio; three grandchildren and 10 great-grandchildren.

Burial will be in Mount Tamalpias Cemetery, San Rafael.

OBITUARIES

Rites Set For D. E. Watkins

Funeral services for D. E. Watkins, 82, of Fairfax, pioneer executive of the California State Automobile Assn., will be held Monday at 2 p.m. in Gray's Mortuary, Post and Divisadero Streets, San Francisco.

Watkins died Thursday in a Tiburon rest home. He had been ill for several years. His home was at 100 Woodland Road, Fairfax.

He was a native of Nebraska. He came to California in 1913, and was the first manager of the association, with offices in San Francisco. He had previously established the Kansas State Automobile Assn.

He served longer as an auto club manager than any other person in clubs affiliated with the American Automobile Assn.

He was responsible for the road-signing program of the California club, and developed the first sectional road maps in the state. When he retired in 1953, the association had grown during his 40 years as manager from one office and 500 members to 47 offices and 280,000 members.

Watkins leaves two sisters, Mrs. Mae Morley and Mrs. Maud Michael, both of Fairfax.

ANNA GWIN

Mrs. Anna Gwin, 58, died at her daughter's home, 58 Oakland Avenue, San Anselmo, yesterday, apparently of a heart attack.

A resuscitator crew from the San Anselmo Fire Department, summoned by her daughter, Mrs. Doris Gwin Gifford, at 3:44 p.m. were unable to revive her. She was pronounced dead by a local physician, who arrived shortly after firemen.

Mrs. Gwin was the wife of Berry Gwin. She was born in Evansville, Ind., and had made her home in recent years in Mountain View, Santa Clara County. She had resided at the San Anselmo address for three weeks.

She is survived by her husband and daughter; one son, Charles Gwin of Springfield, Ohio; and two grandchildren.

Funeral services will be held in Evansville, Ind.

MRS. WOSSER

Mrs. Madeline A. Wosser, a resident of Sausalito for 50 years, died yesterday at a local hospital after a long illness.

She was the wife of Harry Wosser, shop foreman for Northwestern Pacific Railroad in Tiburon.

Mrs. Wooser had made her home at 403 Bonita since she left her native England 50 years ago. She was a member of the ladies auxiliary of Christ Church, Sausalito; Sausalito auxiliary of Sunnyhills Home of San Anselmo; and a volunteer worker at Sausalito Salvage Shop.

She is survived by her husband; one daughter, Mrs. Barbara Garetson of Sleepy Hollow; two sisters, Mrs. Daisy Silva and Mrs. Ethel Melo, both of Mill Valley; two brothers, Leonard Tew of Greenbrae and A. J. Tew of England; and six grandsons.

Funeral services will be held at 10 a.m. Monday at St. Paul's Episcopal Church, San Rafael. Entombment will be at Mount Tamalpais Cemetery, San Rafael. The family prefers memorial contributions to the American Cancer Society and Shriners Crippled Children's Hospital, San Francisco. Friends may call at Keaton's Mortuary, San Rafael, until 9 a.m. Monday.

WHITE HOUSE REPORT

JFK's News Conference

By MERRIMAN SMITH

WASHINGTON (UPI)—In addition to thousands of tourists, spring beckons to Washington many college students who come for varying periods, frequently with their professors, to study government at close range.

The White House is quite cooperative with college groups and members of President John F. Kennedy's staff hold almost daily seminars in their offices or conference rooms.

REPORTERS ASKED

Some White House reporters are asked at times to submit to student questioning. The experience often is more helpful to reporter than student; helpful in the sense that one is able to appreciate the difficulty experienced even by highly intelligent undergraduates in understanding the Washington apparatus and how it operates.

Possibly attributable to impressions created on television, there have been many questions at the White House this spring concerning the president's news conferences. Here are a few of the more recurrent questions and the answers, from the viewpoint of, at least, one reporter.

SOME DIFFERENT

The answers, incidentally, are inclined to be a bit different when supplied by members of the president's staff, but these will not be dealt with here:

Q. The questioning does not seem as blunt or direct as it was in the Truman and Eisenhower press conferences. Why is this?

A. While the president might not feel this way at times, it is true Kennedy has not encountered much of the slam-bang, sharp and some times accusatory questioning which was aimed at the two preceding presidents. The reasons ar extensive and can be argued.

The television format and size of the conference does not lend itself to the heads-on, crackling exchange between reporters and presidents of other years. Also, there have been a few rather cutting questions thrown at Kennedy and he has shown himself eminently able to cope with them without being thrown off stride by anger. He is exceptionally well briefed on current events and a reporter who tackles him poorly prepared is liable to be shown up before a nationwide audience.

There are two other factors. One seems to be a growing realization that a news conference is not a jury trial. The prosecutory type of question that on occasion turned the Truman news conference into steamy sessions seems out of place today in the decorous auditorium where Kennedy meets reporters. Then there is a time factor. The president has held only 28 press conferences since taking office. Watch the questioning get tougher, or at least more direct, as battles in Congress mount in tempo. News conference quesioning of a president frequently reflects the mood of the House and Senate as hot weather approaches and they drive toward adjournment.

Q. What determines whether the president will have a news conference?

A. He does. As a matter of practical fact, Kennedy's conferences are much more frequent when Congress is in session than during other months. He uses the conference not only for communication with the people and to answer questions, but to let Congress know how he's feeling about certain legislation.

It would be quite odious to many correspondents if they were forced to admit that at times they serve as little more than dress extras for an informational tableau pretty well controlled by the White House. But it amounts to that on occasion.

The conference is the president's forum and at times it is a more direct way of communicating with Congress and the public than sending a written message to Capitol Hill or undertaking a speech.

Q. Are many of the questions planned in advance?

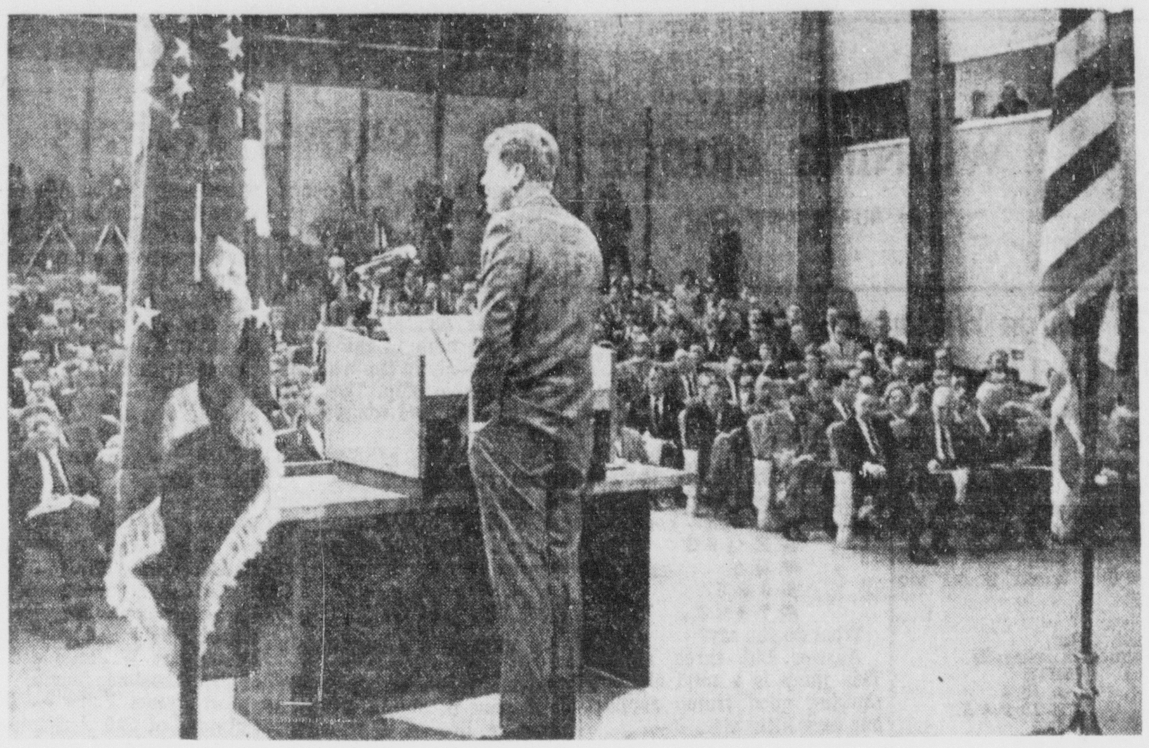

A. Not with this reporter. In fact, so-called question planting seldom would seem necessary. The president knows, as do the reporters, that at each conference there are certain areas of dominant interest dictated by recent events. He knows he will receive questions on a number of specific subjects. And he can always announce anything not covered by questioning.

Q. On television, a great many people seem to be there as spectators. They don't make notes or ask questions. Why?

A. There are a number of visitors at each conference — out-of-town editors, reporters, journalism students, touring foreign journalists. As visitors, they are asked not to participate in questioning. Most of the note-taking is done by men and women on the first two rows; they have to hustle out and report the conference as soon as it ends. Other reporters have later deadlines and may await the stenographic transcript before writing.

Q. Does the reporter who ends the conference by saying "Thank you, Mr. President" get some sort of signal from Kennedy?

A. No. Only an occasional look of pain.

NELSON ROCKEFELLER
He's the front-runner

ROCKY IS LOOMING LARGE FOR '62 RACE

WASHINGTON —New York Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller steadily looms bigger and better on the horizon of 1964 Republican presidential politics.

Conservative Republicans will not like that. Conservative Republicans like Sen. Barry Goldwater (R-Ariz). They do not much like Arizona, however, as a home base for a Republican presidential nominee. Big bases, states such as New York, California and Michigan.

Michigan might offer George Romney to the Republicans in 1964. Romney is a political maverick whom the conservatives don't like, either. Richard M. Nixon is the big Republican name in California. Like Romney, Nixon must be elected governor of his state this year to be eligible for further big league politics.

Unlike Romney, Nixon has taken himself out of the 1964 presidential contest on the reasonable assumption that President John F. Kennedy cannot to be denied a second term. Difficult and doubtful gubernatorial elections confront Romney and Nixon. It will not be so difficult or so doubtful for Rockefeller in New York.

Rockefeller also must be re-elected this year to remain eligible for further consideration in 1964. Moreover, he must be re-elected in a big way. Rockefeller won with a margin of 580,000 votes in 1958. He needs a margin of from 750,000 to one million this year for an adequate blast-off toward 1964.

There are other big states such as Pennsylvania, Ohio and Illinois that might create a new big name Republican before the nominating conventions get going. This is possible but unlikely. The big names now established are Goldwater, Romney, Rockfeller and Nixon. Among them, Rockefeller has the early advantage.

The old guardsmen who dont like Rockefeller might take another look. He is a sound money man. The state is solvent and on a pay-as-you go basis. Rockfeller has courage. He had the guts to slap on new taxes after he was elected in 1958 when more revenue was needed. This year he bucked and balked a bonus for Korean War Vets. A good man.

This Week in the World

By U.P. INTERNATIONAL

Almost four years ago Gen. Charles Andre Marie Joseph de Gaulle answered a call to save France from anarchy and almost certain civil war.

At that time two cabinets had fallen within a short period and France was in a struggle with Tunisia over the Algerian rebellion.

De Gaulle, the living symbol of a free France during the dark days of the German occupation in World War II, was the nation's last hope. He was given two mandates:

1. Stabilize the nation;

2. End the Algerian war, a conflict that was draining France's treasury and manpower.

DeGaulle took over first as premier and then as president of the newly created Fifth Republic. The new constitution gave him almost dictatorial powers with the consent of the people.

Within a short period de Gaulle had carried out his first mandate.

But the war in Algeria continued and day after day young Frenchmen died in the North African country.

Eventually negotiations between the French and the Algerian rebels led to a ceasefire only a few weeks ago. Tomorrow Frenchmen will go to the polls either to approve or reject de Gaulle's policy of letting Algeria decide its own destiny.

De Gaulle went before television cameras last night to ask all Frenchmen to participate "in a human and reasonable solution" of the Algerian problem. He expected an overwhelming victory.

With the endorsement of the French people de Gaulle hopes to crush the Secret Army Organization, which has pledged to keep Algeria French.

The OAS, led by the same generals who headed the drive to return de Gaulle to power, has wantonly killed Frenchmen and Moslems since the ceasefire.

Why does the OAS keep fighting for a seemingly hopeless cause? It fears for the safety of about one million Frenchmen in an independent country populated by nine million Moslems. It considers Algeria as much a part of France as Alaska and Hawaii are parts of the United States. It does not want to abandon what France has been building for more than a century.

De Gaulle is aware of all this but he feels that Algeria has been caught in the tide of nationalism and to continue to deny its people the right to choose their own way of life can lead only to disaster.

Unrest troubled another nation, Syria. The military junta controlling the nation broke up an insurrection in northern Syria, where dissidents were demanding reunion with the United Arab Republic.

Other major developments:

Walker — Edwin A. Walker, former U.S. Army major general and now a candidate for the Democratic gubernatorial nomination in Texas, testified in Washington at a Senate hearing into the "muzzling" of the military. He charged that special Assistant Defense Secretary Adam Yarmolinsky had "a close connection with communism," accused Secretary of State Dean Rusk of nurturing a "no-win" policy and said civilian control of the military "has been perverted into a commissar-like system at all major echelons." Rusk dismissed Walker's testimony as "not worthy of comment."

Satellite — Russia orbited another satellite, Cosmos II, to study radiation hazards.

Transportation — President John F. Kennedy proposed new laws to lower rail, bus and airline fares and reduce freight rates. These laws were designs to afford relief to railroads and overburdened big city transit systems.

Taylor — Elizabeth Taylor and Eddie Fisher ended their marriage. She plans to establish residence in Nevada and file for a divorce. Richard Burton, linked romantically to Miss Taylor, said all the gossip was "bloody nonsense."

WHIZZER WHITE:

From Beet Fields To Supreme Court

By U.P. INTERNATIONAL

A tall, rock-jawed boy bent over his hoe in the beet fields of Northern Colorado. His name was Byron R. White and he was working for money to go to college. That was 30 years ago.

It was hard work, and it wasn't the only work. "We did anything else we could find to raise money, if it was legitimate," his brother said.

WAITED TABLES

He got the money and enrolled in the University of Colorado. To stay there, he waited tables in sororities and fraternities.

He went out for football, too. The husky, close-mouthed boy was a triple-threat back and in 1937, his senior year, he scored 16 touchdowns and three extra points to lead the nation's scorers and was named to the All-America team.

He was so good they called him Whizzer. He does not like it.

School was not all football and hard work. It was being president of the associated students the same year he was All-America and studying so hard he won a Rhodes Scholarship to Oxford University.

But before he went to Oxford to study, he hired on with professional football's Pittsburgh Pirates.

OXFORD 2 YEARS

He was at Oxford two years. While he was there, he met the young son of the U.S. ambassador to London.

In 1939 he began dividing his time between school at Yale and the Detroit Lions. In 1940, he won the Edgar M. Cullen Award for the highest scholastic grades.

When war broke out, he went into the Navy, becoming a lieutenant in Navy intelligence.

After the war, White married his college sweetheart, Marion Stearns, whose father was once president of Colorado University, and returned to Yale to take his law degree magna cum laude in 1946.

He and Marion had two children, Barney is 8 and Nancy is 5.

LAW CLERK

From Yale, he went to Washington and worked as law clerk to Chief Justice Fred M. Vinson, a position aspired to by thousands of young lawyers.

In 1960, he decided the man for the presidency was the man he had met in London, and later in Colorado. He worked for him and became national chairman of the Citizens for Kennedy.

Kennedy won and White left the law firm in Denver to become deputy attorney general.

Last week he was in Denver to attend to some business.

He was sitting as chairman of the board of the Denver University Social Science Foundation when he got a telephone call from the president. Kennedy told him he had appointed him to the Supreme Court.

A Dusty S. Viet Nam Village Is A Key To Nation's Success

By MERTON D. PERRY

BEN TUONG, South Viet Nam (UPI) — South Viet Nam's future as a nation may well depend on the success of this dusty village.

It is being carved out of an old rubber plantation in the heart of the guerrilla-infested countryside about 40 miles northeast of Saigon.

Perched on a ridge less than a mile from the Ben Tuong River, this pioneer village already has become a target of the Viet Cong Communist guerrillas. Ben Tuong consists of 250 families, 65 of which are volunteers. The remainder were forced to move here by the government in the first phase of "Operation Sunrise."

Most of Ben Tuong's population consists of women and children. Military-age youths have either fled because they were indoctrinated by the Communists or because they feared being drafted.

Ben Tuong is a pilot project. The government intendes to construct villages modeled after it which will afford most of South Viet Nam's 14 million people the same kind of advantages and the same kind of protection.

It took a regiment of government soldiers to clear the Ben Tuong area of Communist guerrillas. Now, two companies of civil guards and two companies of rangers, assisted by a tank platoon, stand vigil to ensure the area remains cleared of Communists.

IN CUSTODY AGAIN—Milovan Djilas, former vice president of Yugoslavia and critic of the communist system he helped build, was arrested in Belgrade today. No reason for the arrest was given. (AP Wirephoto)

When finished Ben Tuong will be know as a "strategic" village modeled along the lines of villages built in Malaya during the Communist threat there.

Ben Tuong will offer schools, hospital care and land for crops with enough space to raise animals. It also will boast its own places of religious worship and recreation areas. Most important of all, Ben Tuong will attempt to offer the harassed farmers protection and security.

If the government fails to provide Ben Tuong's new residents with the necessary protection against the Communists, there probably will be no effective answer to ridding South Viet Nam of the Viet Cong plague.

Trucks roll up loaded with bricks and cement manufactured in Taipei and stamped with the clasped hands symbol of United States aid goods.

Vietnamese government "civic action" teams mingled with the local population, helping to get the village built.

All this is part of a government plan which U.S. experts helped draw up several months ago.

TODAY'S EDITORIAL

One Bouquet, 2 Brickbats To New Telephone Book

Because we were so critical of the gaudy, unrepresentative cover picture on last year's telephone directory, we want to say that this year the Pacific Telephone and Telegraph has really captured the spirit of Marin on the directory cover.

Even though the cameraman didn't train his lens quite far enough to the right to include Mt. Tamalpais, the picture conveys a remarkably accurate feeling of Marin living, the water, the brown hills, there's even a sail boat on the lagoon and a school bus waiting for children to board.

We're sorry to have to report, however, that inside the book things are much worse. It is positively frightening to see the string of seven numbers after each name. No more prefixes, you know, just a mess of numbers.

Perhaps we were particularly conscious of them at the moment the book was delivered. We had just written the number of our assemblyman, William T. Bagley, in Sacramento, a number we're often requested to give to his constituents. Here it is:

9-916-445-4711 local 4681.

Better write it down, you'll never remember it!

Of course the first 9 wouldn't be necessary from most private phones; that's the dialing we need at the office to get an outside line. The 916 is the Sacramento zone number. The 445 replaces the HIckory 5 and the 4711 is the number all this is leading up to. Then add the local vocally.

The other problem inside the book is that for the second year they have put four columns of names and numbers insead of three, as they used to do. In order to accomplish this, they had to reduce the size of the type—"only a teeny, weeny bit"—but for our aging eyes a teeny, weeny bit larger would be much better.

We know some youngish ladies who are quite concerned: "You know, my eyesight is failing, I have trouble reading the telephone directory now." It's not all your sight, ladies. The phone company's making it harder for you.

So we give the PT&T a bouquet for this year's cover and two brickbats for the contents. We would like to cast our vote for doing away with the multicolored cover and using the money saved in making the type bigger.

Bouquets And Brickbats

A BIG BOUQUET to young Shirley Hodgkinson whose screams awakened her father and allowed them to make their escape from their burning home.

A BOUQUET to M. Robert Charles and employees of Fleur de Lys Restaurant, San Anselmo, who expressed their sympathy for co-worker Mrs. Juanita Huffman by turning over to her restaurant earnings of March 23 and contributions totalling more than $500. That was the night her home on Ivy Lane burned down.

A BOUQUET to Dr. Belman C. Maddox, Mill Valley's "Man of the Year."

BRICKBATS to all this publicity about Liz and Eddie! Who cares?

MARIN LOOKS AT POLITICS

Clem Miller Tells What He Sees, Believes About 'Liberal Papers'

By CHAPIN A. DAY

'CHIP' DAY

What happened about the "Liberal Papers" on which I reported March 27? Here's what Cong. Clem Miller of Corte Madera writes:

"As to how the whole thing came about, and what it is really about, it is my conclusion that an assistant in one of the congressional offices here abused every canon of authority, accuracy and truthfulness in relationship with members of Congress and with others. The Republican National Committee, without any other evidence, then picked up "the Liberal Project" as a counterfoil to the Birch Society.

"For myself, I have refused to participate in any effort to link the Republican Party to the Birch Society. I think it is not only wrong, but irrelevant to seek to do this, and I have said so on numerous occasions . . ."

On March 28, Clem had the following statement inserted in the Congressional Record as a Personal Announcement:

"MR. SPEAKER, during the last few days there has been a flurry of statements, speeches, and press releases concerning a book called 'The Liberal Papers.'

"It has been alleged that this book or these papers were sponsored, proposed, supported, produced, or published by certain members of this body — apparently because these members of Congress are further alleged to be or to have been members of the liberal project.

"Since the matter has been raised on the floor of the House, it now seems proper for me to comment here.

"A Republican National Committee press release dated March 20, 1962, stated that the liberal project is or was sponsored by 35 Democrats, all present or former members of the House of Representatives. This same press release also included the following correction:

"'Press reports used as source material for Republican National Committee comment on "The Liberal Papers" erroneously named Representative George P. Miller, Democrat, California, as one of the sponsors. It is now understood that Representative Clem Miller, Democrat, California, was the person whom the press dispatches meant to name.

"'We deeply regret any injustice done to Representative George P. Miller.'

"Insofar as any press release or any press report meant to name me, it was done without my knowledge or authority. If I had been informed, it would have been repudiated.

"I am not and never was a members of any liberal project. I do not and never did sponsor, propose, or support the book, "The Liberal Papers," or these papers separately, or the views expressed by their authors. I have had nothing to do with producing or publishing the book or the papers.

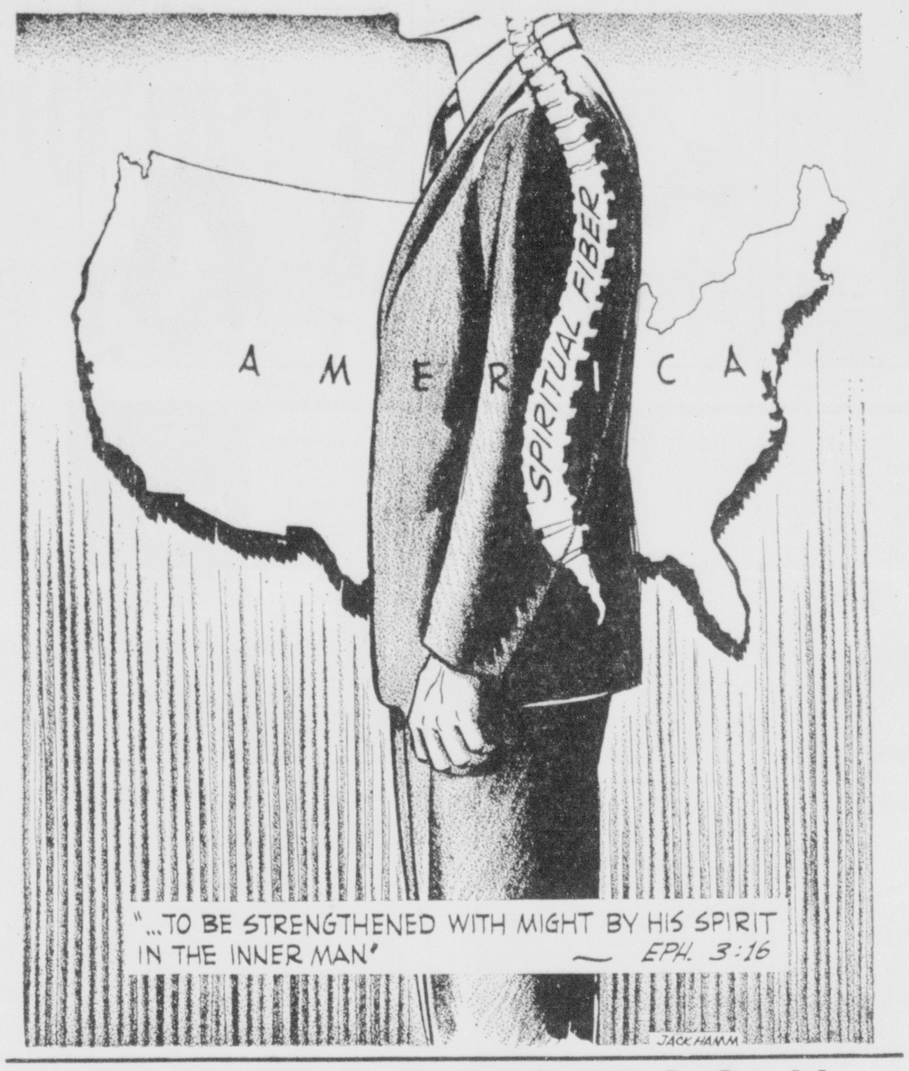

"Although I have not read the book or the papers, I personally disagree with and do not and never did endorse the views or proposals which they express, as they have been reported by the press and as stated in the various press releases on this subject."

WHAT OUR READERS SAY

Secor Is Candidate Without Alliance

EDITOR,
Independent-Journal:

Your recent I-J Reporter's Notebook Column speaks of an "unseen contest" in Mill Valley's forthcoming council elections.

I've observed such a contest myself, and I think I-J news articles have underlined that contest. It concerns widespread fear of apartment zoning and cheap marshland development. My whole campaign has been centered on opposition to APARTMENT ZONING AND ENCOURAGEMENT OF HIGH QUALITY MARINE DEVELOPMENT in the marshlands.

Your columnist's innuendoes about my supposed involvement in a mayoralty contest between Councilmen Sheeks and Monardo are absolutely without foundation. I am running for councilman on the basis of my experience as a businessman, my service as a planning commissioner and the absence of any conflict of interest.

Claire Tilden Qualifications

EDITOR,
Independent-Journal

After reading your article about me March 29, I would like to request equal space to answer my critic's attack on my integrity and honor! I am reluctant to dignify Mr. Kapranos' libelous statements by rebuttal, and am flattered no end to know he is all shook up over little ole' me who received my landscape architect's license under the grandfather clause.

May I present my qualifications: A native of San Rafael, I grew up in the building business. I have had four years of college, and 16 years of close association with the landscaping field. I have designed and had built, three homes in San Rafael, including my own. I pay my bills, religiously, by the 10th of each month. In applying for my license, I had to present copies of plans drawn by me, and other related material.

In his complete letter, Mr. Kapronas refers to me as "a person less than qualified to do professional work." A good many people have retained me to design their gardens, which appears to prove that my clients consider me professionally qualified. For the past eight years the State Board has happily accepted my money for my landscape architects license, $647, and nary a complaint.

My husband, Scott, is a licensed architect as well as a licensed landscape contractor. I am NOT a contractor of any kind. It was I, not my lord and master, who signed the contract with the Santa Venetia school. I did not solicit the bid, but was invited to compete. In our related fields, both Scott and I prefer residential work. Mr. Tilden no desire to bid on any jobs for any public funded organizations, altho we are taxpayers, and he has no intention of bidding on the Santa Venetia school landscaping should it be up for bid.

It was very sporting of Mr. Kapranos to complain so long and bitterly without knowing the facts. My ethical conscience is clear and I can live with myself!

Terra Lindans And Dufficy Project

EDITOR
Independent-Journal:

After attending the March 27 meeting of Marin County Planning Commission, it is apparent that additional information is required to inform residents of Terra Linda of the proposed nursing and convalescent hospital between Nova Albion Way and Trellis Drive.

It seems that Dr. Dufficy and Commission members expected little or no opposition to the proposal. However, attendance of over 30 Terra Linda residents and the petition submitted in opposition to construction of the hospital behooves the Independent-Journal to publish any information available. Certainly if sketches, statistics and/or drawings are available to the Planning Commission, this same information should be published to inform residents of Terra Linda—not only the information discussed at the meeting, but any future proposals that may be submitted.

The meeting was held without adequate information — information which should have assisted Terra Linda residents voice their opposition to this proposal. The Commission's attitude seemed to be that a letter from Dr. Dufficy, outlining his proposals and read prior to the meeting, was all the information deemed necessary. Why wasn't this letter and sketches of the areas affected by this construction submitted to the Independent-Journal for publication?

The first Independent-Journal article mentioned a five-acre site to be developed, and yet a total of 33 acres may be involved — levelling hillsides and wooded areas to construct multiple dwelling apartments adjoining single dwelling homes and affecting traffic patterns in the Trellis Drive, Arias and Nova Albion Way area.

The next hearing, April 16, I'm sure, will find more opposition to this proposal and concentrated efforts of Terra Linda residents to be heard more than once on this matter.

Swear To Uphold Constitution

EDITOR,
Independent-Journal:

A campaign to make all loyalty oath enthusiasts and Francis Amendment petitioners swear to uphold the Constitution is in order.

This great document plainly guarantees to all citizens the right to think as they please and should end the oath hysteria forever.

The free flow of ideas is the very thing that these thought-control advocates can't stand.

TRY AND STOP ME

BENNETT CERF

One of the apocryphal stories concerning the running feud between Editor Harold Ross and his star but temperamental contributor, Alexander Woollcott (all this in the New Yorker Magazine's heydey) concerns the time Woollcott turned in a "Shouts and Murmurs" column a little too dripping with schmaltz and purple prose. Ross sent it back to Mr. W. with this note crayoned across the margin: "What you need Woollcott, is a good, stiff ride on the subway in the rush hour."

There's an imaginative 4-year-old in a suburb of Milwaukee who marched into his house one morning holding a long, wiggling worm. His mother reacted about as expected, and gasped, "What are you doing with that hideous worm?"

The 4-year-old explained, "We were playing outside, and I thought I'd show him my room."

The Eskimo had a reasonable explanation for leaving his 260-pound wife. He told a sympathetic judge in Sitka, "She wouldn't stop blubbering."

Pitbull Dog-Fighting Case May Have Cost Humane Society A Home

The latest rumor is that long before the pitbull dog-fighting incident ever occurred, certain big landowners down Lucas Valley way were thinking of donating land for the overcrowded Marin Humane Society pound.

But now, of course, any such idea is out of the question.

WE ADMIT SCHOOL business should be conducted in the open, but they didn't have to go quite this far.

You've probably already noticed in the new PT&T directory a phone listing for: "Tomales Bay Union School District: Elementary School John."

DID YOU KNOW that Pamela Stettler Costello, Miss California and runnerup for Miss USA, is now in the banking business?

She's with Bank of America in San Rafael.

TUESDAY'S THE Big Day for Marinites.

Will Sally win or won't she?

Will Willie hit a homer or won't he?

Three busloads of ball fans will be leaving from 751 Club in San Rafael for the opening game at Candlestick. Business won't come to a standstill, perhaps, but you can bet a lot of people will be "home with a cold" or "attending grandmother's funeral."

In the Sausalito election battle, political speculators are already thinking far ahead to the future. Says one excited citizen: "What if Sally Stanford wins and eventually becomes mayor. How would we address her—Mrs. Mayor, Miss Mayor, Madame Mayor, or what?"

IN FAIRFAX, all candidates have been busy as beavers on their campaigns, except candidate Cornelius Van Vliet, the town printer. He's been too busy turning out campaign literature for his opponents.

It got so hectic one day that Van Fliet left out the middle initial in candidate Russell E. Brayall's campaign card and had to do the whole thing over again.

ON THE COUNTY level, Coroner Frank Keaton, who's getting opposition for the first time in 12 years, pulled out some old campaign cards—only to find that the printers had mis-spelled a word four years ago.

He'd never noticed it before.

EVEN SAN RAFAEL, which doesn't elect until next year, has some excitement once in a while.

Just the other night, City councilmen were asked to hire Mary Lou Jensen as secretary in the police department. Oft-married Councilman Fred Jensen quipped: "Mary Lou Jensen? Is that one of my former wives?"

AMONG SURPRISE visitors in town this week were developer Maury Phillips, who is now operating between Palm Springs and Las Vegas; and Carmel Booth, former mayor of San Anselmo, now fighting gnats in Lake County.

UN Needs And Should Have Public Re-examination, But Not Now

WASHINGTON — The UN financial plan has been having a rough passage through the Senate and it may well run into worse trouble in the House.

The situation is curious. There is in the country an overwhelmingly large majority in favor of the general purposes of the UN. Comparatively speaking, the money involved in the bond proposal is a very small amount.

What is more, articulate criticism of the merits of the proposal has been unimpressive, and indeed so weak both in fact and in argument that it was easily disposed of by a face-saving compromise.

I HAVE COME to realize, which at first I did not, that the real question is not the money, the bonds, loans versus bonds, or the preservation of the United Nations. The real question is whether Congress will give a vote of confidence in the UN as it now is composed and as it now operates.

The efforts to amend the bond proposal are rather like a motion in the House of Commons to reduce a particular estimate and force a debate on a vote of confidence in the government. Such senators as Aiken, Hickenlooper, Jackson and Mansfield do not, we may be sure, mean to wreck the UN. But they do not like the way it is now going, and they are not willing to give the UN as it is today an unqualified vote of confidence.

THERE ARE the best of reasons why the UN should be re-examined publicly and debated by the Congress.

But the responsible way to go about this is to get a bipartisan agreement for the re-examination after the emergency measures have been taken to tide the UN over the current financial crisis.

The UN operations in Palestine and the Congo are critically important to the peace of the world. And they must not be brought to a standstill just because there are deep questions about the constitution of the UN which need to be re-examined.

Friends of the UN should welcome, indeed they should insist upon, a re-examination. The UN in 1962 is a wholly different organization than the UN which the Senate in 1946 voted to join with only two dissenting votes.

If the UN is indispensable to the orderly transition from the old colonial order, it cannot do its work effectively unless Congress gives a new vote of confidence to the United Nations.

VAGUE UNEASINESS exists and will grow if the public air is not cleansed by a re-examination.

I think that re-examination should have begun months ago when there was the uproar about the Congo.

I have no doubt whatever that the more thoroughly the issues are investigated, the more our people know about the story of the Congo, the more solid will be their support of the UN. The story, which like all human stories has its cracks and its bumps, is a very good story and becomes better the more fully it is told.

Today is Saturday, April 7, the 97th day of the year with 270 to follow in 1962.

The moon is approaching its first quarter.

The morning stars are Jupiter and Saturn.

The evening star is Venus.

On this day in history:

In 1927, an audience gathered in the auditorium of the Bell Telephone laboratories in New York to watch the first successful long-distance demonstration of television.

In 1932, Gov. Franklin Delano Roosevelt indicated he would use the theme of the so-called "Forgotten Man" if he won the Democratic nomination for president at the coming convention.

In 1947, millions of Americans were without telephone service as telephone workers in 39 states called the nation's country-wide strike in the industry.

In 1953, Dag Hammarskjold of Sweden was elected secretary-general o fthe United Nations for a five-year term.

A though for the day: Norwegian author Henrik Ibsen said: "There can be no freedom or beauty about a home life that depends on borrowing and debt."

Youngsters like this are more than newspaperboys. They've become a healthy economic force, both for their own betterment and the good of the community. Imagine: these young fellows, since the start of the Independent-Journal Merchants Point Program, have purchased some $5,-500 worth of goods and services from participating merchants. (Using points, earned as commissions for new subscriptions, redeemable by the I-J at cash value).

Merchants in the plan both gain business and help these younger businessmen gain in the knowledge of buying and saving. (Some boys for instance, are putting savings with Marin firms toward a college education).

In addition, our 600 newspaperboys, earning nearly $200,000 annually, are placing these funds to work in Marin—banking, investing, buying, adding to the economy and to their own advancement. It's all part of the community values which these self-reliant youngsters create by doing a job. In this, we believe, everyone gains.

Independent-Journal

For Michael Fraize, that's a window to the future. Just 13, he's already investing part of his earnings with Marin County Savings & Loan Association.

NOTICE OF SALE OF PERSONAL PROPERTY AT PRIVATE SALE

In the Superior Court of the State of California in and for the County of Marin.

In the Matter of the Estate of ALBERT J. SCHROEDER, Deceased.

No. 14341

Notice is hereby given that the undersigned will sell at private sale to the highest bidder upon the terms and conditions hereafter mentioned and subject to confirmation by the Court, at 32 Fern Road, Kentfield, California at 9:00 A.M. on April 24, 1962, all the right, title, interest, and estate of the above-named decedent at the time of his death, and all right, title and interest that the estate has, by operation of law or otherwise, acquired other than or in addition to that of the decedent at the time of his death, in and to the following described personal property: all furniture and home furnishings, located at 32 Fern Road, Kentfield, California.

Bids or offers are invited for the property and must be in writing, and will be received at the law office of Robert E. Halsing, 785 Market Street, San Francisco, California or may be filed with the clerk of the above-entitled Court, or delivered to the undersigned personally at any time after the posting of this notice and before the making of the sale.

Terms and conditions of sale: cash, in lawful money of the United States of America; 10% of the purchase price to be paid at the time of presentation of bid and balance on confirmation of sale by the Court.

The right is reserved to reject any and all bids.

Notice is hereby further given that if the property is not sold on the aforesaid day, the same will be sold, subject to the terms and conditions above mentioned on April 25, 1962 at 9:00 A.M. at the place above designated.

For further information and bid forms apply at the law office of Robert E. Halsing, 785 Market Street, San Francisco, California.

Dated: April 2, 1962.

DOUBLE LUCK OF JR. GRAND NATIONAL

Host Counties Queen Connie Lloyd, 17, of San Francisco, represents both San Francisco and San Mateo counties at the Grand National Junior Livestock Exposition, April 17-18 at the Cow Palace. Over 1,400 California youngsters will participate in the exhibition and auction sales. A three arena shows will be presented featuring the Onodarka Drill Team, greased pig and calf scrambles, a horse show, and Fresno's state champion "Saddle-Lites."

Cancer Research Gains Reported

MINNEAPOLIS (UPI)—A team of doctors said yesterday that in less than 25 years surgeons may be removing vital human organs, saturating them with cancer-curing radiation and replacing them in patients.

University of Minnesota surgeons reported they have removed stomachs from dogs, kept the organs out for up to six hours in low temperatures and successfully sewed them back in the body.

Dr. Richard C. Lillehei, 34, one of five surgeons working on the research project in a makeshift laboratory at the campus, said if the method could be developed safely for humans it might be used in treating cancer, ulcers and other diseases of the stomach and intestines.

Lillehei, younger brother of famed heart surgeon Dr. C. Walton Lillehei, said if a cancerous organ such as the stomach could be removed from the body for a time it could be doused with 13 times as much radiation as could be safely given it in the body.

Lillehei said the research team discovered new knowledge that could lead, within a quarter of a century, to transplantation of organs from one person to another.

Drs. Lillehei, Jerrold Longerbeam, Bernard Goott, Stanley Goldberg and William R. Scott have been working on the studies for four years under grants from the U.S. Public Health Service.

The surgeons said they found they could chill a dog to 41 degrees — sharply slowing the body processes — remove its small intestine and keep the organ at room temperature two or three hours.

By putting it in salt water in a refrigerator, they said, they could keep the intestine out as long as six hours, then re-install it.

Ten dogs opearted on in this way have been watched for two years without a show of ill effects, the doctors said. Despite severed nerves that did not grow again, the intestine remained healthy, the doctors said, and within a few weeks the intestine was able to absorb fats normally.

The surgeons said they then learned they could remove a dog's stomach and keep it detached from the body for more than five hours by cooling it. Dogs with re-installed stomachs have been studied for up to two and a half hours, the surgeons said.

In further experiments, the research team tried removing and treating dogs' stomachs with big doese of X-rays or gamma rays. No dog so treated survived for more than 10 weeks, the doctors said, but they said other complications usually caused death.

The surgeons also grafted small intestines from one dog to another. Usually the animals survived only eight days. The surgeons said studies indicated the surgery failed not because of rejection of the graft by the "host" but because the intestine rejected the "host."

Lillehei said the indications that a graft could react—that it was not an inert mass of tissue — could be important new knowledge in transplantation.

Alcoholism Unit Names Duffy

Clinton T. Duffy of Greenbrae has been named executive director of the San Francisco Council on Alcoholism, Judge Gerald S. Levin, chairman, announced today.

The group, providing an information and referral service for persons directly or indirectly concerned with problems of alcoholism, maintains offices at the Presbyterian Medical Center, 2340 Clay Street.

Duffy retired March 1 from the California Adult Authority.

Mobil Gas Run Won By Rambler

I-J Special Report

DETROIT—A 1962 Rambler American drove off with top honors in the 2,497-mile Mobil Economy Run completed here Thursday.

The six-cylinder Rambler American averaged 31.11 miles per gallon on the six-day run from Los Angeles. Driving the winning car was Les Viland, an American Motors engineer. Forty-six cars in eight classes were entered in this year's event.

A Ford Falcon came in second. The average of all cars in the run was 22.7 miles per gallon.

"In the face of confusing mileage claims and counterclaims that we have been experiencing, we are gratified at the results of this independent test sanctioned by the U.S. Motor Club," said Thomas A. Coupe, vice president of sales of American Motors. "An independent test of this type continues to prove the economy of operation superiority of Rambler."

In achieving the top miles per gallon figure for the run the Rambler American was victorious in Class A category—compact cars with standard transmissions. In addition to the Rambler American and the Falcon other cars in Class A were Chevy II, Corvair, Pontiac Tempest, Studebaker Lark and Ford Fairlane. The American "400' two-door sedan's 125-horsepower engine made it the most powerful in the category.

Coupe emphasized that cars driven in the Mobil event are stock models with no special equipment and that they are selected for entry at Random by USAC officials.

Rambler has been a consistent winner in Mobil Economy Runs, having placed first in its class in six other years. Ramblers have also taken top honors in each of the three years of the pure oil economy trials at Daytona Beach, Fla.

Marin Brown Chairman Named

Mrs. Robert Westberg of Mill Valley today was named Marin women's chairman for Gov. Edmund G. Brown's re-election campaign.

The announcement was made by San Francisco Dist. Atty. Thomas C. Lynch and State Sen. George Miller Jr., co-chairman of the Northern California Committee to Re-Elect Governor Brown.

Mrs. Westberg is on the steering committee of the Redwood Democratic Club. She is active in the Pixie Parents organization and the Sunny Hills Guild; and is Mill Valley Unit chairman of the Family Service League.

Senior Citizen Building Drive Chairman Named

Harry Heifitz, San Rafael real estate developer and foreman of the 1960-61 Marin County Grand Jury, has been unanimously elected chairman of the new Senior Citizen Building Committee.

The committee then changed its name to "Senior Citizens Programming and Building Commission," feeling that this better expressed its aims, which go beyond plans for a building at the civic center.

It decided to submit to county supervisors next Tuesday its unanimous recommendation that a research consultant in its field be engaged.

There was a candidate present, and to be backed in the recommendation: Louis Kuplan of San Francisco, consultant and lecturer on retirement planning and problems of the aging.

Kuplan told the group that he felt a building alone would be worthless, but it would be valuable if used as a vehicle by which senior citizens could give more to the community.

The committee said it would put before the supervisors a program for engaging Kuplan on a limited-duration basis.

Color Films To Be Shown At Art Show

Several color films made by water-colorist Eliot O'Hara will be shown at an art show opening at 2 p.m. April 15 in Ross.

The showing, "Marin Scene," will be in the Frances Young Gallery in Marin Art and Garden Center.

The event is open to all media, non-juried, and should be of particular interest to Marin residents, said Lynn Falch, chairman. He will be assisted by Marin Society of Artists members Leola Devlin and Jim Bays.

The color films dealing with various painting problems will be shown beginning at 3 p.m. April 15, said Falch. Refreshments will be served.

The show will remain in the gallery until the end of April and then be transferred to Corte Madera Shopping Center for display on May 4 and 5. Corte Madera merchants will award prizes for this show and also make a contribution to the artist society's building fund, Falch said.

Scouts To Hold Court Of Honor

Boy Scout Troop 14 of the San Geronimo Valley will hold a court of honor along with its regular meeting at 7 p.m. Monday in the social hall of San Geronimo Community Presbyterian Church.

Awards to be given include one of star rank earned by Dennis Korth.

BROWN BEAR PARACHUTED 45,000 FEET

EDWARDS AIR FORCE BASE (AP) — A brown bear was rocketed out of a B-58 bomber going 1,060 miles an hour yesterday in a successful test of a new ejection capsule for bomber crews.

The 125-pound animal, variously dubbed "Big John" and "smoky," parachuted 45,000 feet to earth safely in the capsule minutes later.

The tests are part of a series to perfect an ejection seat designed to provide oxygen and protection from windblast for crewmen who have to bail out of fast bombers.

First Aid Classes Set For Tiburon Firemen

A first aid class will be taught to Tiburon Volunteer Firemen starting at 7 p.m. Tuesday at the main station, according to Joseph J. Murphy, Tiburon Volunteer Firemens Assn. president. The Red Cross-sponsored course will continue for four weeks in three-hour sessions.

At Wednesday's meeting the volunteers voted to sponsor the Tiburon Peninsula Pony League. They also started planning for a barbecue to be held May 19.

Stiff Fine For Drunken Driver

Walter Scott Wright, 43, San Francisco real estate man, must pay $386 fine and remain on two years probation for driving while intoxicated near Lucas Valley road on Jan. 4.

Judge Joseph G. Wilson of Marin Municipal Court suspended a 30-day jail term and put Wright on probation on condition he pay the fine and restrict his driving for six months.

Wright had a prior drunken driving conviction in Palto Alto in June of 1958, but this was stricken from the record on Wright's plea that a jail term would work an extreme hardship on him and his family. A second drunken driving charge carries a mandatory five days in jail.

Edward A. Schultz, 50, of 120 McAllister Avenue, Kentfield drew $139 fine and six months probation. He was arrested on Highway 101 on March 4.

Woodson Realty Firm Is Sold To Associate

A change in operation of Woodson Realty Co., 2202 Fourth Street, San Rafael, was announced today by John Woodson, who has heretofore been co-principal in the business with his wife, Alice.

Woodson said the firm has been sold to W. John Mountz of 3 Lillian Lane, San Rafael, who has been an associate broker in the business for about eight years. He said he and his wife have taken a smaller office at 2208 Fourth Street which will be known as John Woodson, Realtor and Alice Woodson, Realtor. They will continue to engage in real estate and appraising but without an office staff.

Mountz said his firm will now be entitled W. John Mountz, Realtor, doing business at Woodson Realty Co. His wife Lillian will be active in the business with him. There will be no change in the office staff.

Heliport Planned For Marin

San Francisco-Oakland Helicopter Service, Inc., hopes to establish a heliport and helicopter service in Marin County by the end of the summer.

The company "has been negotiating with interests in Marin County about establishing a heliport near San Rafael for the past four months," according to David Nelson, public relations director.

A heliport near San Rafael would make the seventh Bay Area heliport for the company.

Yesterday, M. F. Bagan, president, announced the opening of service next Wednesday to Sunnyvale in Santa Clara County. He said the trip to Sunnyvale from San Francisco International Airport will take 16 minutes as compared to 45 minutes by auto.

The firm serves San Francisco and Oakland Airports, Berkeley and downtown Oakland and San Francisco heliports.

School Social Studies Discussed

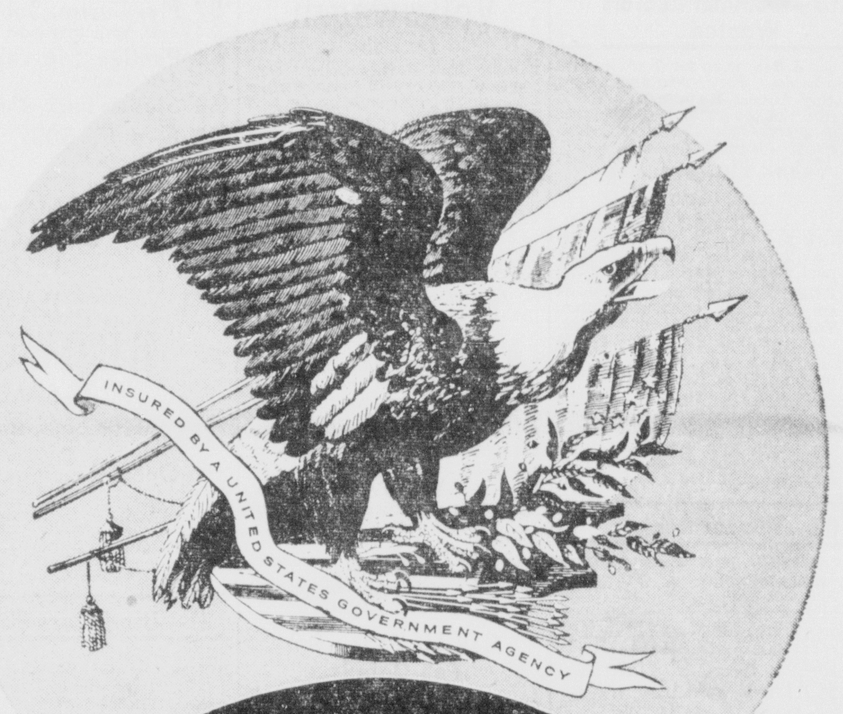

Social studies in the lower grades was discussed by the Novato committee on school goals at its meeting Thursday night in the administration building.

The committee took up how geography and history are brought into the lower grades. The text used in the first two grades is made up by the teacher. A common text is used in the third grade in all schools in the district.

Ralph Giovaniello, assastant superintendent in charge of instruction, told the committee that a new state law requires that history and geography be taught separately starting with the fourth grade.

From Baseball To The Business World

Lessons Learned On Athletic Field Have Served Pete Spiliotis In Good Stead

By HARRY CRAFT

Any connection between playing baseball and the world of business might seem obscure, but San Rafael building contractor Spero (Pete) Spiliotis doesn't think so.

"More and more these days I see kids who don't know how to take defeat. That's what baseball, or any sport, develops," he asserts. "We're in a competitive world and this is what they need to learn —and how to live through it. Too many of them are just watching the game and not enough of them are playing."

The words carry even more weight when you look a little closer into the life of the man who spoke them.

SPILIOTIS, a young man in his early 30s whose solid frame is evidence of an active sports background, chalked up a score of almost one million dollars in construction projects last year. This is particularly impressive when it is considered that he has been in the building industry less than seven years.

And he has had a generous share of the defeats that go with "playing in the game" and not just watching it . . . in construction, sports, and in other ways.

Probably his first major setback was in 1950 when he was signed by the St. Louis Cardinals upon graduation from high school, and then had a promising professional baseball career cut short a few months later by the Korean War.

That experience removed all possibility of becoming a big league catcher, for it left him badly wounded in both legs at Chusan Reservoir by machinegun fire. After two years of hospitalization and his discharge from the Marine Corps, he did report to the Cardinals for spring training but his legs weren't up to it.

Pete's early youth had always been a healthy, active one.

BUILDING CONTRACTOR Spero (Pete) Spiliotis directs activities on his various projects from his office at 32 Front Street, San Rafael, but spends nearly as much time at job sites. The young construction firm head was responsible for the first condominium apartments completed and approved for Marin County last fall.

Born in Cleveland, Ohio, of Greek parents, he was the youngest of five children. The fact that the other four were all girls was no handicap, for Pete's father, a candy manufacturer, was an enthusiastic sandlot baseball sponsor who managed to steer several boys teams into local and district championships and one into an American Legion championship.

So it was natural for Pete to do more than just drift into sports. It was his life. By the time he was in high school he was winning laurels not only in baseball but in football and basketball.

THE CANDY business was a family affair. Everyone worked at it.

"Sometimes into late night and early morning—particularly just before the holidays," Pete said. "We had a good store and our candies were good. They were known all over the city."

But when Pete was discharged from the Marines in 1953, the situation had changed.

"My father had died while I was in the service," he explained, "and though I tried taking over the store it didn't work. Homemade candy seemed to be on its way out and the neighborhood had deteriorated. After several months we put the equipment up for auction. It cost us $300 to get rid of it."

Pete's next move was to Miami University in Florida. He hoped to become a coach, "but it wasn't the same as playing."

"One of my Marine Corps buddies was Chuck Irwin who lived in Ross," he went on to relate. "I came out to visit him in the summer of 1954 during vacation and liked Marin County so well I never went back.

"Chuck worked for the Marin Title and Guaranty Co. and was president of the Junior Chamber of Commerce. Incidentally, he's now living in Sarasota, Fla., and is going to law school."

Pete's entry into the construction field was through one of its back doors. But it was not until he had been here a year that he actually ventured inside.

He had been drawing maps at the old San Rafael Land and Title Co. and through his daily contacts with developers was offered two lots remaining from a subdivision in Sun Valley, San Rafael.

"THEY WERE willing to subordinate the lots to me for building and I decided to tackle it. I borrowed $500 for a payroll and went to work."

Pete still speaks of the occasion with some grimness, for the events that followed turned out to be more discouraging than a low seasonal batting average.

The lots weren't advantageously located for a newcomer in the construction field. There was a hillside behind them and the never-to-be-forgotten winter of 1955-56 hit him like a smash over left field, as it did many others.

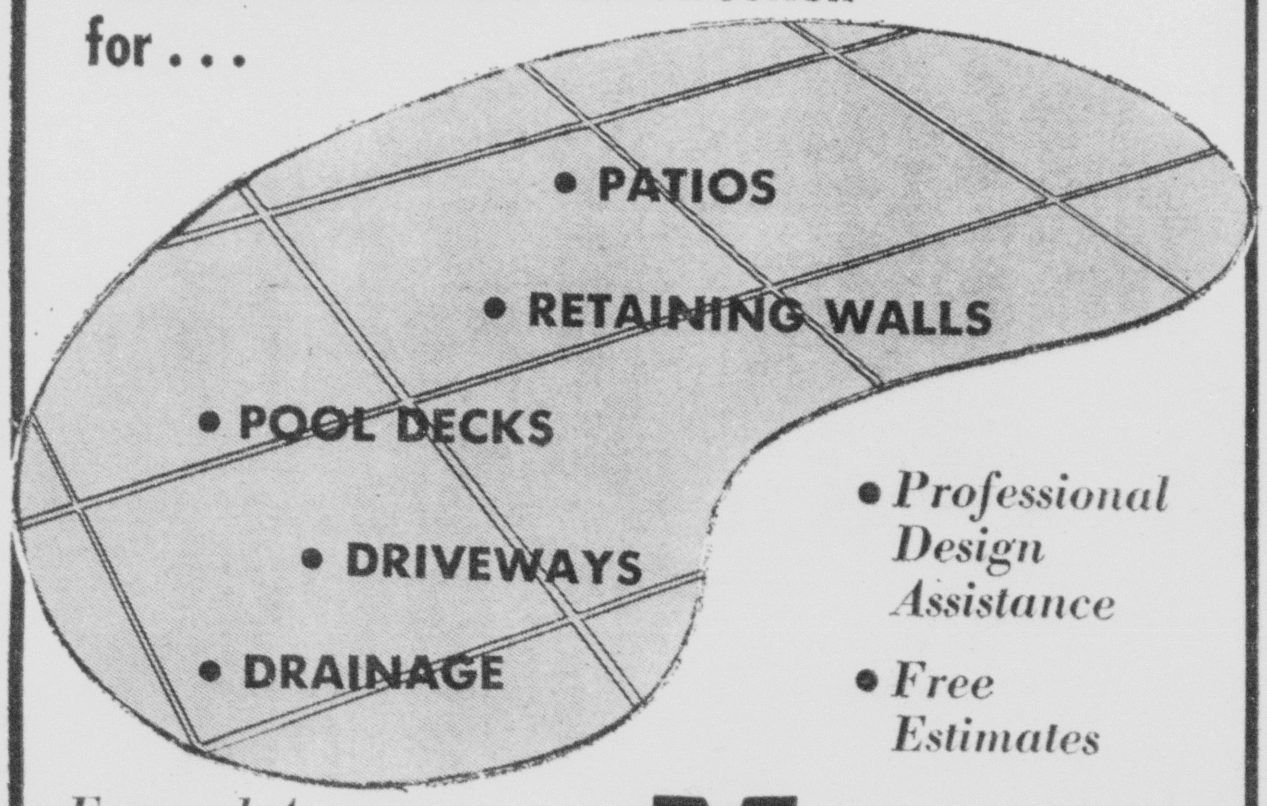

"I wasn't playing for East High School against Benedictine in Cleveland," he said. "This was a shutout game from that day in December when the first rains covered the bases with mud. I managed to dig them out of it and repair the damage—but it took 18 months to sell the houses and when I checked the scoreboard, I'd lost $9,000."

Before that deficit came to light, however, Pete had already taken a flyer on two more lots in the Oak Woodlands tract near Mountain View Avenue, San Rafael. Here there were no disastrous effects from the storms but the lots were in canyon territory, roads weren't developed and the public was wary of the whole outcome.

"EVERYBODY said Oak Woodlands was going to end up at the foot of Mountain View and Grand avenues," he said without bitterness. "Nobody was buying there. The first house was built in three months and it took me over two years to sell it. That was another rough stretch. In 1957

I couldn't even get a $5,700 bond."

In spite of this, Pete had confidence in the project and in 1958 he negotiated for the remaining lots in the 50-parcel subdivision.

"You never have enough working capital when you're growing and if it hadn't been for Keith Dearth at Northwestern Savings and Loan I wouldn't have made it. I can add that two others who have gone along with me are Dan Davis and Jim Gibson of Wells Fargo Bank in San Rafael," Pete admitted freely.

Oak Woodlands didn't get fully under way until 1959, he added. But such were the rewards of patience that he has now built 45 homes in the area which included the purchase of an adjoining piece of property.

Pete's next venture was a departure from single family dwellings. It led him to a two-acre site at the corner of Francisco Boulevard and Tiburon Street owned by Charles Warner. On it were some small-apartment buildings, another building occupied by Briesh Auto Top Shop and a quonset hut.

He tore down the Briesh building and quonset hut and moved the apartments to his present office location at 32 Front Street, paving the way for the erection of a warehouse for Montgomery Ward and Co. and the more recent construction of the Roll-Aire Skating Rink.

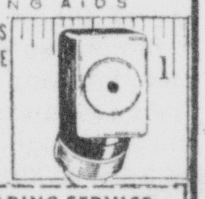

The latter enterprise does not occupy the entire building, a portion of which Pete has reserved for his own offices later. The Front Street property will then revert to apartment and other use.

NOTEWORTHY among the Spiliotis accomplishments last year was completion of Everglade Town Houses, the first condominium to be approved in Marin County, at Canal and Novato Streets, San Rafael. Pete believes it was the first approval in the state.

"We had hoped for this go-ahead but were prepared to lease out the apartments if it didn't come through," he said. "Fortunately it was passed as a 'three-dimensional subdivision' by the California Division of Real Estate and we lost no time in putting the units up for sale. The buildings were already two-thirds completed. Now we're building more on the property adjoining."

YOUNG SPILIOTIS started his baseball career in a sandlot team managed by his father and moved into the pro ranks, but had his big league ambitions cut short by the Korean War. He believes his sports experiences and defeats have helped him to "stick it out" in business competition.

BASEBALL WAS not the only sport in which Pete Spiliotis was skilled, though he was signed on as a catcher by the St. Louis Cardinals in 1950. He was also an enthusiastic football and basketball player. Here he is seen as he appeared on the varsity of East High School in Cleveland.

Here again, Pete is inclined to pass out credit for help where credit is due. He speaks highly of his construction superintendent, Hank Vlahos, and real estate broker Gary Brown who has been associated with him in these projects.

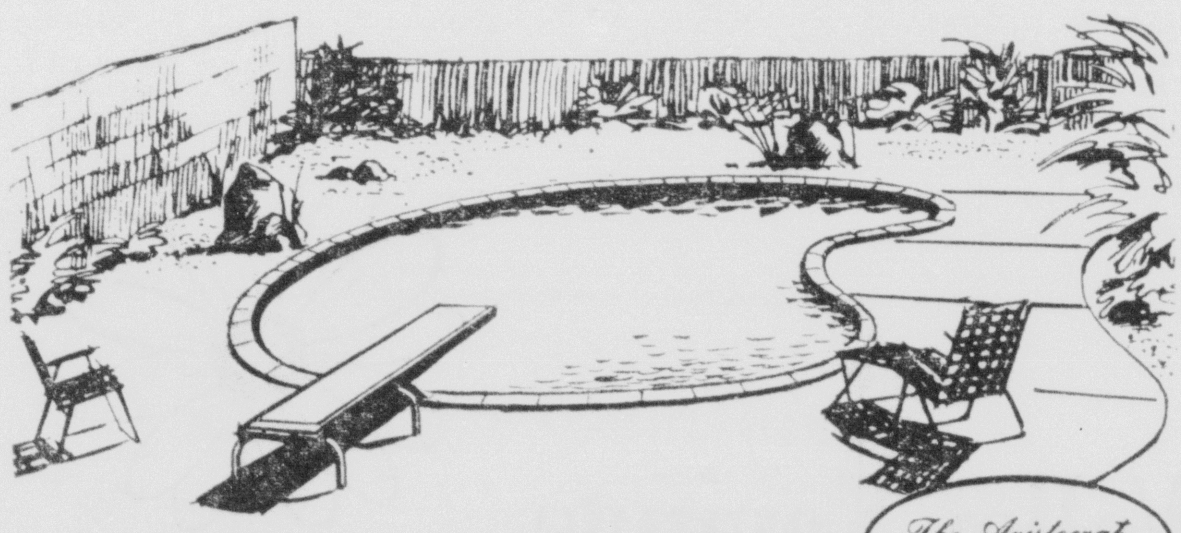

"Gary spent a lot of time on the condominium and did most of the leg work," he said. "That's another thing I learned in sports—teamwork. One man, no matter how good he is, can only do so much if he doesn't have a team to back him up. That's what my dad used to preach when he was managing our sandlot games. I never forgot it and we've made a good organization here."

Pete's "home" team is something on the same order. The Spiliotis family—his wife (the former Lorraine Rafferty of San Rafael) and five children (three girls and two boys) — live comfortably in Fairhills and enjoy life together.

His mother who comes out for a visit every year is now staying with them.

AT THE MATINEE opening of the new skating rink a few weeks ago I saw Pete and Lorraine with two of their daughters. I'm not sure, but I thought I detected a trace of wistfulness in his eyes as he watched the girls whirling around the floor.

But it was only a fleeting expression and I could have been mistaken.

Mill Valley Schools And Their Libraries

How Seven 'Shoestrings' Are Being Fitted Into An Integrated Pattern

By SALLY GAROUTTE

How is it possible to weave together seven different shoestring operations—each a different "color" and different "length"—and come out with a coherent, workable and satisfying pattern?

This is the problems confronting Laurel Robinson, Mill Valley school librarian, and the administrators of the schools as they operate seven highly individualized school libraries in the district.

Each of the libraries was begun at a different time, which accounts for their difference in "length." And each was started by the impetus of a different group of parents and teachers, which accounts for their differing "color," because each of the elementary schools in the Mill Valley District has its own special character.

BUT NO MATTER which school is being considered, one single pattern emerges clearly — the kids want to read! And they want to read good books.

Virginia Radenzel, Parent-Teacher Assn. library chairman at Homestead School, tells of a group of sixth grade youngsters standing in the library discussing the movie, "Swiss Family Robinson." One child said, "Oh, the book was so much better than the movie!" And another responded, "I think Disney just ruined the story!"

Mrs. Radenzel isn't the only one with stories to tell about children and books and school libraries. She is the most recent in a line of enthusiastic library chairmen at Homestead. The first was Carla Hoag.

Mrs. Hoag's two children are now in college, and she says: "So many things have called for my attention since then that it's hard to remember exactly how it was. I think it was 1949 that we started the library. We only had a large closet to keep the books in. The children themselves donated the first books—ones they'd outgrown. We didn't have much of a filing system."

It is probably significant of the spirit in which the various libraries were begun that there are only meager records of the first days. No one was much interested in records; only in getting the books into the hands of the children.

Judy Polanshek, one of the "real librarians" who have been P-TA chairmen, carries on Homestead's story. "We really had quite a time when I was first on the committee. We were using the old kitchen by then. The books were kept in the kitchen cupboards . . . We used bricks to prop them up.

"We had to work around the old dishwashing machine and other kitchen equipment. The district finally had enough money to convert the kitchen to a library room, but the playground fell down that year and the money had to be used for that."

But patience and persistence were rewarded, and Homestead School now has bookshelves instead of a dishwasher in its library, even though there isn't room for any kind of table.

Whenever a group of students want to have a discussion about books, they have it standing up. And whenever the volunteer library committee has work to do on the books or files, they do it at home.

THE VARIOUS P-TA library committees (volunteers) have been the mainstay of the libraries throughout their development. Their role has differed considerably from school to school, but almost without exception they have been and are still the women who have given untold hours to cataloguing and processing books for the shelves, preparing files, and doing much of the actual attending of the libraries. Their previous experience has ranged from none at all to graduate degrees in librarianship.

Barrett Larsen, first chairman at Old Mill School, says: "It's definitely the most rewarding job at school! When Mr. Lovvorn first was principal in 1955, he got together with the P-TA and told us that the one big project he would like to see us take on was cataloguing the library. We just sat and looked at each other—we hadn't the faintest idea how to begin!"

The P-TA minutes from that year indicate that there was a collection of nearly 1,100 books on hand. What the minutes don't tell is that many of them were discards contributed from personal libraries and supplementary textbooks. According to Mrs. Larsen, "Brun Liebes is the one responsible for really getting the job done. She spent every day for months just quietly weeding out unsuitable or worn out books and cataloguing the rest."

And, as the minutes again indicate, the library opened in March of 1956 with all the books catalogued and filed under the Dewey Decimal System.

Principal Bill Lovvorn says simply: "I came to Mill Valley from the Stockton school system where they had libraries in every school since 1936. I thought it would be nice to have one at Old Mill, too."

Other people report that Lovvorn gave the library committee strong and active support in its activities. He made several trips back to Stockton to learn their system of organization in more detail, and from one of these trips he returned proudly bearing a card file, a gift of the Stockton schools to the fledgling library.

Professional librarians were asked for assistance and shared their invaluable experience.

Marie Tether, fifth grade teacher at Old Mill, has coordinated the use of the library into the school program so that the third, fourth, fifth and sixth grades all have regular library periods in which they choose books with the aid of a P-TA volunteer. And Mrs. Teather spends her lunch hour keeping the library open so that books will get into the hands of children.

THE IMPORTANCE of books and children getting together is stressed by Edith Hurd, for two years library chairman at Old Mill and, with her husband, Clement, a writer of children's books.

Mrs. Hurd says: "People talk about children not reading—where else but from school can they get books if they don't happen to live near a public library? They do read when they have books. Sometimes when Clem and I visit other school districts to give book talks, we feel pretty envious of their wonderful library facilities. But the important thing is the books, not the library room itself."

Not all the school libraries have been started by the parent groups.

Caroline Wasserman, fifth grade teacher at Alto School when it opened in 1948, had worked with the teaching of reading. After attending a reading conference at San Francisco State College in the summer of 1949, Mrs. Wasserman suggested to the P-TA that a library would be a great addition to the school.

There was at that time a Dads' Club at Palo Alto which took up the idea with great enthusiasm. The enthusiasm was almost too much for Mrs. Wasserman.

She says: "I'll never forget! One father was a really big thinker—he wanted to raise $25,000!"

What the P-TA actually was able to contribute from the proceeds of their country fair the following spring was $400. This didn't buy very many books. But the following years saw more contributions from P-TA and more allotment from the school district's meager funds.

Then in 1954 Alto became primarily a seventh and eighth grade school. The intermediate students went to the new Strawberry Point School, and the intermediate books went with them. Two years later Edna Maguire School for seventh and eighth grades was opened, and the book collection for those grades was sent over there.

ALTO HAD TO begin all over.

Money was contributed. Books were contributed including two sets of encyclopedia. It was a steady growth, but slow.

The 1959 library chairman Aline McClain says: "I didn't know much about libraries, but I thought we ought to have more books. So I sent out a letter to all the parents asking for donations of books

THE SOUND OF MUSIC reproduced in the home is reaching an unbelievable stage of perfection. Those of us that have in our homes music systems made from the finest COMPONENTS are always on the alert to pick out records and tapes that are recorded with the highest of standards. Our music systems are capable of bringing out the most delicate tones, the tremendous dynamics of the full orchestra, the pure quality of the solo instruments, the intimate liveness of a vocalist on-mike, the sparkle of triangles and cymbals, and the deep richness of the basses and the kettle drums.

The new recordings MASTERED ON 35 MM MAGNETIC FILM are an excellent example of the latest improvements in the quality of records. Recording on 35 mm film has many advantages over masters recorded on conventional ¼ inch tape: The 35 mm film is more than four times as wide as ¼ inch tape, thus enabling the recording of three tracks each, ¼ inch wide with plenty of separation between tracks; the film has practically no flutter because it rides firmly across the heads with positive feed from sprockets; the film is 5 mils thick (three times thicker than tape) and this reduces the possibility of print through from layer to layer; each wide ¼ inch track allows a much greater range of dynamics to be recorded, and also, because of this width, the signal to noise ratio is far superior; the fast recording speed, 18 inches per second, assures an excellent frequency response; and because of the high tensile strength of film, and the sprocket drive, pitch changes due to tape stretch are eliminated.

If you want your component home music system to sparkle with realism, try the new COMMAND CLASSICS in stereo, recorded on 35 mm film. Listen to "Capriccio Espagnol" by Rimsky Korsakov and "Capriccio Italien" by Tchaikovsky as released on the new Command. Visit our Sound Room and treat yourself to the SOUND OF MUSIC. Ask to hear one of the new Command 35 mm albums played on one of our Component music systems.

A School Library System Grows

for Christmas. Not just any books; we had a list of the most needed volumes for our library. The response was wonderful. And the Alto Volunteer Fire Department heard about it and sent us a check for $25."

Of major importance is the decision of which books shall be purchased with the hard-won library funds. Suitable titles fall generally into two categories: Those which directly supplement the curriculum and those which are for pleasure reading. These categories tend to overlap somewhat, as one child's meat may be another child's pleasure.

The method of selecting books has also varied from one school to another. Some of the schools have a selection unit as a part of the library committee. The members gather lists of desired titles from the principal and teachers at the school, consult a wide variety of recommended book lists, consult children's librarians, make trips to book outlets and do a considerable amount of reviewing and study before placing book orders for the year.

Other library committees feel that the selection of books should be handled by teachers and principal.

AMONG THE latter is Strawberry Point School which opened in the fall of 1952 with a small book collection inherited from Alto. There was no library room, and the books were housed on shelves in the various classrooms. Part of the proceeds from P-TA functions were added to the book fund each year, but children still had access only to the books in their own classrooms.

In 1957, Principal Joseph Womack and P-TA president Ellen Binckley arranged to make use of part of a storeroom as a central library. The books were gathered up from the classrooms and classified, primarily by Margaret de Smet and Berniece Kelly. There were at that time slightly over 700 books in the collection.

Now, there are more than 2,500 books—all processed by the volunteers.

The volunteers also do all the book mending, but they do none of the selecting or distributing. Actual distribution to the children is done by the principal Womack, school secretary Jean Nelson, and some of the older children.

Pat Clark, present library chairman, says: "This system seems to work best at Strawberry Point. Our main problem now is one of space."

The newest and smallest school in the district, Marin Terrace, also has the smallest library. Sometimes referred to as "our five-foot shelf of books," the collection is housed in what used to be the principal's office.

Dr. Logan Miles, principal at Tamalpais Valley School as well as at Marin Terrace, says with mock rue: "They moved me out to make room for the books," adding "they have their values straight."

Dr. Miles has been "allowed" to keep his office at Tamalpais Valley School, where the books are squeezed into a shelf-lined closet. The school had a fair collection of books, but they weren't being used to best advantage until Florence Foisie became library chairman in 1959. That summer Mrs. Foisie organized an enthusiastic library committee which spent a total of 270 hours reorganizing and reclassifying the books into a Dewey Decimal System.

THE VALUE of all this work was not lost on the board of trustees, which has always been strongly behind the library program.

G. R. McConnell, district superintendent, wrote to Mrs. Foisie and her committee on behalf of the board: "You would not be involved in this project if you did not believe, with us, that the development of good reading habits and a taste for worthwhile literature is something each child should have. We wish we could do more in terms of personnel, equipment, and book purchases but unfortunately we cannot, and so we depend upon you and those who have assisted you to make the most of the situation. Please be assured that each and every member of the faculty and the administration is grateful for your help."

The committee then took on two new jobs. One group of 16 mothers volunteered to staff the library each week during library hours, working in close cooperation with the faculty. Another group

Tips on Purchase and Home Care of Your Wardrobe

By Robert & Ronald Casassa, Marin Cleaners of San Rafael, Bel Aire and Fairfax, 454-4792 — Member N.I.D.

"WHY DOES TERRY CLOTH WEAR OUT SO QUICKLY?"—Mrs. E. V. S.

Dear Mrs. E. V. S.

You feel that cleaning your terry cloth robe has weakened it, causing it to wear out quickly. To understand why terry cloth does not hold up well, you must understand the terry weave.

"Terry-weave" fabrics, robes, towels, mats have two distinct thread systems. Each serves a definite purpose. "Ground threads" hold the material together as a unit. On this foundation loops or pile threads are woven so as to absorb moisture. While the bulk of the "terry-weave" makes it seem stronger, actually it is no stronger than the "ground threads" that hold it together. Terry cloth is generally made so that only every second or third "filling" thread will be long enough to reach the outside yarns of the selvege. They are held by about one-third of the "filling threads." Once the "filling" threads are worn, the support for the outside warp threads is gone and the selvege falls apart.

"Terry" fabrics are deliberately made with loose, soft yarns to absorb moisture. Strength is of minor importance here and absorption is gained at the expense of wear. That is why terry cloth weaves deteriorates more quickly. It is not the manner in which the cloth is cleaned.

How Mill Valley's School Library System Was Built

Hard-Working Parents Played Major Role In Its Creation

began to build a vertical file.

A vertical or resource file consists of folders of material on various subjects clipped from periodicals. Much excellent material otherwise unavailable may thus be added to a library. Several of the schools maintain vertical files, and teachers find them of and teachers where they are actively kept up.

Some of the library committees have in the past few years begun book review meetings. Thus a great deal of information can be exchanged if each member reads and reports on a few books.

PARK SCHOOL is the oldest of the present Mill Valley District schools, having been built in 1908. It has had a book collection longer than the other schools, too, but until 1956 when Frances Purser came to the rescue, the books were widely scattered. Mrs. Purser, another "real librarian" (and now working at her profession at Humboldt State College), collected nearly 2,000 books from classrooms, basement, and odd corners, catalogued them and arranged them in a central library room.

"Real librarian Barbara Dillon, now librarian for the Ross School District, was volunteer library chairman two years ago at Park. With the help of Principal Glenn Skelton, Mrs. Dillon organized regular library hours each week for each class above second grade.

A pilot program is now under way under the present chairman Bea Thorpe to teach all the students how to use the card catalogue. The volunteers do the teaching with Miss Robinson, the district librarian, as consultant. Volunteers also prepare book talks for the various classes and conduct reading hours outside of the regular class time.

About three years ago, the library chairmen from the different schools began comparing notes.

The committees began to feel that they had gone about as far as they could without professional assistance. Library funds were far too precious to waste through misdirection.

THE FIRST step in obtaining learned advice was a series of four seminars given in February, 1960, by May Durham of Mill Valley, then a lecturer at the School of Librarianship of the University of California. This series was sponsored jointly by the school district and the P-TA. The subject was "Children's Literature" and the meetings were open to teachers, administrators and interested parents.

Among Mrs. Durham's comments was: "Every child will read; those who do not just have not found the book to get them started. The librarian's most important job is to open the world of books to children . . ."

She further stated that she did not think that an effective library program could be carried out by volunteers alone. Even though volunteer help was of very great value, it was not enough and could not be reorganized as an ideal situation.

Spurred on by this confirmation of their own feelings, the library chairmen sent a letter to the board of trustees in which they recommended the employment of professional help for the school libraries, and asked for more library funds.

The trustees referred the matter to the P-TA Council and the school administration, who set up a joint study committee.

The committee was asked:

Are we getting full utilization from our book collection?

And what are the steps necessary in moving from a mere book collection to a useable library?

The library study committee brought in a report to the board in May, 1960, stating: "School libraries provide an opportunity to acquaint all children with books other than texts on a great variety of subjects and written from many points of view . . . The school library makes available well-written books that reach out to the imagination and intelligence of all children, as well as offering a challenge to the gifted child and enticing the slow-reading child."

The study pointed out that a professional librarian could best utilize the "considerable investment" in books, work with the faculty to strengthen the academic program, carry on a progressive program of training in library usage, select books and evaluate collections in order to build a balanced library, and bring continuity to the library program which could not be achieved with each school working independently.

THE MEMBERS of the board unanimously agreed that the Mill Valley School District should have the services of a professional school librarian, but could find only enough money to employ a person on a part-time basis.

The administration then began a search for a qualified librarian and, after a number of months and interviews, employed Laurel Robinson. Now Miss Robinson is full time librarian for the seven elementary schools.

To Miss Robinson was handed a real job—that of weaving together the seven different shoestrings. All the libraries have to be evaluated and sorted, and plans made for balancing the collections. Circulation records must be kept. Teaching library methods must be standardized. All so that children will have equivalent opportunities to read books.

One of the first big steps in organization, begun soon after Miss Robinson's arrival, is a central catalogue in which every book in every library is to be recorded. This central catalogue will make possible an inter-library loan system.

A Library Does A Lot With A Little

By BRUCE COLEMAN

It's a 40-step climb to the tight—but bright—little Mill Valley Public Library.

"At least three-fourths of the people who come in," says librarian assistant Constance Carla, "lean breathlessly on the counter for support, then ask, 'When are you going to have a building on the level'?"

DESPITE THE climb, bulging stacks and antiquated facilities, the library is known as one that "does a lot with a little."

For this reason the library has received the 1962 Dorothy Canfield Fisher Award—the first to be given in California. The award will be presented in ceremonies tomorrow to librarian Dorothy Thomas by Mrs. Carma Leigh, state librarian.

It is made by the Book of the Month Club as a memorial to the late Mrs. Fisher, writer, historian and lecturer who was dedicated to a wider circulation of books.

In a letter to Mrs. Thomas, the club wrote: "The use of the Mill Valley library compared with the size of the book collection indicates the determination of the staff and the library board to provide the best possible service though their resources are limited."

SPACE IS AT A premium in the crowded little Mill Valley Public Library, but that has not prevented it from providing services on a level that has won for the library the 1962 Dorothy Canfield Fisher Award. The award will be presented at ceremonies tomorrow afternoon. In left of photo can be seen part of the collection of long-playing recordings which are available for loan—a unique service in this area. (Photo by Phil Palmer)

Eight similar awards will be presented simultaneously throughout the nation. Included in criteria for choosing the award is that the library must serve a population of less than 25,000 and must show evidence for a distinctive need for and purposeful use of additional book funds. The library must provide equal service to all, regardless of race, creed or nationality.

The 50-year-old red brick library boasts an annual circulation of 161,000 with a collection of 41,000 books. This breaks down to 600 books circulated daily, putting the library out in front among other cities its size.

THE LIBRARY has 1,200 long playing records, also for loan. It is the only Marin library with this service—nor is there such service in San Francisco, Mrs. Thomas said.

The library is a member of the North Bay Cooperative Library System, processing 100 books a month through this inter-library loan service.

"The staff is in a position to get absolutely any book within the state," comments Mill Valley writer Nathan Asch. He calls it the "finest small, non-institutional library" he has seen and calls Mrs. Thomas "magnificent."

Through the cooperative system, the library is receiving a collection of books on the theater.

On the human side the library is proud of five assistants, Miss Carla, Mrs. Margo Farnsworth, Mrs. Edith Frank, Mrs. Elizabeth Kelly and Mrs. Ina Sloan. Also three pages — Chris Hawley, Lynn Farnsworth and Les Mize.

"The heart of the library," says former library trustee Mary Engelhart, "is Mrs. Thomas. The increase in circulation which has continued at a phenomenal rate started with her."

Mrs. Engelhart adds, "I think it's wonderful young mothers can bring their kids to the library. You don't have to feel as if you're in a funeral parlor. I feel these children will not regard a library as a spooky place where some cranky old hen said 'Shhhh.' I'd climb three times as many steps for a library like this."

Two bond issues for a new library site have failed. At present library trustees, under chairman Benjamin Draper, are seeking site with funds totaling $23,000.

There will be an open house from 3 to 6 p.m. at the library tomorrow. The award ceremony, coinciding on the first day of National Library Week, will be at 4 p.m. at the Outdoor Art Club. In this building was housed the original library with 750 volumes. The award is a $1,000 check and a plaque.

Two reference works have been purchased with the award money which must be used for books only. They are the 13-volume Oxford English Dictionary on Historical Principles, and the McGraw-Hill 15-volume Encyclopedia of Science and Technology.

MAYOR Robert D. Huber will welcome guests; Draper will act as master of ceremonies and writers Richard Dillon, John Wesley Noble, Mark Schorer and Asch have been invited.

Library trustees are Mrs. Norine Farnham, Mrs. Dorothy Peavey, Robert Jenkins, Paul Fourman and Draper.

Mill Valley may well feel honored by the recognition extended the tight little library where things like the following happen:

"One man," said Miss Carla, "was on his knees in front of the stacks looking most devotional. Asked if he was saying his prayers, he answered, 'No, just trying to read these titles through my bifocals."

Miss Carla said that in many libraries, it is not necessary to use the bottom shelves.

The Many Hats Of Bill Matthews

Marinite Leaves Careers Behind To Concentrate On Art, Writing

By DON KEOWN

Behind Bill Matthews are careers in academics and income property work.

Now he's the morning clean-up man at Rico's Restaurant in Sausalito.

More important, he's an artist and a writer.

AND TOMORROW for a few hours he will don still another "hat" and become an auctioneer.

William Matthews hails from Minneapolis where he earned degrees in sociology and psychology and where for several years he taught in the University of Minnesota's sociology department.

His career in income property is of more recent vintage and took place in Marin.

"But," he says, "now I've put all that behind me and I am concentrating upon my painting and my writing."

The part-time job as clean-up man at the Sausalito restaurant, he explains, is simply to provide the necessities — food and rent — until such time as sales of his art suffice to cover such expenses.

THAT RENT is, in itself, a story. Matthews is currently residing on one of the Southern Marin landmarks, the old Spreckels boathouse, which now rests on a barge at the end of Waldo Point Road.

The big frame structure had to be moved to make room for the new Cote D' Azur luxury apartments.

The original plan was simply to shove the old boathouse into the bay as fill. Instead contractor Harold Holtzinger came up with the plan to save the structure by relocating it to the barge. And an extensive remodeling program is currently under way that ultimately will provide four studio apartments on the ground floor, two two-bedroom apartments on the second story.

Matthews says his time is divided thusly: "I paint during the day and I work during the night."

Writing has long been an interest of Matthews. He has completed both short stories and novels.

"But," he admits, "nothing has been published as yet."

But it is painting that is his real love and his priority interest. He has always painted as a hobby, but has had no formal art training.

He paints in oils and is a surrealist. His work was exhibited in Minneapolis and Chicago prior to coming to the West Coast. Here he has exhibited with the Marin Society of Artists and has had his work shown at the Marin Art and Garden Fair.

He has been an active member of the Marin Society of Artists for five years, having served as chairman of the artists' advisory council.

WE'VE COVERED Bill Matthews, the ex-teacher and ex-business man. And Bill Matthews, the artist-writer-janitor of the present.

As for Bill Matthews, the auctioneer:

Tomorrow, at the Frances Young Gallery in the Marin Art and Garden Center at Ross, Matthews will once again preside over the Marin Society of Artists' Annual Art Auction.

It was Matthews who originated the idea for the art auction as a society fund-raising event two years ago.

And he has served as its auctioneer annually. Last year his efforts helped in the raising of more than $1,500 from the sale of art pieces.

"I get a big kick out of it," says Matthews of the auctioneering.

Tomorrow's auction will run from 2 to 5 p.m. Silent, written bidding will take place from 2 to 4 o'clock. Then at 4, Matthews will begin the verbal auction.

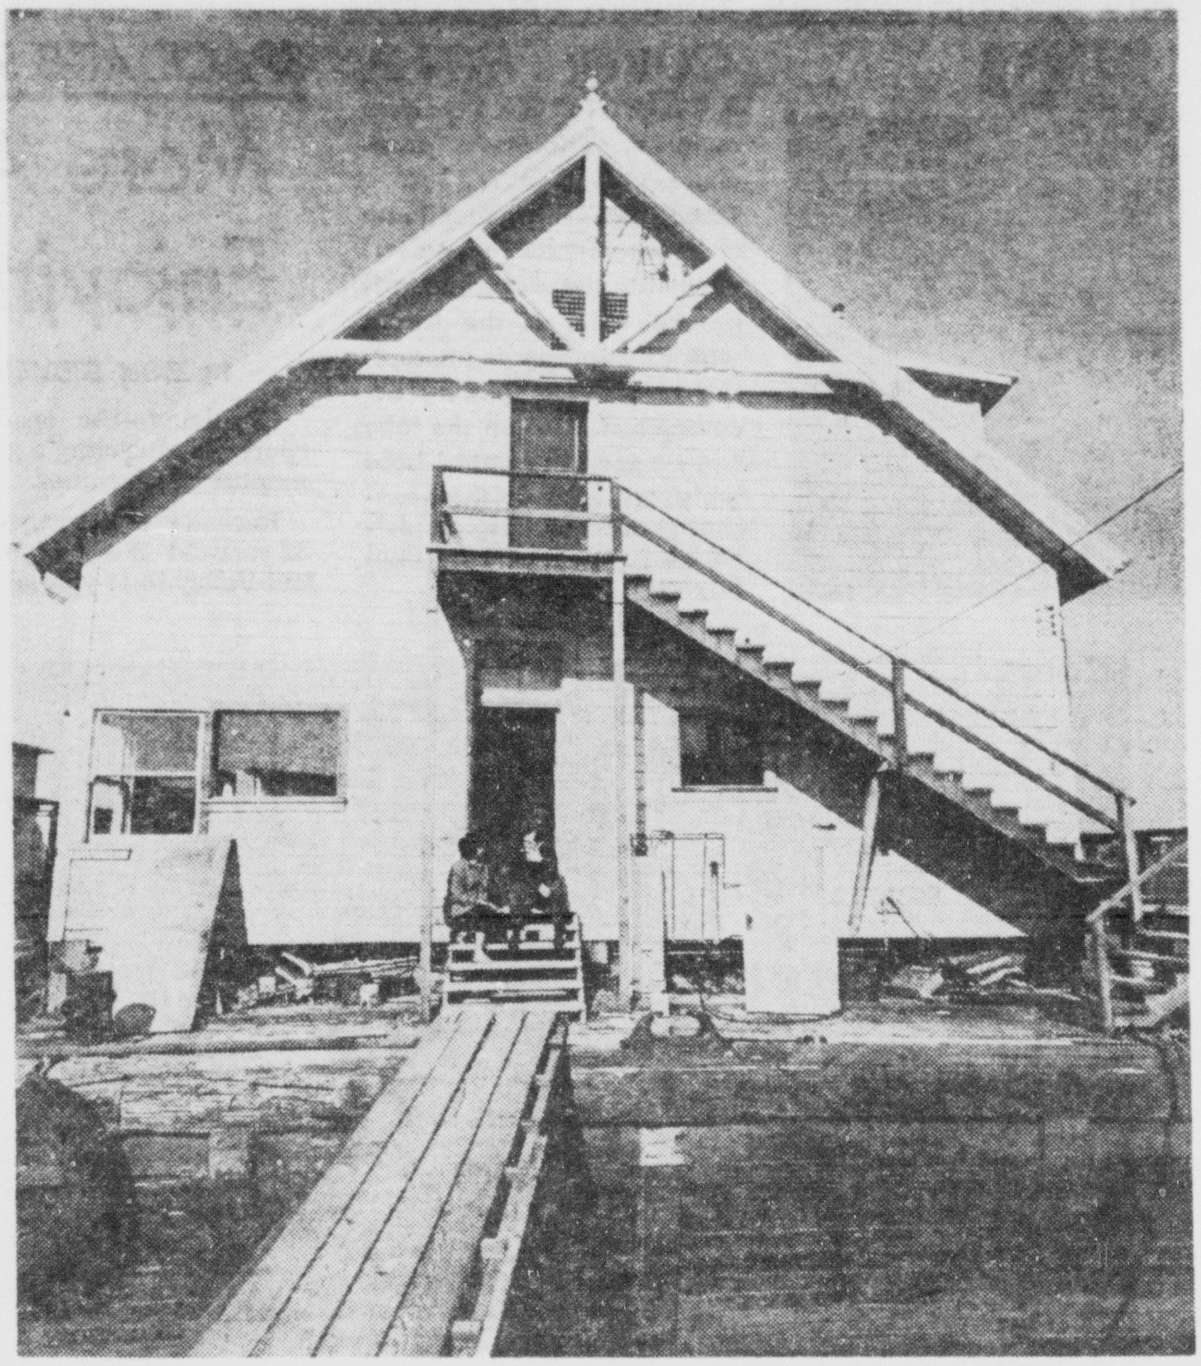

All proceeds from the building fund art auction will be used to help finance the construction of a new addition to the Frances Young Gallery.

Special ceremonies tomorrow will launch that project, with a program beginning at 1 p.m.

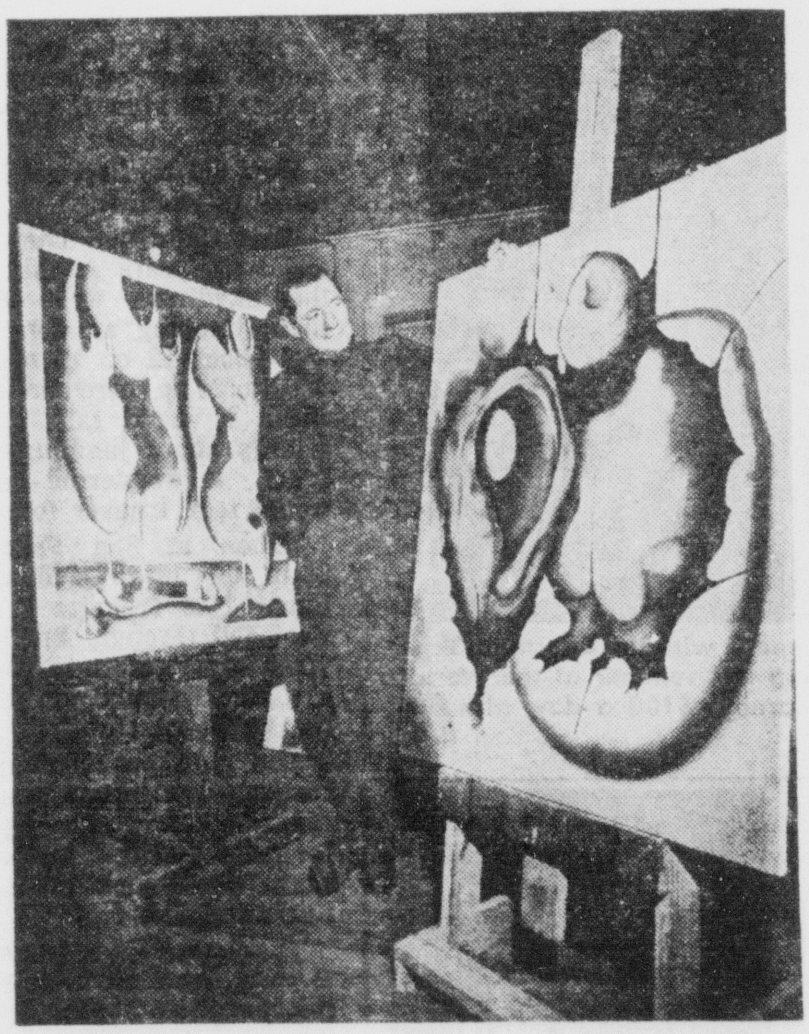

SPEAKERS WILL be Edward Cadogan, past president of the society who will discuss the organization's growth during the past 35 years; Mrs. Aaron Rucker, one of the founders of the society and the art and garden center, who will speak on the relationship of the artists' group to the center; and John Lynch, past president and chairman of the society's building committee, who will discuss the new addition and plans for its use and operation after its completion.

A ribbon-cutting ceremony will conclude the rites.

The new $10,000 addition to the gallery is to be completed in time for the July 3 opening of the 17th annual Marin Art and Garden Fair. Opening simultaneously with the fair will be the 35th annual Marin Society of Artists Exhibition, the organization's annual juried show that will then continue through July 31.

ON THE STEPS of what was once the Spreckels boathouse, Bill Matthews enjoys a chat with a fellow Sausalito artist, Nan Fowler. The old structure, built in about 1895, was a yacht club headquarters before being acquired by the Spreckels family. Now it has been moved onto a barge and is being converted into apartments. At present, artist Matthews is its sole occupant. (Independent-Journal photos)

SPACE AGE SPORT

More And More Marinites Are Enjoying Thrill Of Skydiving

By DON KEOWN

Skydiving—the space age sport—is attracting a growing number of Marinites.

Recent recruits range from 42-year-old Bob Wyman of Mill Valley to 17-year-old Hans Halberstadt of San Anselmo

Along with about a dozen other Marin men, a number of them stationed at military installations in the county, they belong to the Calistoga Skydivers.

Members gather at the small, privately-owned Calistoga Airport on weekends to indulge in what they regard as the most exciting of sports. And while they revel in the thrill of parachute jumping, they are quick to contend that the reputation skydiving has as a dangerous sport is not justified.

"Skydiving is a safe sport as long as Parachute Club of America rules are followed," asserted Halberstadt, a freshman pre-medical student at San Francisco State College. "And we follow them."

THE CALISTOGA Skydivers, along with similar groups throughout the country, are affiliated with the Parachute Club of America.

Young Halberstadt has completed four parachute jumps.

Did he have to overcome parental objections first?

"Well," smiled Hans, "my dad (M. Halberstadt, an illustration photographer) was an aerial navigator during World War II and he maintains that 'airplanes are not for jumping out of.'"

Nor was Mrs. Halberstadt enthused about her son's interest in parachute jumping.

But the way was eased, Hans believes, by the fact that neither of his parents took his plans too seriously. "I don't think they thought I would actually jump," he adds, "until after I came home from my first jump and told them about it."

OF HIS FIRST jump, Hans said: "The best way to describe it is that it was a new experience. Something totally different from anything I had ever previously experienced.

"That first jump wasn't particularly frightening. But it was thrilling—even more thrilling than I had anticipated.

"It's the second and third jumps when you really feel fright. And after that, you're all right."

How did he first get interested in skydiving?

That, Hans said, dates back about five years. At that time the skydivers were doing their jumping at Cotati. "I was about 12 or 13 and we used to go up there and watch them. I would talk to the fellows about jumping. And I got to wondering how it would feel. I never forgot it.

"Then at San Francisco State, one of the fellows attempted to organize a club. That fell through. But it revived my interest in skydiving. And I wound up joining the Calistoga club."

The club put Halberstadt through a rigorous training program before allowing him to make his first jump. His first "dive" took place last Christmas Eve.

The jumps Hans has made to date have all been static line jumps at 2,750 feet with the parachute opening at about 2,500 feet. The total descent time is about two and a half minutes. And a major part of the fun is the control of the chute in an effort to land on a target.

THE PARACHUTIST goes into the waters of Clear Lake, not far off his target, the rubber raft. It's an excellent performance. This jumper is Kaz Ostrom, a "professional" from Albany who frequently jumps with the Calistoga Skydivers. Ostrom will be jumping this summer at the World Fair in Seattle and will be earning $100 a day with his parachuting.

Skydiving Offers A Totally New Experience For Thrill Seekers

Hans is looking forward to the completion of jump No. 5. Then he will become eligible for freefall jumping. Then the jump is made from as high as 12,500 feet with a 60-second delay before the chute is opened at or above 2,200 feet.

"That," said Hans, envious of the more experienced skydivers who are already making such jumps," must be great."

UNCLE SAM, however, has some plans of his own which have interfered with Hans' skydiving aspirations. The youth has been called into military service.

"Naturally, I am going to ask for airborne duty," he said before his departure.

Mike Groves of Mill Valley, a 20-year-old College of Marin student who began jumping in February, is one of those who has just made that big skydive No. 6—his first freefall.

"It's all I thought it would be," he said of the experience. "Absolutely exhilarating."

The skydiver is classified as a student until he has completed 30 jumps. Then he becomes a Class B skydiver. Ahead still lie Class C and Class D ratings, each carrying with them additional privileges and prestige.

Distance, studies, other interests, the frequent bad weather on recent weekends and the expense of the sport kept Hans from being as active at Calistoga as he would like.

He told of one club member who has made as many as 10 jumps in a single weekend. And more than 300 jumps in a year.

The Calistoga Skydivers now have approximately 45 members listed on their growing roster, about half of them students.

They are one of six or seven northern California skydiving clubs—and perhaps the best known of the lot.

While the Calistoga Airport is small, the equipment for skydiving is regarded as "pretty good."

The owner of the airport furnishes the plane —a Cessna 195 — which takes the jumpers aloft. It costs each jumper $2.50 for pilot and plane for a ride to the 2,750-foot altitude utilized in static jumping, $5 per "passenger" per ride to the 12,500-foot altitude for freefall jumping. Four jumpers can be transported at a time.

THE CLUB provides parachutes for beginners. But as the jumpers progress, they acquire their own equipment.

Each jumper must wear two chutes—the main chute in a back pack which costs about $50, and a reserve chute worn in front which costs between $20 and $30. Then there are coveralls at $5, boots at from $5 to $10, and the helmet which may cost from $5 to $35. Most jumpers, Hans says, buy the $35 helmet because of the greater protection it affords.

A stop watch and altimeter are required for parachutists undertaking freefall jumps with more than a 20-second delay.

And some of the enthusiasts even take air speed indicators along with them on their descents.

As proof of the safety of the sport, Halberstadt pointed out that insurance coverage costs—attained through

Parachutes Blossom In The Skies Over Calistoga On Weekends

Marinites Among The Enthusiasts Who Have Taken Up This Growing Sport

the Parachute Club of America—are quite comparable to those of other vigorous athletic endeavors.

Parachute Club of America safety rules are comprehensive. And rigidly enforced.

All federal, state and local regulations must be complied with, and the jump areas cleared with local aviation officials.

THE RULES cover such matters as the keeping of jump logs, physical fitness, age limitations, required equipment, and the establishment of permissable altitude, weather, wind, rate of descent, clearance of landing area, etc., conditions.

Each time a jumper goes aloft, his parachutes and other gear are subjected to a careful check by a licensed individual.

Care is taken to see that the parachutists progress at the proper rate and do not undertake jumps beyond their experience.

Injuries from jumps must be reported to the Parachute Club of America.

Halberstadt could recall but one mishap of any consequence to a Calistoga Skydiver. That resulted in a dislocated shoulder.

Parachuting first began to catch on in the United States as a sport about six years ago. But the parachute itself goes all the way back to ancient China.

History tells us that umbrella-like parachutes were used by the Chinese to descend from the Great Wall in 1306.

In 1495 Leonardo da Vinci wrote of a parachute-like apparatus which he said would safely lower a man from any height. But his ideas never went beyond the drawing board.

In 1783 what is regarded as the first true parachute jump occurred. A Parisian professor named Sebastien Lenormand, after first experimenting with animals, then jumped safely from the top of an observatory tower with the aid of a cone-shaped device 14 feet in diameter.

Before 1800 parachute descents from balloons had begun.

And prior to World War I parachute descents from balloons were a popular spectacle as entertainment. Barnstorming stunt men were responsible for many of the improvements in the parachute developed in the early 1900s including the pack and the ripcord.

In World War I some 800 balloonists safely parachuted from their disabled craft. Airplane pilots, however, had no such chutes and, like the captain of a ship, went down with their planes.

There followed an increased emphasis upon the safety as-

CALISTOGA SKYDIVERS prepare to board the Cessna plane provided by the Calistoga Airport owner for the ride aloft from which they will bail-out. Each jumper pays $2.50 for pilot and plane for a "lift" to the 2,750-foot height from which static jumps are made.

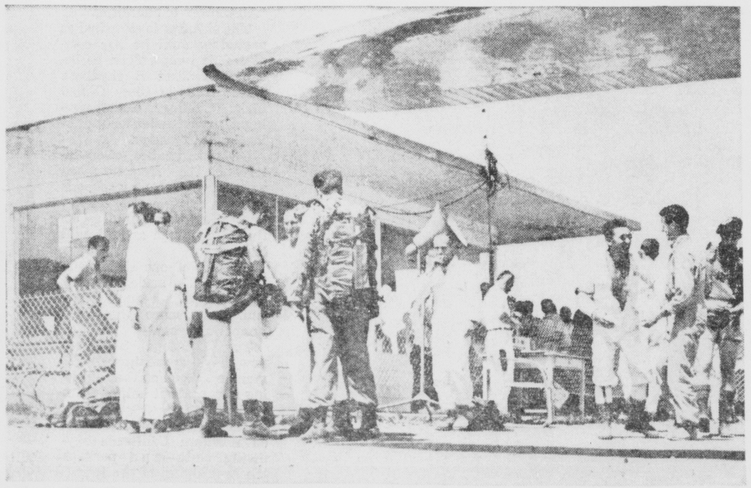

THEY'RE ALL ABOARD and ready for the take-off. The plane can carry four parachutists along with the pilot. For the higher ride for freefall (delayed) parachute jumps, a higher charge is made. It costs $5 per man at 12,500 feet.

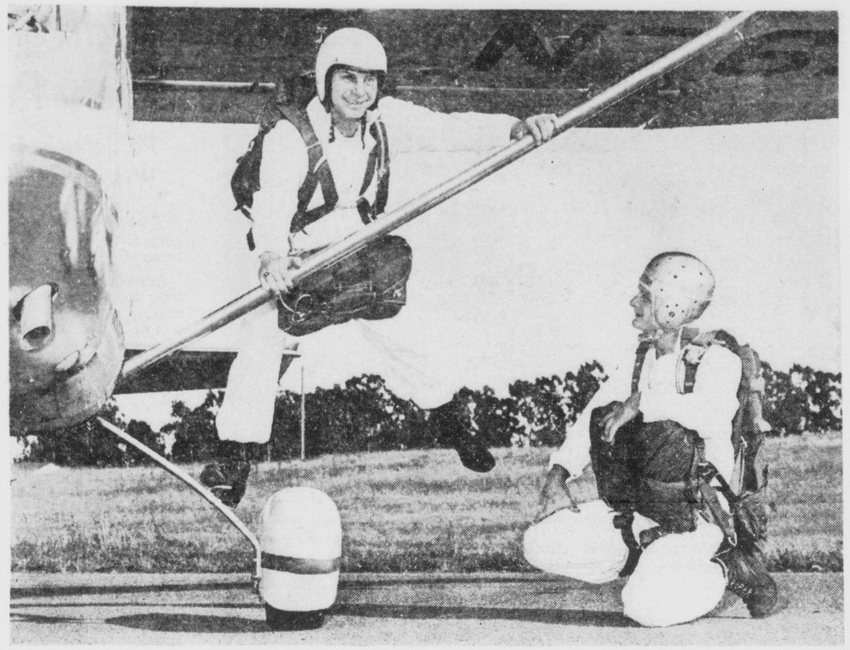

HANS HALBERSTADT, safely down after his second jump as a parachutist, begins the job of field packing his chute. "It was a good jump," he recalled, "and I was feeling happy."

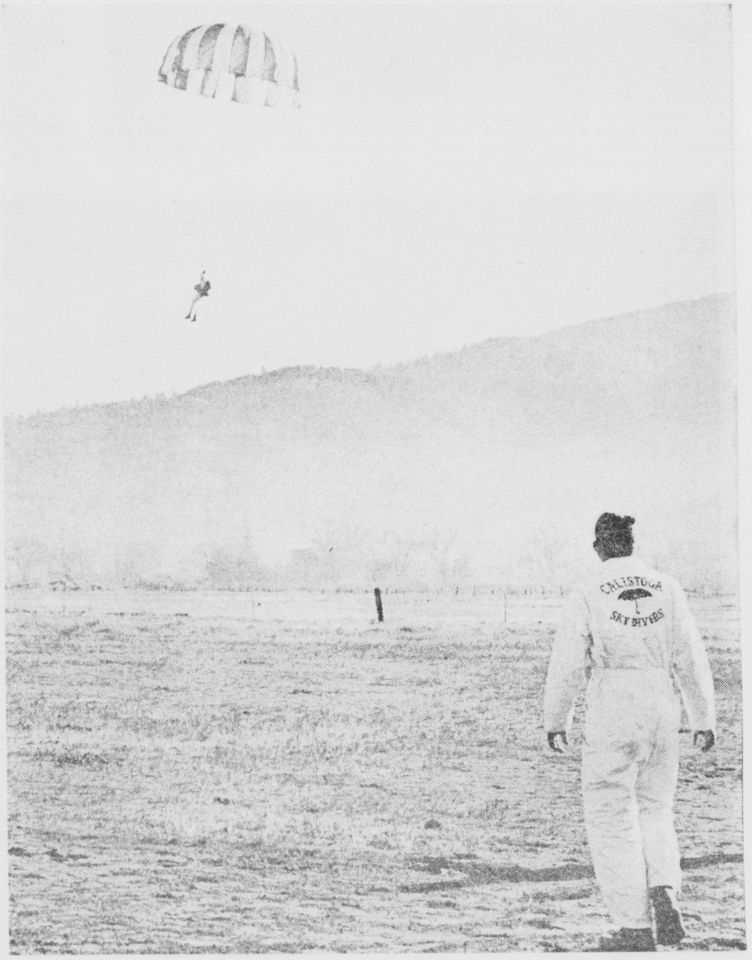

THE CALISTOGA AIRPORT can be a busy place on weekends, especially when there is a skydiving competition scheduled. Such events attract not only many jumpers, but also spectators from a wide area.

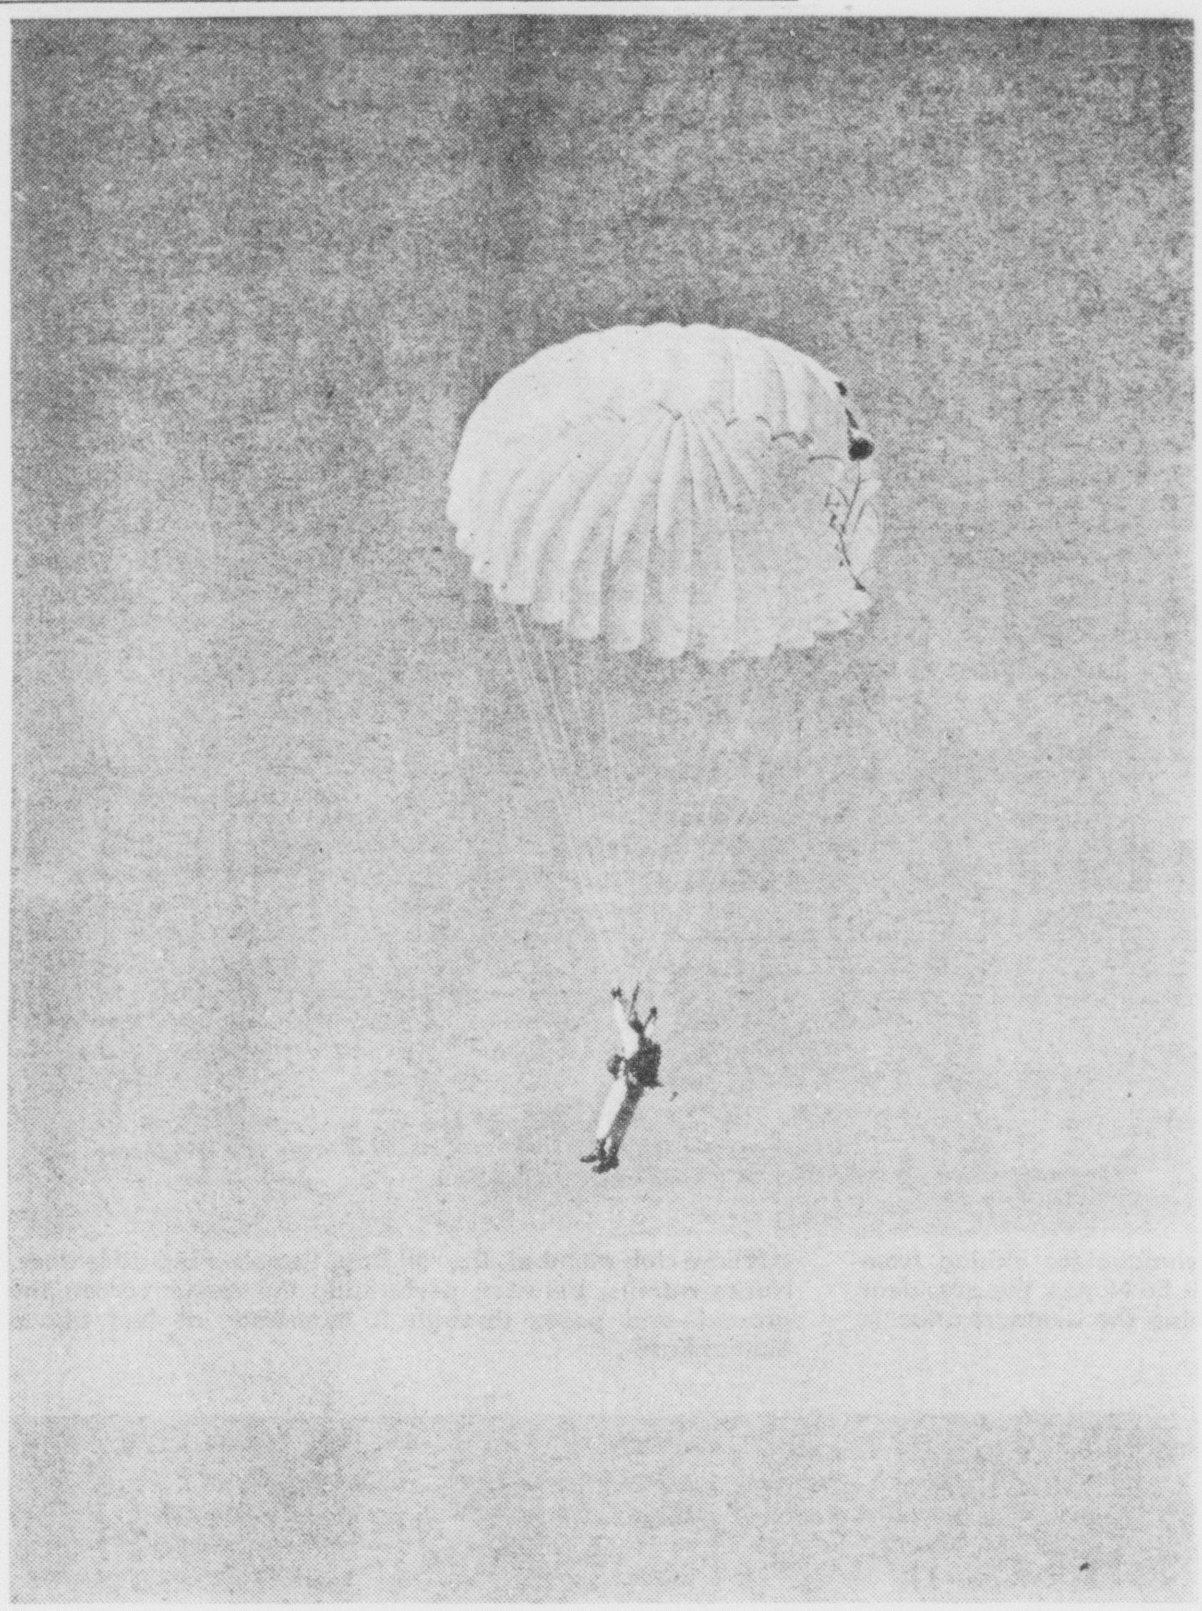

SOME OF THE Calistoga Skydivers await their turn for going up at the airport. Facing the camera in dark glasses is Jan Wieringa of San Anselmo, one of the Marinites who belong to the club.

DEMONSTRATING THE proper technique for exiting from the aircraft for a parachute jump is Ed Nunes, the president of the Calistoga Skydivers. Watching the demonstration is a fellow club member, Darrell Day. There's a big difference, Nunes admits, between performing the maneuver on the ground—and going through it thousands of feet above Mother Earth.

PARACHUTIST Don Carter of Santa Rosa drifts down in his chute, and fellow Calistoga Skydiver Bill Butler of San Rafael, on the ground, notes the proximity of the fence and moves over just to make sure no mishap occurs. Carter was but 100 yards from his landing target—a pretty fair performance.

APPARENTLY the first truly competive sports parachutists were the Russians who in July of 1930 conducted contests for amateur jumpers. By 1936, under government subsidization, 559 training towers and 115 training stations for civilian parachutists were scattered throughout the Soviet Union.

In 1949 France was earnestly engaged in the sport, and the following year perfected the newest technique of controlled and stabilized delayed falls now used by U.S. parachutists.

By the end of 1956, there were still only four parachute clubs in this country. But since then the number has soared.

More and more Americans are spending their weekends parachuting. Clubs now total more than 200.

The wave of enthusiasm is not surprising, Hans Halberstadt and his fellow Calistoga Skydivers will tell you.

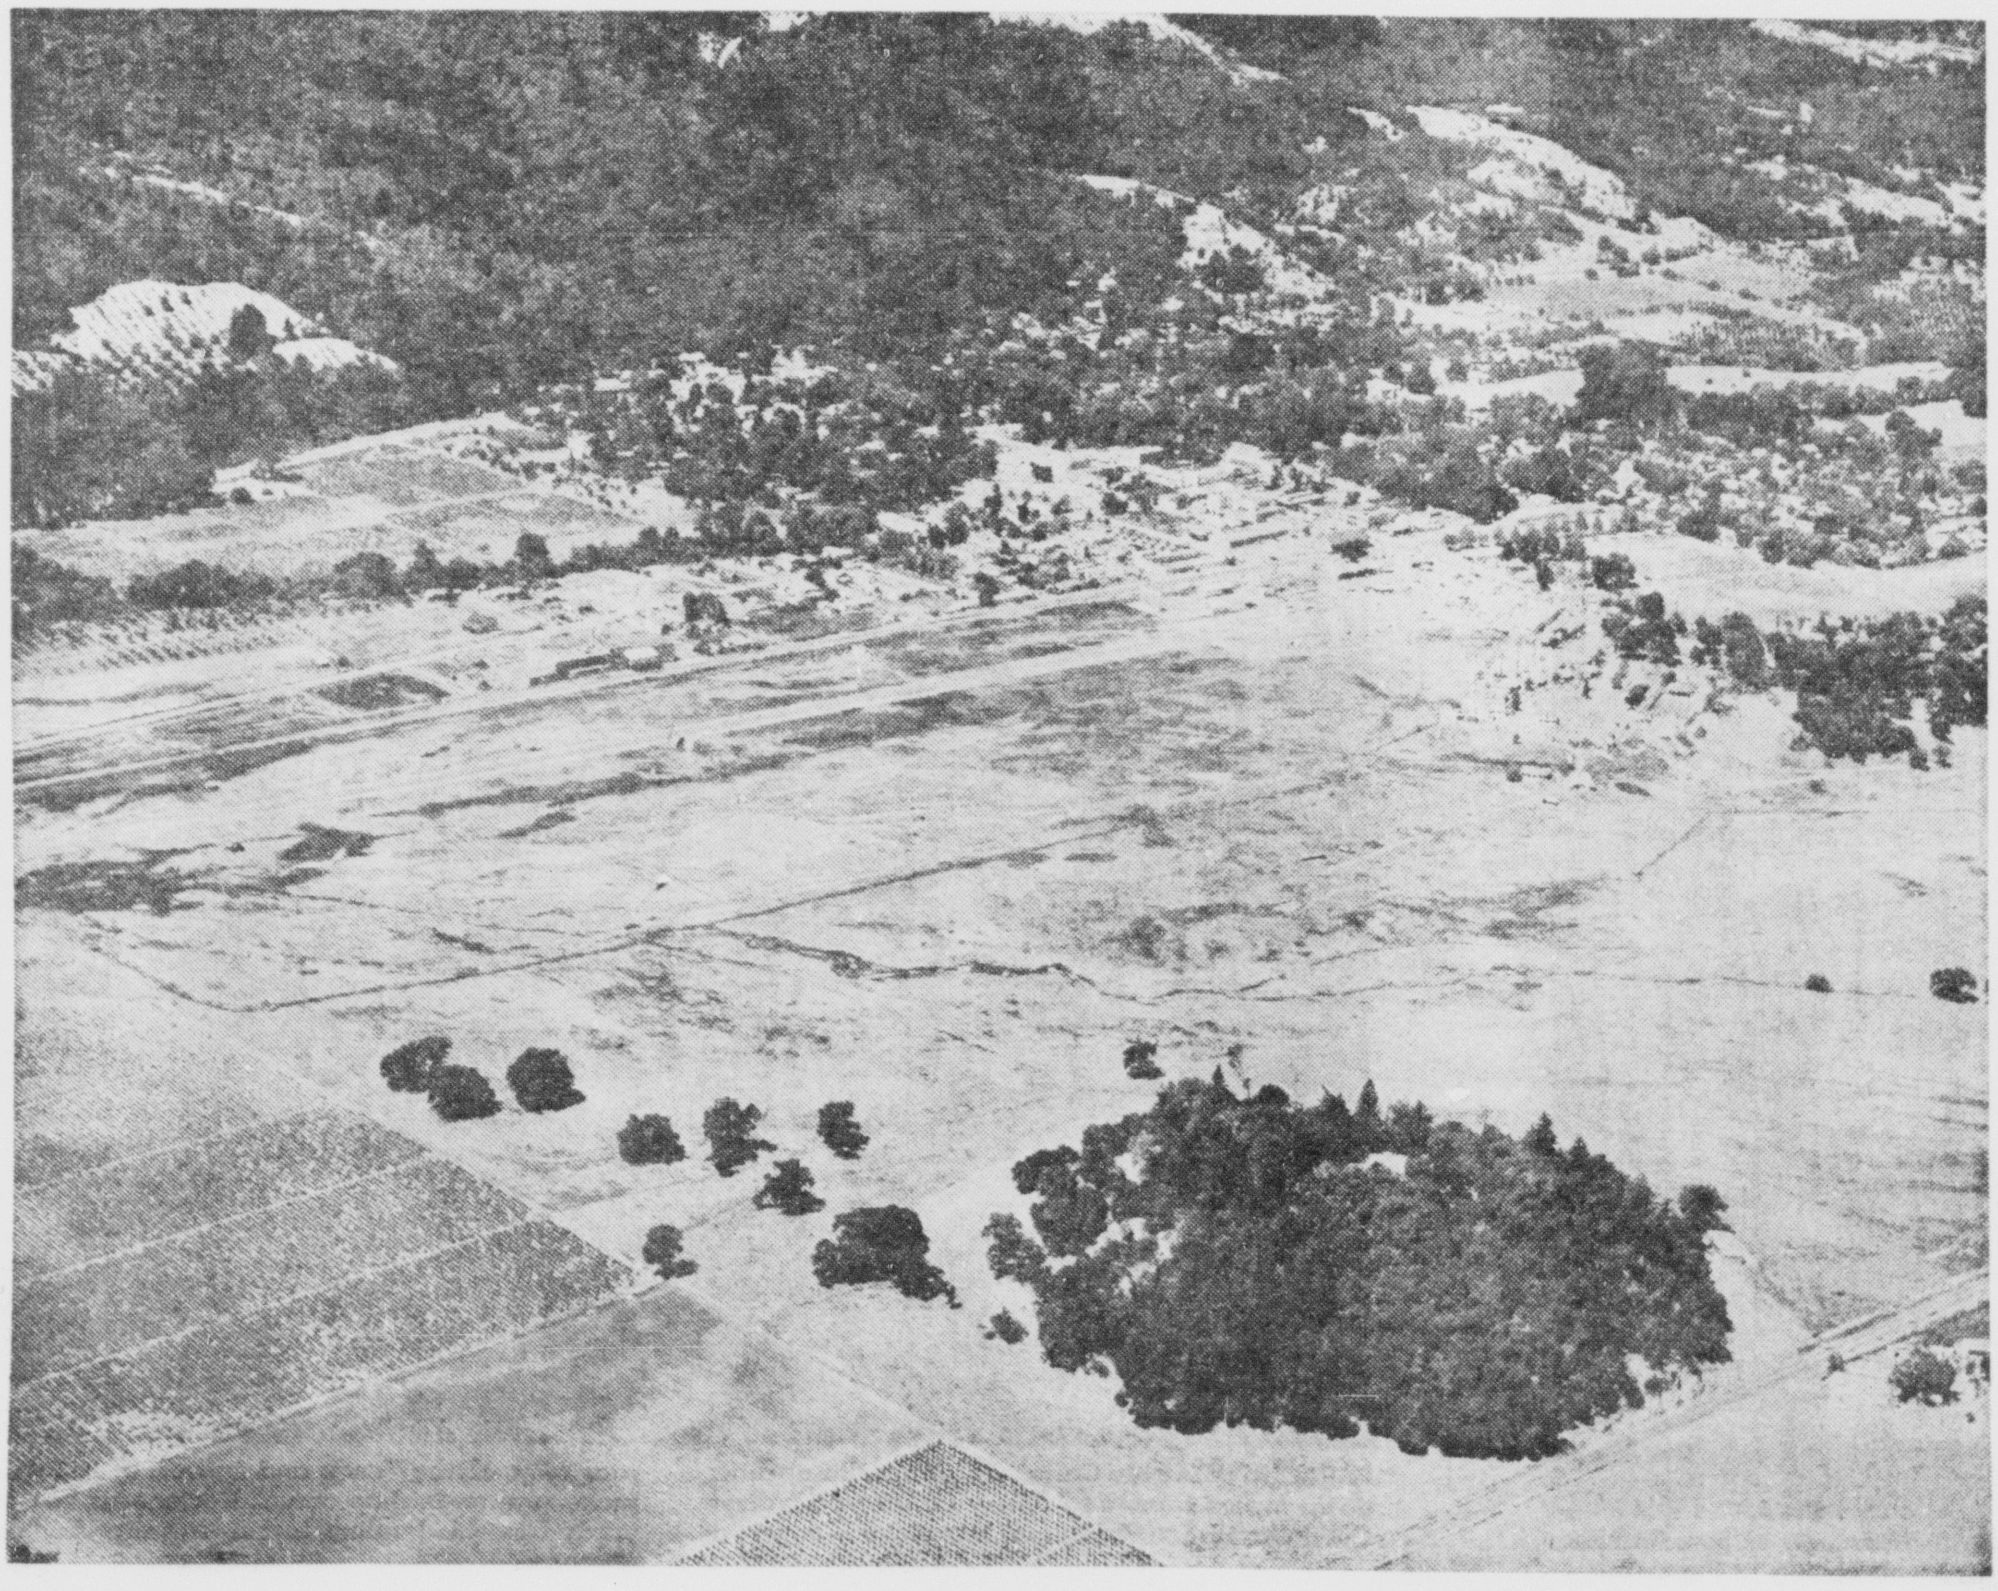

Sports parachuting includes two principal areas of skill—style in the freefall before the parachute is opened, and accuracy in landing. Style indicates that during the descent the parachutist should have complete control about the three axes of his body—the vertical axis (he can make fast turns at will and stop this on heading); the horizontal axis (he can make perfect forward and backward loops; the longitudinal axis (he can make barrel rolls while remaining on heading and can vary his rate of vertical descent and control his forward glide in relation to the landing target or point).

The elapsed time in a free-fall from a bail-out at, say, 7,000 feet until the chute is opened at 2,500 feet is about 30 seconds. During that plummet downward, the human body's speed will vary from 120 to 160 miles per hour, with acceleration ceasing between 10 and 12 seconds after the bail-out.

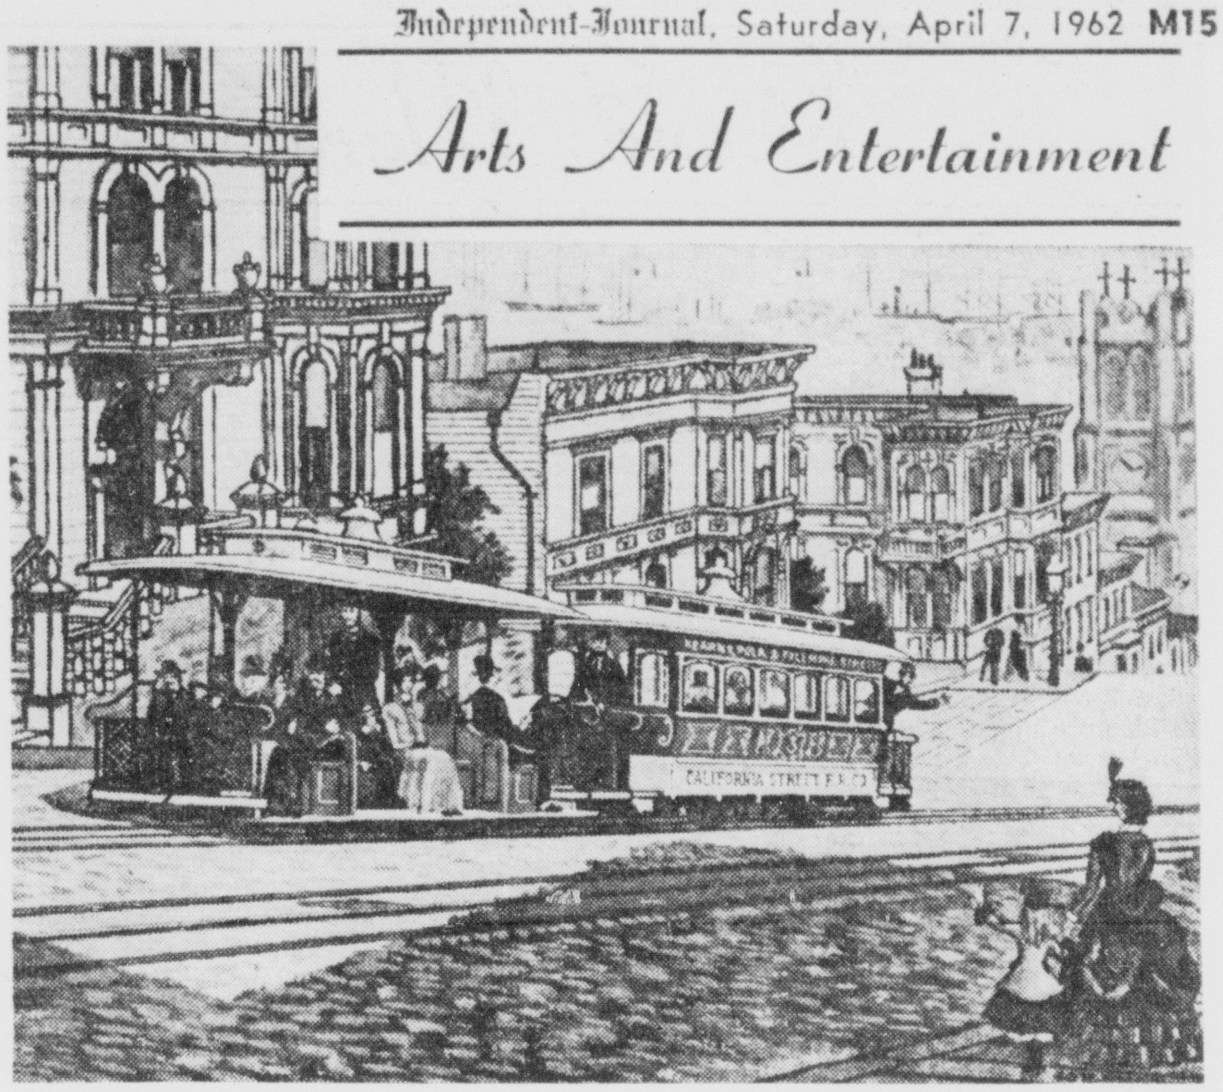

IT IS FUN, its devotees say, in the same way that a small boy finds it fun to jump from a hayloft down onto a haystack.

But the thrill, they add, is a man-sized one — greatly multiplied and intensified and extended over a longer period.

It is, they claim, the ideal sport for the person who enjoys speed and competition. And who likes the feeling of freedom that comes from being high up in the blue yonder, looking down upon mankind below.

Arts And Entertainment

THE FLAVOR OF old San Francisco is captured in this jacket art work for "This Was San Francisco." The book, published by David McKay Co. Inc., is a collection of first-hand accounts of evolution of San Francisco from its founding to the great earthquake and fire of 1906. Oscar Lewis is the compiler and editor.

BOOK REVIEWS

Eye Witnesses Tell Of City's Evolution

THIS WAS SAN FRANCISCO compiled and edited by Oscar Lewis, David McKay Co., Inc., 291 pages, $5.95. Reviewed by Don Keown.

Oscar Lewis has used first-hand reports, many of them being published for the first time, to tell the story of San Francisco from its founding to the earthquake and great fire of 1906.

In his introduction editor Lewis makes note of the necessity for brevity. And apparently it is this factor that is responsible for our only major complaint against the book.

What Lewis has selected is worthy of inclusion. But it is unfortunate that far more could not have been included.

One result is that a not-too-balanced picture of some facets of earlier San Francisco life is presented — for instance, the controversial vigilantes, given a highly favorable presentation with none of the darker side of their picture.

But all credit to Lewis for having crowded into this limited space a wide assortment of little known and highly interesting material. His reporters include the likes of Father Francisco Palou who was part of a Spanish expedition that reached the Bay Area in 1776; Adelbert von Chamisso, member of a group of Russian explorers; Count Nikolai Rezanov, another Russian adventurer; a ship's officer turned journalist under the pen name of "Filings" during the Gold Rush days; newspaper man Bayard Taylor; British journalist Frank Marryat; San Francisco writer Charles Warren Stoddard; English novelist Anthony Trollope; Rudyard Kipling; Ambrose Bierce; and, of course, for their famed accounts of the 1906 disaster, Will Irwin and William Marion Reedy.

These and many others tell their eye-witness stories of how San Francisco's foundation as a great city was laid. The reading is as interesting as it is informative. And this makes it all the more regrettable that Lewis did not have the space to include still more of the mass of material from which he made his selections.

An Authentic Hero

GREAT WESTERNER by Bernice Blackwelder, Caxton Printers Ltd., 366 pages, $6. Reviewed by Bryce W. Anderson.

Kit Carson is aptly called "Great Westerner." He was all of that. From the time of Ashley's mountain men to the last great Indian wars, he figured constantly in the taming of the West.

Bernice Blackwelder, a former college voice teacher, has added little to the available literature on the life of Christopher Carson. But she has put much together in one book.

Mrs. Blackwelder's biography is strictly a chronological recounting, a careful tracing of old trails. Her writing style is mundane. But she is fortunate in choosing a subject whose life was so filled with great adventure that routine telling cannot rob it of its interest.

She has delved deeply into the life of Kit Carson. Where she touches on other matters contemporary to that life, her research appears not so deep. In such matters, several noticeable errors appear.

Despite these faults, however, "Great Westerner" is an almost-monumental biography, replete with much detail, of one of the most fabulously fascinating hosts who rolled back America's last frontier to put the white man's civilization across the plains and over the Rockies. And Kit Carson emerges from it as not only among the most fascinating, but probably the most commendable.

Our Revolution

VICTORY AT YORKTOWN by Donald Barr Chidsey, Crown Publishers, 190 pages, $3.95. Reviewed by Don Keown.

Books about the Civil War have been pouring from the presses in such profusion that this one about the American Revolution comes as a welcome change of pace.

Chidsey covers the course of events from the fall of 1780, when things were bleakest for the Continental cause, to the surrender of Cornwallis at Yorktown.

It is a smallish book as historical works go, and thus it is not a greatly detailed piece. But it is well-written. And Chidsey does succeed in including a great deal of interesting information omitted in many of the large, more formal history books.

The reader gains a greater understanding of such personages as George Washington, Lord Cornwallis, Lafayette, Benedict Arnold, Sir Henry Clinton, Nathaniel Greene, etc., and the tides of history in which these men were caught.

He gains an insight into military strategy of the times, and of its part in deciding the outcome of the struggle.

And he acquires an increased pride in his American heritage along with an appreciation of the tremendous odds faced by our forefathers in their heroic campaign for independence. The book is proof that history can be written realistically and still retain its patriotic values.

Inside The Circus

THE NATURE OF THE BEAST by Hans Brick, Crown Publishers, Inc., 210 pages, $3.95. Reviewed by Don Keown.

Want to be a lion tamer?

Not likely. But if you are an animal lover or a circus fan, you will still find this book by famed trainer Hans Brick to be engrossing reading fare.

Brick gives you the inside story on how not only the big cats but such other animals as bears, elephants, horses, rhinos, chimps, kangaroos and many others are trained. And in so doing, he lets you in on a mass of little-known and highly-interesting factual tidbits about these beasts.

Animal lovers will be pleased to know that Brick flatly rejects the use of brutality in the training of show and circus animals. The real secret of success, he says, is in understanding and respecting the true nature of these beasts, and then capitalizing upon that knowledge.

Paul Lynde: His Ordinary Statements Are Hilarious

By JOHN SUNIER
Editor, Bay Area FM and Cultural Guide

PAUL LYNDE: RECENTLY RELEASED (Columbia Stereo CS 8334).

There seems to be a thread of similarity about much recent comedy-on-disc. It is centered around a speech made under more or less embarassing circumstances to a group by a generally-befuddled "type" of some readily-recognizable variety. Paul Lynde's "types" include a member of "The Trip-of-the-Month Club" who tells of his good-humored misfortunes (including the loss of his wife and a cobra-bite) contracted on an African safari — a Phlegm Falls, Iowa, Drama Club member who recounts her three glorious days in New York City—a civic leader crying out against the squirrel menace in Central Park—and a social worker's frank talk to a high school assembly about sexual problems.

You have probably met every one of the indescribable characters created by Paul Lynde at one time or another. His perfectly ordinary statements gleam with hilarity because they are so close to what we have all heard so many times. Exaggeration is a part of Paul Lynde's humor that is greatly subdued to the achievement of a convincing portrayal of each character. In this he bears considerable resemblance to Mike and Elaine.

Lynde's monologues are often classics, and bear repeated hearing and enjoying.

MARIN POETS' CORNER

CENSORSHIP

They tore the living giants from the soil
And left the mountains bleak with sand and shale.
They turned the mighty river from its course
And harnessed it in place with straps of steel.
They capped the last volcano
And they cooled the desert floor
And when a vague nostalgia filled their veins
They made safe imitations
And sold tickets at the door.

But eagles found no shelter on their cliffs
And whales could not be nourished in their seas.
A wave of here and now broke from the past
They cried out for a sculptor
Who could carve a soul in tin
But found instead a smiling univac—
The world was made in balance
And there is no truth but truth.

Marin's Pied Piper Of Junior Theater

Irene Pritzker Delights In Working With Youngsters Who Like To Act

"Marin's Pied Piper," someone once called Irene Pritzker.

She's been directing children in junior theater work for 10 years, exhibits a lively enthusiasm for this kind of theatrical endeavor, and states firmly, "I just love youngsters!"

When she and her husband, George, lived in Sausalito, they early discovered, with their own two children, how appealing "acting" is to youngsters. Irene believes emphatically that the freedom of dramatic expression does great things for the growing individual.

She's directed and acted with little theater groups for years, and it was quite natural that she'd work with junior theater when her Glen and Robin came along.

(Robin is now 12, in the seventh grade at Edna Maguire School in Mill Valley, and Glen, 14, is a sophomore at Lick Wilmerding in San Francisco. They've exchanged play-acting for tennis, science, and the typical teen-age avocations.)

IRENE is probably best known in Mill Valley, where the Pritzkers have lived for 10 years, and where she has worked with the Mill Valley Junior Theater, as part of the summer program offered by the parks and recreation department. Remembered by players and audiences alike are "Slumber Boat," "The Clown Who Ran Away," "Senorita Red," (she re-wrote "Carmen" for this one, with a toy shop setting), and "Anything You Wish."

She's currently directing "Anything You Wish" in Belvedere-Tiburon, preparing the play for Friday and Saturday performances next weekend.

Finding good children's plays is a difficult task, and she's discovered the necessity of writing her own. "Anything You Wish" is one of her originals, and is a lively production that appeals to both junior players and audiences.

A SERIES of Gilbert and Sullivan operettas were also a part of the Mill Valley repertoire, and she directed "The Mikado," "Pinafore," "Iolanthe," and "Pirates of Penzance." While she has used some dance assistance, Irene usually does the choreography, music direction and scene design.

"I used to make up dance routines with a friend of mine when we were 8 or so—just for fun. We loved it, and created them for rainy day entertainment. They were all simple routines, of course, but rhythmic and fun. And when I do the sets, I draw about like a 12-year-old—maybe this is why I get along with the youngsters as well as I do," and she laughs her wonderfully contagious chuckle—one that sets her hearers to chortling, too.

Youngsters in the Corte Madera Recreation Center's drama classes came to know Irene, for she worked with them for a season or two. She also directed one of the productions put on by the Ross-Kentfield-Greenbrae workshop unit of Junior Theater.

AT OHIO Wesleyan (two years) and the University of Michigan, from which she graduated, Irene majored in English and education, and minored in speech. She never appeared in any college productions; however, during the past decade she's been active in adult little theater in Marin County.

"I've belonged to little theater groups all over the county and helped to start a lot of them. It's characteristic of Marin to have a lot of little theater activity. Marin people are cosmopolitan, active in the cultures, and find it satisfying to relax after confining jobs," she observes.

The quality of shows put on by these players has advanced, she offers, to the point where a high level of production is maintained.

"I have one complaint, though. It seems to me sometimes more money and time is spent on production (setting, effects, etc.) rather than on acting. Acting should never be submerged in elaborate sets or gimmicks."

Tryouts for her present show produced a record turnout among Reed School District youngsters, further substantiation for the "Pied Piper" reputation.

The youngsters like her as much as she likes them!

EAGER ANIMATION characterizes Irene Pritzker's directing technique when working with youngsters in children's theater. And she succeeds in transmitting her enthusiasm to her young student-actors and actresses. (Photos by Connie Beeson)

HER MOBILE FACE and depth of expression serve Irene Pritzker to good stead when directing youngsters. She can get across to them just the kind of expression and action required for a particular part.

FASCINATED, young Lisa Coleman listens to suggestions and advice from director Pritzker. Lisa has memorized all the parts of "Anything You Wish" and will pinch-hit for any member of the cast who should fall ill at the last minute.

Carport Cluttered? It's Time To Add A Storage Closet

When the carport becomes so cluttered with bikes, scooters and little red wagons that there's no room for the family auto, it's time to add a storage closet.

If the carport is an open affair, having only a roof for shelter, it's smart to build the storage closets to form an outer wall or windscreen.

With little extra effort, the storage screen can be an outstandingly handsome addition to the home. Several basic designs are possible.

FOR EXAMPLE, why not suspend it between the carport roof and the ground to achieve a floating effect? Using the carport roof's supporting posts as part of the framework for the floating storage screen, the rest of the box-like structure can be framed in with Douglas fir two-by-fours. Extra posts will be needed for one side of the unit, and these can be four-by-fours, each set on a low concrete pier to keep them free of the ground.

If the storage unit is to extend beyond the shelter of the carport roof, its roof should be slanted, shed style, towards the outside and a good shingle roof applied as protection against rain. It might also be wise to include a gutter and downspout.

Another idea, to eliminate use of gutter and downspout, would be to place the storage screen over a deep bed of gravel which would capture and drain rain water away from the carport. Bordered with pieces of slate or rough hewn rock and with river rock used for the top layer such a drainage bed can in itself be an attractive feature of the home.

For siding, use handsome tongue-and-groove panels of Douglas fir. They're easily handled by a weekend-type carpenter and can be made up, without difficulty, into doors for the storage unit.

Z-SHAPED bracing or two horizontal bars, one top and one bottom, on each door will hold the panels in place.

The tongue-and-groove fir panels can be either smooth surfaced if the paint finish is desired or resawn if stain is to be used. They're equally good looking and the choice should be determined by house siding's style and finish.

To make contents of the storage screen completely accessible, design the unit in compartments, each with its own door. Line the cabinet's interior with building paper as protection against frost, and don't forget padlocks for the door.

CHILDREN'S TOYS, garden tools and sports equipment all fit neatly into this storage wall, leaving the carport free to serve its primary purpose — sheltering the family automobile. Cabinet exterior is of resawn tongue-and-groove Douglas Fir, framing is fir two-by-fours. The storage screen effectively conceals the car from street view and lends a sleek appearance to the home.

Simple Care Of Plumbing Will Pay Off

Did you know that just by flushing hot water down your kitchen and bathroom drains each day you can usually prevent clogging?

There are many simple steps a person can take to avoid plumbing trouble throughout the house. Barring age, a good plumbing system will give trouble only when the householder forgets, or is unaware, that the system should get the same consideration and simple maintenance he gives his automobile.

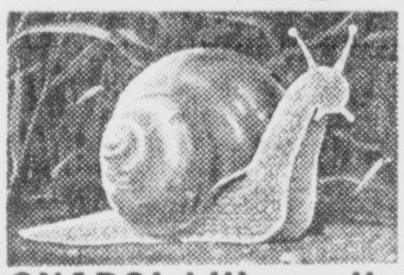

A booklet entitled "Plumbing Care and Repair" is available for 10 cents. It contains tips on how to prevent plumbing trouble and what to do if something does go wrong. Write to the Plumbing-Heating-Cooling Information Bureau, 35 East Wacker Dr., Chicago 1, Ill.

A few of its suggestions: Use a "plumber's friend," a plunger, to clear simple clogged drain lines.

If the water closet tank fills too much or not enough, try bending the rod attached to the metal tank float upward or downward.

An uneven shower spray can probably be remedied by removing the face of the shower head, cleaning its back surface and freeing the holes with a coarse needle.

INSURANCE SALVAGE GROUPS HELP KEEP RATES DOWN

Kicking the flattened tire of his badly damaged car, the owner asked what was to become of the wreck.

I told him that for insurance purposes it was a total wreck and he would be paid the actual cash value for the car.

"Then what?" he questioned. Do you tow it to the nearest dump?

Actually it was not too many years ago when that would have been the case but today it is not true.

Underwriters Salvage Companies, founded in 1893 by a group of insurance companies who recognized the need for centralizing salvage efforts after a fire or other casualty, handle more than $50 million of damaged items every year.

The idea for car salvage was born in 1938 but was delayed because of World War II. The plan first went into effect on the west coast and in the last 12 years the Underwriters Salvage Company there has collected and sold the salvage of some 25,000 cars, trucks and trailers. The plan has since been introduced in other parts of the country.

The salvage operation enables companies to dispose quickly of wrecked cars and an almost endless variety of merchandise damaged in fires, floods and storms. This helps to lessen claim payments and, in effect, hold down the cost of insurance.

Car salvage, actually, is a very small segment of the Underwriters Salvage operation. Everything from shoes and television sets to yard goods and coffins are handled.

The salvage groups offer five specific services.

They will inventory an assured's goods on his premises.

They will verify an assured's inventory by reference to his merchandise.

They will examine and estimate the degree of damage.

They will assign men to supervise removal of goods to a company warehouse to prevent further deterioration.

They will, when an adjuster and a policyholder are unable to agree on an amount of damage, remove goods to a company warehouse, recondition and sell them.

This column will be glad to answer questions you may have about property and casualty insurance. Send them to:

NEW TO AMERICA from Turkey is the ornamental dark opal basil. Its foliage is a deep, almost black, purple with a bronzy sheen that has an irredescent changing quality in the breeze. It's sprinkled with lavender blossoms. It grows to a 12-inch height, ideal for a low hedge along a walk or patio where its fragrance can be appreciated. And it's a tasty herb in a soup or on lamb, just a wee bit sweeter than the more familiar green basil. (Photo by Ferry-Morse Seed Co.)

A CHECKLIST FOR GARDENERS OF MARIN

Here is the Marin gardener's checklist for the coming week:

✔ Begonia seedlings may be planted now. Stake the tender young plants and feed them twice monthly with liquid fish.

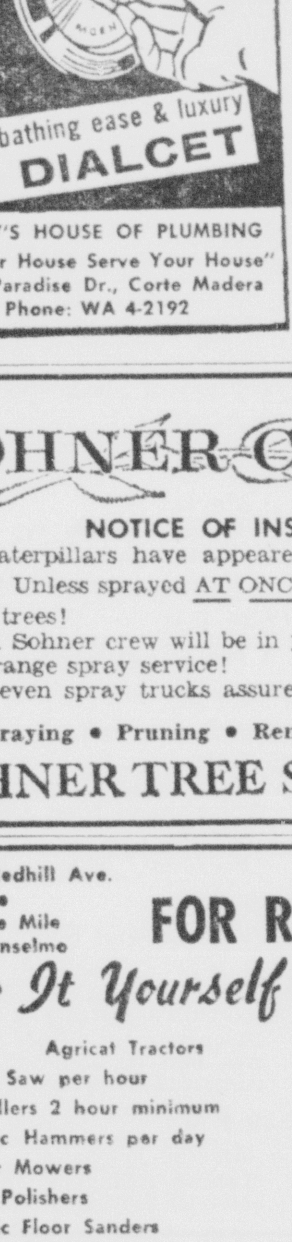

✔ Caterpillars often show up on Wisteria and on a few other favorites this time of year. Spray them before they get started.

✔ Plant annuals for late spring and summer bloom.

✔ Container grown fuchsias should be fed and watered more frequently than those in the ground. Pinch the growing tip back, too, to promote bush growth.

✔ Pot up Pelargoniums and Geraniums for bright color on sunny decks and terraces.

Want An Attractive But Small Tree? Try The Japanese Maple

If someone asked you to name the most attractive small tree in the general nursery trade, you could make a good case for the Japanese maples.

At lease it would be very hard to find others more attractive.

Whether grown as bonsai dwarfs, as container trees or as full size specimens, Japanese maples are all the gardener could ask. Their delicately cut leaves, modest size and attractive fall coloring are all plus factors. And even if the fall color does not reach its potential, as often happens in even-temperature coastal gardens, you cannot really find fault with this handsome tree.

Nurserymen offer several Japanese maples which the gardener should acquaint himself with. Commonest of them is the standard green leaf variety which so often fills the need of a small patio tree.

AN UNUSUAL three-dimensional effect is provided by this western pine wood fence, which is, in reality, two fences. A lattice-work has been built several inches in front of the main fence, thereby creating an attractive pattern of light and shade—and a sturdy trellis for climbing plants. (Western Pine Assn. photo)

BLONDE, BEAUTIFUL and 20 years old, Pamela Austin began her theatrical career as a dancer. But she has since become a dramatic actress, and will appear as such next Friday night in the "77 Sunset Strip" episode entitled "The Steerer." KGO carries the show at 9 o'clock.

Bellach's Design Center Sleep Shoppe

People may walk the same...talk the same...even look the same

...but they're not the same when it comes to sleeping comfort

Now, choose your comfort...extra firm or gently firm with

SEALY POSTUREPEDIC®

Two new Posturepedics...alike, yet different; and vive le difference! Alike because both have exclusive Durolife® Coil that relaxes easily, gently with your weight; yet never stops supporting under any weight. The delightful difference is in the comfort; extra firm Posturepedic with the added firmness often recommended by doctors, or gently firm Princess Posturepedic that pampers you on a luxury layer of foam. Both are pure Posturepedic, both are good to you (and to your back). Come in today; pamper yourself on a Sealy Posturepedic. Full or twin size...Matching foundation same price $79.50

Try the all new Posturepedic Foam Rubber...sold only in sets $159.00
